REDS THREATEN ALL OF EUROPE, SENATOR WARNS

Wheeler Warns of Russ-British Rift.

A fear that communism may soon engulf all Europe inspired senatorial words of caution yesterday in Washington, D. C., against American underwriting of a peace which may be only a temporary prelude to a third World war. Sen. Wheeler (D., Mont.) and Sen. Gillette (D., Ia.) expressed alarm over the probable result of the political maneuvers of Churchill and Stalin. The Wheeler warning follows. The Gillette story will be found on page 6.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—Sen. Wheeler (D., Mont.) and other senators are preparing to take a stand against American underwriting of the peace of Europe until it appears what kind of a European status quo Americans are to be called on to guarantee.

The senatorial concern is the result of the political maneuverings of the British and Russian governments and the Communists and other groups in Italy and Greece in which Secretary of State Stettinius has intervened with an admonition in favor of national self-determination.

The struggle in both Italy and Greece is between the monarchists supported by the British and the Communists and other radical groups aided and abetted by Russian Dictator Stalin. There was the same struggle in Jugoslavia in which Stalin eventually prevailed, the British and King Peter being compelled to accept Tito, Stalin's Communist protege, as the de facto authority.

Counsels Caution.

Surveying the advance of communism in Europe and the growing rivalry between Britain and Russia, Sen. Wheeler counseled caution in committing the United States to the Dumbarton Oaks post-war peace enforcement scheme. While the Roosevelt administration is planning to get the plan signed by the powers and presented to the senate by next spring, Wheeler urged postponement of action till after the end of the war.

"Before the American people get too enthusiastic about what they think is going to be the status quo in Europe, we had better wait until the peace is written," said Wheeler.

In Wheeler's view, the current events in Italy and Greece are merely a curtain raiser for the sweep of communism over Europe with the end of the war.

Sees New Rivalry.

"What is taking place in Europe today demonstrates in a small way the terrible chaotic conditions that will exist after the war, with disease, starvation, revolution, and counter-revolution," he said.

"I do not believe that Great Britain and the United States can prevent communism from sweeping over Europe unless they use the power of their armies to prevent it. And that would be only temporary.

"You can already see the beginning of a new rivalry between Great Britain and Russia, which may develop from an economic rivalry into an armed rivalry unless great caution is displayed on the part of both Marshal Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill."

G.O.P. Urged to Oust Dewey as Party Head

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—Bidding farewell to the house in which he has been a popular figure for more than 24 years, Rep. Fish (R., N. Y.) today urged Republicans to discard Thomas E. Dewey as their titular leader and form, with anti-New New Deal Democrats, a new party alignment.

Rep. Fish.

Six feet 3 inches of indignation, the New York congressman assailed Dewey as the man mainly responsible for his "purge" in the recent election.

He also accused the New York governor of "stupid and colossal" blunders, which lost him 2 million votes in the Presidential campaign and may have prevented a Republican majority in the house.

Referring to his own defeat, Fish said that all the efforts of President Roosevelt, Sidney Hillman's PAC, and the Communists to defeat him would have failed if Dewey had not coöperated with them by denouncing him as un-American for stating that a majority of the Jews in New York City would vote for Roosevelt.

Charges "Selfish" Purpose.

This Dewey statement, made for "selfish political purposes," was the direct cause not only of his own defeat but of Dewey's, Fish asserted. He contended that it cost at least a million Democratic and a million Republican votes which would otherwise have been cast for the Republican candidate and for Republican candidates for congress.

"I bitterly resent Gov. Dewey's raising a racial and religious issue out of my stating a fact which has never been denied," he told the house. "Since when is it un-American to tell the truth or mention the word Jew, any more than the words Christian, Irish, Italian, Pole, or Negro?

"If it is, then free speech, the essence of Americanism, ceases to exist and the inalienable and constitutional right of every American is placed in jeopardy."

Fish, who was commander of a Negro regiment in the last World war, said he never had been anti-Semitic in his life. He noted that he was the author of the Palestine resolution, adopted in 1922, which was incorporated in the Republican platform of 1944.

Assails Dewey Record.

"What right has Gov. Dewey to call me un-American?" he asked. "I do not remember ever having heard of his serving a day in our armed forces or risking his life fighting the Germans, altho he was in his 30s when World War II. started. No wonder he lost the soldier vote by 2 to 1 in New York state and elsewhere!"

Fish predicted that Dewey would be defeated by half a million votes if he sought reëlection as New York governor.

"At least that number of voters, like myself, who supported him in spite of himself, are now convinced

COLD TO STRIKE IN SNOW'S WAKE

Icy Roads Are Forecast; Storm Reaches South.

A spell of colder weather, which was expected to transform slush in Chicago streets into an icy crust, was predicted by the weather bureau last night as the season's first big snowstorm in the middle west continued to move eastward, penetrating the south as far as Tallahassee, Fla.

The Chicago snowfall since 4 a. m. Sunday reached last night an official depth of 10.2 inches in weather bureau measures. Until late yesterday, when the snow turned dry, the bulk of the snowfall, sodden with moisture, packed down to an actual depth of about 7 inches in streets and highways. Driving conditions continued hazardous, altho all streets and highways were reported "passable."

At Least 19 Killed.

Earl S. Hanlon, government forecaster, said the storm caused at least 19 deaths in its sweep across the middle west from Colorado to Nebraska. A heavy snowstorm hit Ohio and West Virginia, and flurries fell in Mississippi, Arkansas, Alabama, Tennessee, South Carolina, and Georgia, where temperatures dropped below freezing.

Last night's light snow, blown about by a 20 mile an hour wind, was reported to have drifted in some sections.

2,000 at Work on Snow.

The city bureau of streets had a crew of 2,000 at work on clearing city thorofares and operated 19 snowplows in the loop area alone, Commissioner Lloyd M. Johnson reported. County and state highway maintenance departments operated snow removal equipment on roads in outlying sections.

Only center of travel still curtailing operations yesterday was Chicago airport, where only two of the 30 scheduled incoming flights landed, and only two of the 27 outgoing flights took off.

Toboggan slides in the forest preserves were opened yesterday.

Chief Harry Yde of the state police warned motorists to drive safely.

The Chicago Motor club reported driving conditions generally hazardous. One way traffic was reported on roads out of Dixon, Ill. At Moline, where there were 10 inches of snow, roads were open but risky.

Weary Yanks Can't Believe It but They're on Way Home

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. 3D ARMY IN FRANCE, Dec. 11.—They were in a replacement depot this afternoon beyond the sound of guns that had been hammering their ears for too many weeks. They had been told that their next stop would be Paris and then home for 30 days. But they still were regaining this incredible gift of the war department to battle worn troops with suspicion as tho fearful they might awaken and find themselves still shackled to their rifles, their gas masks, their foxholes, and the eternal mud.

Pvt. Adam Sadowski.

The first man we saw was Capt. Jack Gerrie, Ripon, Wis. We had met him outside Metz while the battle for that fortress city still was raging. He said he didn't believe it when they told him he was going home and still couldn't quite believe he was about to see the United States after a three year absence.

Holds Four Medals.

"They telephoned and asked me, 'How'd you like 30 days in the United States?'" he recounted. "I said, 'Forget the malarkey. What do you want?'"

Gerrie swam the river at Fontainebleau and won the distinguished service cross. He got a bronze star for the first ill-fated Moselle river crossing at Dornot and the croix de guerre for the Fort Driant attack. Somewhere along the line he picked up the Purple Heart.

Corp. Clare Moen, 32, of 5508 Adams st., Chicago, who has been verseas two years and eight months with the 5th division, said he had tried to get home before because his father was ill. He says he will see what he hasn't seen in Chicago. "The subway—that's something new," he said.

A Ring for a Girl.

Pvt. Adam J. Sadowski, 28, of 6047 Matson av., Chicago, 35th division member, who was wounded three times and once was reported missing in action when he got behind German lines, was guarding prisoners when told he had been tapped.

"I'm gonna buy an engagement ring for Miss Evelyn Kupsik, 2327 Cortez st., Chicago," he said, "and then I gotta call my brother Jim in the navy at Norfolk, write my brother Chester here in France, and radio my brother Arthur. He's in the navy on sea duty. I'm also gonna do a lot of bowling and visiting. But the first thing I want is steak with strawberry shortcake. Then I'll stay in a bathtub for four hours and sleep in a real bed."

He said he didn't believe it when they told him he was going home and still couldn't quite believe he was about to see the United States after a three year absence.

Sgt. Walter Lassen, 20, of 949 N. Humphrey av., Oak Park, Ill., of the 80th division, overseas six months and twice wounded, said that when he gets home "I'm just going to sit around a while."

Feels Pretty Good.

Corp. Robert S. Harmon, 1039 S. Grove av., Oak Park, a 5th division ordnance man overseas three years, whose wife lives at 230 N. Mason av., Chicago, grinned and said that when they told him he was homeward bound he felt "pretty good."

95th Takes a Bow

WITH AMERICAN 3D ARMY, Dec. 11 (AP).—Since Berlin juggled the Franco-German border in 1940 to embrace Alsace-Lorraine, there are no markers along the frontier where the 3d army has been crossing. So, the army put up little signs saying: "You are now entering enemy territory. Remain alert." But along the road which the 95th division fought on the way to Saarlautern there is a much larger sign. It says: "You are now entering Germany thru the courtesy of the 95th division."

DRIVE GERMANS FROM 2 FRENCH STRONGHOLDS

PARIS, Dec. 11 (AP).—The Germans were driven from their French buffer cities of Haguenau and Sarreguemines today and their last defenses west of the Roer river west of Cologne were caving in as three United States armies redoubled blows at Germany from the west and south.

Indications mounted that the enemy was withdrawing in numerous sectors along the western front, before the 1st army at the approaches to Cologne's plain, and before the 3d and 7th from Sarreguemines to the Rhine.

Lt. Gen. Hodges' 1st army was threatening the last two towns on the approaches to Duren, key to the Roer river line, and a front dispatch said the Germans appeared to be fighting mainly a screening action while moving the bulk of their strength across the Roer to new defense positions.

Shell Cities Deep in Saar.

Lt. Gen. Patton's 3d army broke the stubborn German resistance in Sarreguemines, standing at the southern door to the industrial Saar basin, and lanced three miles northeast to the border. Big guns hammered two Saar cities five to seven miles inside the basin.

Lt. Gen. Patch's 7th army captured Haguenau—greatest base left to the enemy in France—and one column speared into the Maginot line town of Woerth, eight miles to the north and seven miles from Germany. Farther west, beyond Niederbronn, the Americans hacked at enemy positions less than four miles from the German border.

The 1st army's drive on the Roer river positions added up to three miles in two days as four more towns in a 15 mile assault arc were captured, four or five more were entered, and others were by-passed. Despite patchy weather, 300 fighter bombers ripped into German positions ahead of the Americans.

The 1st was closing hard upon

TRIBUNE WRITER SEES BOMBERS RAID JAP ISLE

BY FRANK STURDY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AN ALEUTIAN ISLANDS AIR BASE, Dec. 6 [Delayed].—The Japanese air base at Suribachi on Paramushiru Island, in the Kuriles, was bombed today by B-24 Liberator bombers of the 11th air force in a daylight raid.

Lt. R. J. Wickman.

Bombs left the field's runways heavily pocked and at least one building was demolished by a direct hit.

There was no opposition from fighter planes, an unusual oversight on the part of the Japs. The gunners, eager young men, complained bitterly over having nothing to shoot at. Riding in the lead plane of the formation, I was content, however, with the Japs' decision to rest their hopes on shooting us down with anti-aircraft fire. Their flak flew below and between the planes in the formation and our bomber was holed four times.

All four planes in the flight came safely thru the bombing run altho the Japs kept throwing flak for a long time after we turned away from the target.

Long Flight Over Water.

The raid was made by pilots of a bomber squadron which, with units of other types, forms what the pilots themselves call the forgotten 11th, which has been overlooked in the focusing of attention on other air force theaters. It has not been overshadowed, however, because the 11th's missions are the longest overwater combat flights without fighter cover.

These bombers must win a never ending battle with foul North Pacific weather before they even reach the Japs.

The Japanese fight back hard and the pursuit planes they have sent up to meet most daylight raids outnumbered the 11th's bombers three to one. Most raids are now made at night to avoid losses.

Between the 11th's base and the Japs there are 800 miles of ocean so cold the year around that the crews of planes forced down, even if they are able to make successful emergency landings, have almost no hope of rescue. They can survive only minutes in the freezing brine.

One Storm After Another.

Violent storms virtually chase one another across this expanse of sea. Sometimes only a few hours separate them. Headwinds of 100 miles an hour and more, and fog, rain, and snow are encountered in unorthodox and deadly combinations.

Today's raid involved a round trip of 1,700 miles, covered in a little less than 10 hours. We started early in the afternoon. Lt. R. J. Wickman, whose wife lives at 10214

Suggests French Occupy Germany

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 11.—A recommendation that the French army be mobilized in sufficient strength to occupy Germany after victory so American soldiers can be relieved of that job and get a rest in the United States before going on to finish off Japan will be made by an American congressman.

Rep. Shafer [R., Mich.], who has been visiting the battle front with 16 other members of the house military affairs committee, today said: "What gripes our boys over here is seeing so many French boys of military age not on the fighting line. I believe they should be mobilized and equipped as soon as possible.

"There are thousands of trained French soldiers anxious and ready to fight if only they can get equipment. I am satisfied they should be taken into the army and moved up front as fast as this can be done without interfering with the main war effort."

British Plan Token Army.

Shafer said a British brigadier told him that Britain, after victory over Germany, would need all her man power to reconstruct her own country and therefore at the most could supply only a token army to fight Japan.

"I am convinced," Shafer added, "that many of our boys here will have to fight in Japan, too, before the war is over. We should prepare now to get them back to America and see that they get a good rest at home before going across the Pacific, where we still have a tough job ahead."

The congressman will advocate a full inquiry into the rate of exchange at which American soldiers are being paid in France.

"They're being paid now the equivalent of $12 a month—and they should be paid in dollars," he said.

He also advocated "combat pay" for doctors who are serving at the front.

Stars and Stripes Criticized.

Shafer said American soldiers want news from home, and are dissatisfied with the army organ, Stars and Stripes, which he charged "editorializes" in its news columns and feeds the soldiers propaganda.

"The American soldier is entitled to read the newspapers he wants to read and provisions should be made to see he gets from home the news he's interested in," he said.

Shafer doesn't think our propaganda is any too good, either. "The French think it was the British and not the Americans who equipped and are now feeding the French 1st army," he said.

YANKS SPRING TRAP TO SOUTH OF LEYTE PORT

Destroy Thousands; 2 Divisions Unite.

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HDQ., Philippines, Dec. 12 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Annihilation of the entire defending garrison at Ormoc, captured port on Leyte Island, and destruction of thousands of Japanese trapped in a pocket to the south were announced by Gen. MacArthur today.

MacArthur said the 77th division which landed last week four miles below Ormoc had been joined by the 7th division, closing the southern jaw of a nutcracker vise, and "enemy forces which were trapped between the two have been destroyed."

Great quantities of equipment and supplies were seized.

Fighting Is Desperate.

Fall of Ormoc, Japan's last big port of reënforcement for her troops to the north, was a sharp blow to the enemy. Its capture Sunday was announced yesterday.

"The fighting in Ormoc itself before its fall was of the most desperate character," MacArthur reported.

"The southern segment of the Yamashita line has been eliminated," the bulletin added.

Thousands of Japs Caught.

The general reported yesterday that "many thousands" of Japanese were in the pocket between the 77th and 7th divisions. A third Yank division, the 32d, was pressing against the Japanese to the north despite almost impassable terrain.

The surprise landing of the 77th south of Ormoc last week split the enemy forces. Capture of Ormoc Sunday ended the possibility of reënforcement or supply and nipped any hope the two forces may have had of retiring into that battered port for a junction and final stand.

Taken in Four Days.

Maj. Gen. Andrew Bruce's 77th division seized Ormoc in a lightning move to the north from its easily won beachhead, capitalizing on the lack of enemy resistance. In four days it battled thru to its objective, living and fighting on what it carried on its back.

Air activity continued on a destructive scale. Airdromes in the central Philippines were bombed anew and enemy shipping was blasted over a wide area. Petroleum installations on Borneo took direct bomb hits, flooding the Tarakan and Balikpapan fields with flaming oil. One freighter was sunk offshore.

Iwo Bombed Again.

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Dec. 11 (AP).—Seventh army air force Liberators continued aerial blows at the Japanese base on Iwo Island, in the Volcanoes, Friday and Saturday, the navy reported today. Adm. Nimitz also reported new thrusts at the Bonins, the Palaus, the Marianas, and the Marshalls.

U. S. CRUISER SUNK—TOKYO.
[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Two large transports, a cruiser or large destroyer, and two landing barges were rammed and sunk by Japanese planes in Surigao strait southeast of Leyte Island, Japanese headquarters claimed yesterday.

Destruction of a second cruiser or large destroyer was also reported in the bulletin. Six planes, the Nipponese asserted, did all the damage.

GREEKS SHELL ATHENS; R. A. F. ROUTS REBELS

Fires Set in City Square; Buildings Dynamited.

ATHENS, Greece, Dec. 11 (AP).—ELAS forces massed in outlying districts sent mortar shells crashing into the heart of Athens today, setting fires near Constitution square. R. A. F. Beaufighters strafed and dispersed an ELAS concentration reportedly massing in a suburb.

The ELAS, fighting arm of the left wing EAM party, was reported to be attempting to stage an all out attack on central Athens, having been delayed by heavy rains in opening its offensive last night.

Both the ELAS and the British were reënforced in Athens, the ELAS infiltrating into the city during the night and the British troops pouring in during the day.

Greeks Dynamite Buildings.

ELAS troops took several buildings and apartment houses without opposition last night. Today they employed a new tactic of dynamiting and setting afire buildings and houses. Numerous casualties were reported when several buildings were blown up in fashionable quarters of the city.

Dispatches filed abroad by correspondents in the capital were delayed because heavy machine gun fire had cut off the cable and wireless building.

Two other actions were reported outside the city. The first was a dawn attack by Greek regulars which broke up another ELAS formation and the second the ambushing of a British patrol heading southward from Volos.

Greek mountain brigades, supported by British Sherman tanks, effected the break-up of the large ELAS concentration in the foothills of Mount Hymettus where the ELAS had made the mistake of deploying on open terrain of semi-wasteland, ideal for tank operations.

A New Zealand colonel with the Greek regulars said at least 300 ELAS had been killed in this area in the last two days. Two hundred were taken prisoner today when the coördinated attack was launched at dawn.

Take Prisoners in Hospital.

A number of the prisoners were taken in the Greek Red Cross hospital. Their commander, Maj. Georgiades, said he was a member of the Communist party and that he and his fellow officers believed the whole battle would end if a new national government were formed.

He said his battalion included 18 Italians and that in other formations there were several dozen Germans who had deserted from the Nazi army. He said Russians with the ELAS left 15 days ago when they were ordered to do so by the soviet mission in Athens.

A bulletin issued by Maj. Gen. R. M. Scobie, British commander in Greece, said:

"Considerable progress has been made in Piraeus [the port of Athens] but the situation generally remains unchanged."

An impartial source, meanwhile, reported the ELAS leaders were ready to withdraw from Athens and from all the department of Attica in return for guarantees that they would not be prosecuted. He described the leftist leaders as "realizing now that they will eventually lose" in the conflict.

Alexander Sent to Greece.

LONDON, Dec. 11 (AP).—The Daily Mail said tonight that Field Marshal Alexander, new supreme allied commander in the Mediterranean, had been sent to Greece "with personal instructions from Prime Minister Churchill to end the fighting there as quickly as possible."

Four German Civilians Go Astray; Yanks Fine Them

WITH AMERICAN 3D ARMY, Dec. 11 (AP).—In the first announced summary court-martial action against German civilians in the 3d army area four persons were convicted today of leaving their communities without permission and were fined $30. The hearing was held in the 5th division's sector, with two men and six women accused of illegal wandering. Four were acquitted.

Montreal Elects Houde, Ex-Internee, as Mayor

MONTREAL, Dec. 11 (AP).—Camillien Houde, firebrand of municipal and provincal politics for more than a decade, was elected mayor of Montreal today, four months after he came out of internment. He defeated Adhemar Raynault by about 10,000 votes. Houde had been interned for urging noncompliance with national registration regulations.

Greek-Americans Ask U. S. to Intercede in Homeland

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11 (AP).—A Greek-American delegation today asked the state department to mediate in the battle between British forces and Greek resistance groups.

The delegation also protested to the British embassy, calling upon London to "cease its bloody attempt to shackle the Greek people once more with dictatorship."

Stelos Pistolakis, former member of the Greek parliament, was spokesman for the group. Now president of the Greek-American committee for national unity, he said he was expelled from his country in 1939. He said he is a member of the Liberal party there.

About 15 representatives presented the memorandum and said they spoke for several hundred thousand Greeks and Americans of Greek descent in this country.

Back Stettinius.

In a memorandum presented to the state department the delegation expressed its full support of Secretary of State Stettinius' statement last week backing the principle of nonintervention in internal politics in liberated countries.

The group asked the state department "to implement America's active interest in Greek independence until the present crisis, which is fraught with danger for the common cause of the united nations is resolved in the interests of Greek democracy and allied unity."

"Great Britain's frenzied attack upon the national liberation of Greece helps no one but the Fascists," the memorandum said.

Find Peace Jeopardized.

"It corrodes the fabric of the united nations; it prolongs the war; it jeopardizes the peace."

In the protest to British Ambassador Halifax, the group protested Prime Minister Churchill's description of the Greek ELAS.

"Gangsterism and attempts at dictatorship do not stem from the EAM [political group heading the ELAS armed forces]—they stem from armed foreign intervention which backs a small group of native Fascists, reactionaries, and Quisling collaborators."

The delegation said London vetoed an attempt by Themistocles Sophoulis, aged Liberal party leader, to form a coalition government.

Protest Slaughter.

In turn, the protest said Sophoulis turned down a British request that he support Prime Minister Papandreou "declaring if he did it would mean supporting a dictatorship."

Pistolakis declared his group was protesting against "the slaughter in the streets of Athens by order of the British government."

He said the British government was bolstering King George. He called the king fascist and said he is hated and despised by the people.

Prince Paul a Factor.

A factor in the foreboding Greek picture is Prince Paul, named regent by King George. The king acceded earlier this year to demands that he keep out of Greece until a plebiscite is held on whether he should return.

However, he went to London from the seat of the Greek government in exile in Cairo and named Paul to act as regent.

Paul remains in Cairo. Informed persons say his entrance into Greece would surely cause even more bitter and widespread hostilities.

TELLS HOW 34 YANKS FIGHT 200 JAP CHUTISTS

LEYTE, Dec. 10 [Delayed]—(AP).—Landing of 200 Japanese parachutists near an eastern Leyte air field at San Pablo Dec. 6, and the valiant resistance of 34 outnumbered Americans was described today by a 5th air force troop carrier surgeon.

Maj. George Murphy of Paterson, N. J., told how the small band of flyers and ground crewmen stood fast thru the night and fought off Japanese parachutists shortly after dawn. Of the 34 men, only 12 returned to the American lines. Four pilots, a communications officer, and 17 enlisted men are missing.

Murphy said he counted 24 enemy transport planes gliding in low over Leyte's mountains.

Two Transports Crash.

"It was too dark to see the 'chutists fall, but there was a terrific ack-ack display and I did see two transports crash in flames," he said.

Corp. Thomas Berzedett of Kentucky, one of the 12 who got back to the American lines, said:

"We only had small arms, but we did our best to shoot 'em as they floated down."

Murphy said the enemy sky-troopers hid in the undergrowth and dense woods near the field.

Kill 12 Filipinos.

The soldiers slept on the ground with guns at their sides. The Japanese remained in hiding until 6:20, when the men were in the mess hall eating breakfast. A small group of Japanese was spotted and fired upon as it advanced from a near-by rice paddy.

The troops withdrew quickly to their foxholes. And soon nearly a hundred Japanese charged the mess hall.

"About a dozen Filipinos still in the mess hall were slaughtered," Corp. Berzedett said. "We had carbines, .45s, and one tommy gun. The Japs had light mortars and grenades, as well as machine guns. It was one hell of a situation.

"I saw the boy with the tommy gun—he's a master sergeant from Texas named Betson—shoot down eight Japs."

Saves Wounded Officer.

Berzedett lay low for several hours, then determined to escape. He tunneled his way under a log and crawled on his belly to high grass. Then he made a final dash to a fringe of trees.

As Berzedett ran he heard a moan and returned to find one of his officers wounded by mortar fragments. He picked up the officer and staggered on.

Machine guns began firing from a new direction as Berzedett struggled along with the wounded officer. In desperation he stopped and waved his arms. The machine gun fire stopped.

"Those machine guns were ours, and we were safe," he said.

Most of the Japanese parachutists were mopped up during the day.

TRIBUNE WRITER ON BOMBER SEES JAP ISLE RAIDED

Flies 800 Miles of Sea to Paramushiro.

S. Forest av. and whose parents reside at 4252 N. Drake av., Chicago, piloted the plane to which I was assigned. He led the flight with Lt. Herbert P. Oldham, Burlington, Ia.

Wickman climbed the plane thru broken clouds, calling the four other planes in the group into position behind us by radio. In the first two hours we went off course twice to circle storm fronts. Suddenly the radio crackled with bad news. One of the pilots reported a fuel leak.

"I've been nursing it for half an hour, but it looks like I'll have to go back," he said.

Wickman told him to turn around, then silenced the radio with an order to the gunners for test firing.

Chicagoan Tries His Guns.

Above me in the top turret Bernard G. McDermott, 7432 Parnell av., Chicago, revolved slowly in his cramped seat and then pressed the triggers of his two machine guns. They clattered briefly, loud even above the roar of four engines. A shower of empty cartridge cases rained on my leather helmet and spilled to the floor. His lips moved and the microphone strapped around his throat jumped momentarily. I heard in my earphones: "Top turret o. k., sir."

One by one the other gunners reported in: Sgt. Virgil F. Swift, Des Moines, Ia., from the tail; Sgt. Edward A. Pleva, East St. Louis, Ill., from the nose; Sgt. Raymond P. Martenz, 12348 S. Sangamon st., Chicago, and Sgt. Eugene H. Dobson, Key West, Fla., from the waist positions. All the guns were firing.

Again Wickman's voice on the radio:

"We're about 100 miles from the target. Start climbing now. Every one on oxygen. Level off at about 19,000 feet."

The temperature was 10 below zero Fahrenheit and we expected 22 below at bombing altitude. I turned up the switch on my heated flying suit and adjusted my oxygen mask, keeping a nervous eye on the flow gauge. I had been warned that if the little ball in its glass tube stopped bouncing with every breath it meant I was receiving no oxygen and to do something about it quickly.

Paramushiro Dead Ahead.

The layer of clouds below us thinned and Kamchatka, the Russian peninsula, separated from the northernmost Japanese island only by a narrow strait, showed up to our right barren and snow covered, knobbed with mountains. The radio operators, Sgt. Kenneth C. Howard, Clarkton, Mo., and Sgt. Horace N. Lang, North Tonawanda, N. Y., talked over bearings with Lt. Robert M. McFarland, Fairbury, Ill., the navigator in the nose below us.

Soon Paramushiro appeared dead ahead. The island was covered with broken clouds on the shore we approached. A storm on the other side blocked out another base. Wickham called the other planes in the flight into tighter formation. There was some ribald conversation among the gunners, who hoped to shoot down Zeros, but that was silenced as the bombardier, Lt. Francis H. Smith, 607 E. 2d st., Kewanee, Ill., gave the course for the bombing run.

Every one scanned the sky for fighters, especially toward the sun. Pleva in the nose spoke:

"A cable is busted on my turret; it won't move."

"We're going in," said Wickman. "Shorty, see if you can help him."

McFarland spoke to Pleva.

"O. K.; you aim it. I'll try to turn it from behind."

We were now about 19,000 feet and tho our speed was over 200 miles an hour the plane seemed to inch toward the target. There was a roar of wind behind me. On the catwalk in the bomb bay Lang had pulled the switches for the bomb doors to open. One rolled smoothly, the other stuck half way. The bombs hung ready in their racks. Lang yanked levers, rolled the doors shut, and tried them again. One still balked. I found time to hope half the bombs would not fall on the door and blow us up. Some one called on the interphone.

"Are those damned bomb doors open yet?"

Flak Bursts Appear.

I poked Wickman's shoulder and shook my head. Smith was calling directions more quickly now. The engineer, Sgt. Thad F. Fitch, Spring Valley, Ark., crawled up the catwalk from the tail. He got both bomb doors open and spoke the news into the interphone.

Flak bursts peppered the air around us.

"Say, they're getting too close. They've got the first team in there today. See any fighters?" some one spoke.

No fighters. I looked the sky over again to make sure. Sooner than I expected came the cry, "Bombs away."

I turned quickly in time to see the last of the bombs slip from the racks and nose out of sight. Then the runways and buildings of the Suribachi field were framed in the bay doors. They slipped slowly past, then our bombs came into view again, black specks against the snow covered airport. They made smudged splashes as they hit the runways. A few flashes from anti-aircraft guns dotted the base and the shells they fired came closer.

A humorist said: "My, that ruins their skating. Won't they be mad!"

Wickman, already turning his plane, got directions for the homeward course from McFarland. Flak followed us, marching steadily.

"Any damage back there?" Wickman called.

The crew looked over the plane and found flak holes and eventually a piece of flak that had cut one of the automatic pilot control cables. The other planes reported no damage.

As we lost altitude we relaxed and took off the uncomfortable oxygen masks. Moisture from my breathing had condensed and was frozen in mine.

The return trip was interminable. There was no station vacant in the plane. The flight deck was crowded with equipment, half filled by the top turret. I crouched under it while the hours dragged until the lights of the home base showed beneath us and we roared low over the black water to the runway at the sea's edge.

Lights Fail in Landing.

As our wheels touched the asphalt all of our lights went out. Fitch, the engineer, crawled into the belly of the plane and came back to report that the entire electrical system had burned out. Wickman turned the plane into a taxiway at the end of our landing run. One of the radio operators climbed thru the top escape hatch and signaled the control tower with a flashlight, asking for a truck to bring the crew in and mechanics to take care of the plane. The truck took us to the operations office, where Capt. Gordon G. McNabb, intelligence officer, questioned the crews. They reported the locations of bomb hits, pointing them out on big photographs. McNabb wanted to know the quality of the Jap anti-aircraft fire. "Pretty accurate," every one agreed.

CHINESE DRIVE LAST JAP TROOPS OUT OF KWEICHOW PROVINCE

CHUNGKING, China, Dec. 11 (AP).—The Chinese high command announced tonight that all Japanese forces had been driven out of Kweichow province, easing China's perilous military situation.

The bulletin said the reinforced Chinese counter-offensive had forced two Japanese columns which penetrated deep into Kweichow back into Kwangsi province, had recaptured Liuchai, just over the border, and had advanced 17 miles beyond.

The twin Japanese drives at Kweiyang, Kweichow capital and strategic Burma road city, had at one time penetrated to a point 70 miles inside the province. The bulletin gave no details of the final push which ousted the enemy from Kweichow, merely announcing that enemy remnants around Lipo, 90 miles southeast of Kwelyang, had been mopped up.

BRITISH TO USE DREADNAUGHT AS A FLAGSHIP

LONDON, Dec. 11 (AP).—The British battleship Howe, 35,000 ton dreadnaught of the King George V. class, will be the flagship of Adm. Bruce Fraser's new British Pacific fleet now being assembled in Australian waters for the war against Japan.

The 745 foot Howe, with her 10 14 inch guns and innumerable smaller guns, carries 14,000 tons of armor plating alone. Lessons learned in aerial warfare are incorporated in the ship, commissioned in 1942. She carries a complement of 1,500 officers and men.

Adm. Fraser, the fleet commander, arrived in Melbourne, Australia, tonight, and said the British armada would operate from Australian bases under command of Adm. Nimitz.

TRIBUNE MILITIA TROPHY IS GIVEN TO 1ST REGIMENT

Col. McCormick Praises Spirit of Reserves.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, last night presented to Col. George J. May of the 1st Illinois, reserve militia regiment the Tribune trophy for the best drill attendance record among the militia's seven regiments for the six months ending Nov. 30.

The presentation was made in the Northwest Armory at 1351 N. Kedzie av. Another trophy was presented to Capt. Swan E. Johnson on behalf of company A, which had the best attendance record among 12 rifle companies in the regiment.

Meets Former Comrades.

Expressing his pleasure at renewing acquaintance with many former comrades with whom he served in World War I. 25 years ago, Col. McCormick said:

"We did not find it hard to serve then, and neither do the men who are abroad now, because they have the hope for glory before them. But that is not the case with these men of the reserve militia. They are here drilling because they are convinced it is their patriotic duty to help guard the home front. In a spirit of deep humility they offer themselves in true patriotism."

Last night's ceremony marked the 70th anniversary of the old Illinois "Dandy First," which, at the outbreak of World War I., became the 131st infantry of the 33d division. Former members of the regiment gathered at the armory to celebrate the anniversary.

Gov. Green, in introducing Col. McCormick, paid tribute to the record of the "Dandy First," and to the reserve militia.

Achievements Praised.

"Its record of achievements on the home front has been one of the bright spots of a state and a nation at war," he said.

With reference to THE TRIBUNE'S drill attendance award, he said:

"This drill attendance contest is another of the countless patriotic contributions to the war effort made by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. It was sponsored as a means of stimulating enlistments and drill attendance among the members of the reserve militia and I am happy to announce that the sponsors have agreed to continue the contest during the coming year.

Col. McCormick Lauded.

"And as is most fitting at this time, it is my privilege and pleasure to present to you now a man who has served this nation brilliantly in two wars, who formerly was a member of the Illinois National Guard, and whose deep patriotism has been evidenced in so many ways in times of peace—Col. McCormick."

Among those present at the ceremony were Brig. Gen. Leo M. Boyle, Illinois adjutant general; Maj. Gen. John V. Clinnin, first commander of the Illinois reserve militia, now retired; Brig. Gen. John M. Richmond, former commander of the 131st infantry, and Brig. Gen. William Gunther of the 6th service command.

SENATE PASSES BILL CREATING ARMY AND NAVY 'SUPER RANKS'

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11 (AP).—The senate today passed and sent to the White House a bill authorizing President Roosevelt to appoint four five-star generals and a like number of five-star admirals.

The army officers will have the title of generals of the army, one grade below that of general of the armies, now held only by Gen. Pershing. The new navy rank will be that of fleet admiral.

The appointees, who will hold their new titles until six months after the war, will draw $8,000 a year and subsistence and rental allowances, plus $5,000 a year personal money allowances.

The new rank for the army will be equivalent to that of the British field marshal.

3 TRIBUNE MEN WIN BECK PRIZES FOR YEAR'S WORK

Winners of the second year's awards under the Edward Scott Beck Annual Prize foundation were announced yesterday by a jury of Tribune news department executives who made the selections.

Mr. Beck, who died Dec. 25, 1942, was a member of the Tribune staff for 45 years and its managing editor for 27 years. The announcement coincides with his birthday, Dec. 12.

Three $500 Awards.

The foundation provides for three awards of $500 each to Tribune news gatherers. One award goes to the staff reporter, who, in the 12 months preceding Nov. 30, writes for Tribune columns what is judged to be the best foreign news story. Another award is to the staff reporter who writes the best domestic or local news story. The third award is to the photographer who takes the best news picture.

The decision is in the hands of a three-man jury composed of THE TRIBUNE'S managing editor, its city editor, and its news editor. The jury was appointed by Col. R. R. McCormick, president of The Tribune company.

This year's winners are:

Best foreign news story—Robert Cromie.

Best domestic news story—Carl Wiegman.

Best news picture—Frederick Giese.

Choice Is Close.

The judges experienced considerable difficulty in making a selection from among the many excellent examples of foreign news reporting with which they were confronted.

Notable among these was the eyewitness description of the first B-29 bombing of Japan by Clay Gowran, another Tribune war correspondent, and winner of one of last year's awards.

The judges finally awarded this year's prize to Cromie for his dramatic story of a ride back to England in a crippled bomber, the rudder and most of the left elevator of which had been ripped off by heavy flak, which wounded the tail gunner.

The ship landed at a strange airport with only a few gallons of gas left. The last paragraph modestly recounts that Cromie, immediately after stepping from the crippled ship, took off in another bomber for France.

Makes Vivid Story.

The judges awarded the prize for the best domestic news story to Wiegman, on his series of articles on the career of Harry S. Truman, Vice President elect. They took into consideration the fact that Wiegman dug up his facts, then put them together in such a fashion that they formed a vivid picture of the life of the candidate.

The prize for the year's best photograph went to Giese for his dramatic, spot news picture of helmeted infantrymen carrying Sewell Avery, Montgomery Ward & Co. board chairman, from the W. Chicago av. building in which his office is located.

In addition to the news value of the picture, it is a striking example of photographic technique, taken at the precise second to get the best results. The photographer had to judge photographic values and incorporate them in his composition with no time for reflection or arrangement.

Cromie has been with THE TRIBUNE since October, 1936, and has had a foreign assignment since July 27, 1943.

Wiegman and Giese both joined The Tribune staff in December, 1933.

TRIBUNE BOND RALLIES STAGED FOR EMPLOYES

"Where Your Money Is Going" was the theme of a series of sixth war loan rallies for THE TRIBUNE'S employes held yesterday and last night in the main audience studio of radio station W-G-N. Most of THE TRIBUNE'S employes are buying war bonds on the pay roll purchase plan. The meetings were held to stimulate sales of extra bonds.

Harold P. Smith, Tribune war correspondent, who is home on leave after having covered 10 combat landings in the Pacific, reminded one of the rallies that "war bonds make it possible for our men to kill Japs without too great a risk to their own lives."

One thousand soldiers and an 80 piece band led by Maj. Wayne King, former dance band maestro, will parade down State st. Thursday noon preceding the army's prevue of its "Here's Your Infantry" show at State and Madison sts. The spectacular show, staged by Pacific battle veterans in conjunction with the 6th war loan drive, will be repeated Thursday evening in Lincoln park, and subsequently in Chicago communities.

Francis M. Knight, city-county drive chairman, renewed his appeal for bond purchases by individuals. Sales to individuals, he said, now total $140,232,000, or 59.5 per cent of the $235,596,000 quota. Over-all sales, he reported, total $792,364,000, or 94.7 per cent of the $836,160,000 quota.

G.O.P. SENATORS START MOVE TO UNSEAT HOWELL

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 11 [Special].—A move was set afoot today among Republican senators to unseat Sen. Chester M. Howell, veteran Saginaw Republican who was reëlected without opposition to the 1945 legislature, but who since then has pleaded guilty to accepting bribes to help push thru the 1939 legislature a bill to license naturopaths.

Sen. Don Vanderwerp, Fremont, who headed a recent Republican senate caucus, said the members would be polled regarding Howell's status. He said the case also will be discussed by the senate committee on committees.

Meanwhile Ernest W. Alden of Syracuse, N. Y., who was another of the 13 persons named Dec. 2 in a mass grand jury warrant involving the naturopathic bill, surrendered today to Judge Leland W. Carr, who issued the indictment. He was freed under bond.

SCHOOLS SCORN RABBI'S PROTEST ON YULE CAROLS

Kingston, N. Y., Dec. 11 [Special].—A special committee of the board of education decided today that school children of this city will continue the practice of singing Christmas carols during the yuletide despite a protest filed with the board by Rabbi Harold Englander of the Congregation Ahavath Israel.

The rabbi had complained in writing to the board that singing Christmas carols and teaching the story of the birth of Christ was an example of "sectarian" teaching of religion in public schools. A resulting wave of public indignation and his congregation's disavowal of his action caused the rabbi to resign his post and to quit the city. A spokesman for the congregation said that every one "can recognize the beauty of the Christmas music."

The nonsectarian committee which investigated his complaint reported that Christmas hymns and carols are heard thruout the land from Thanksgiving to Christmas day, that the community at large joins in singing these inspiring songs, and that "we do not consider the singing of Christmas carols at this season of the year an infringement of the law forbidding the teaching of religious doctrine in public schools."

WAR WITH JAPS ON GUAM STILL A POLITE AFFAIR

Dicker with the Yanks Like Prima Donnas.

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

GUAM, Dec. 12.—A fantastic opera bouffe goes on here involving negotiations between the island command and the leaders of several hundred Japanese still at large in the caves and jungles of northern Guam.

Almost daily an LCI craft makes an excursion along the shore line where the Japs are believed to be hiding, and invitations to surrender are broadcast to the Japanese thru a bullhorn.

Dicker Like Prima Donnas.

Good food, clean beds and other inducements of a soft and safe life in a prisoner of war stockade are offered by the navy appeals that sometimes approach the dulcet wording of radio commercials. Sometimes the Japs send an emissary to the ships to talk over propositions, and they dicker like prima donnas.

Once a Jap lieutenant sent word to the navy that he was thinking over the alternatives of surrendering or committing suicide. He promised his decision next day. When the LCI returned 24 hours later the Jap lieutenant sent word that he had reached a compromise with himself and would neither surrender nor take his life.

Sometimes Open Fire.

Frequently Japanese officers find our proposals insufficiently attractive for them. While their food stores saved from the pre-invasion days are low, there is no immediate danger of starving. Occasionally the Japs open fire on the LCI, to which the ship has replied with a barrage of rocket fire.

Marine patrols are combing the bush independent of the amphibious negotiations, and sometimes fall into vicious rifle fights.

BEST OF NAZIS' TROOPS ATTACK TO SAVE FAENZA

ROME, Italy, Dec. 11 (AP).—A fierce see-saw battle raged today on a four mile front southwest of Faenza, with the Germans throwing in crack veterans to save the highway center from the British 8th army's offensive.

Field Marshal Kesselring tossed the 90th panzer grenadier division into a counter-attack aimed at driving the British off a ridge extending from San Prospero, a mile southwest of Faenza, to Pideura, five miles west of Faenza. Nazi tanks and self-propelled guns joined the action and the British were forced to yield 400 yards at one point.

The allied high command said enemy assaults at other points had been beaten off.

FIGHTER-BOMBERS OFF ORMOC BAG HALF OF SHIPS JAPS LOST

LEYTE ISLAND, Philippines, Dec. 2 [Delayed] (AP).—Mast-high bombing by fighter planes enabled pilots of single engine ships, with 500 pound bombs under their wings, to bag half of the 100,000 tons of Japanese shipping destroyed in Ormoc bay.

Thunderbolt pilots went in against the ships with their .50 caliber machine guns blazing, and expert timing was required at the time of the pull out and the release of the bomb. Maj. Bill Dunham, Nez Perce, Idaho, is credited with having originated the technique, basing it on methods that had been used by big bombers.

Lieutenants David G. Singleton, Hammond, Ind., and Gerald Economoff, Gary, Ind., took part as Dunham's Black Ram's unit destroyed three troop ships in one attack by strafing and bombing.

U. S. ARMIES GAIN IN SAAR, ALSACE, AND ALONG ROER

Nazi Defenses Weaken Before 1st Army.

Marlsweiler, a mile and a half from Duren, and upon Hoven, within 500 yards of the west bank of the Roer. Hodges' troops overran Schlich, Echtz, and Dhorm in the center of their assault arc, and Schafberg, five miles southwest of Duren.

17 Miles Inside Germany.

They were digging the Germans from Pier, Merken, Merode, and Gey house by house as their lines moved up to 17 miles inside Germany for the deepest penetration of the reich and 21 miles from Cologne.

Only at one point did the Germans strike back with anything like their customary strength, and that was at Strass, southwest of Duren, where the counter-blow was contained.

Hodges' forces had broadened their assault lines by five miles and seized heights overlooking the Roer north of Bergstein on the southern end of the front.

Yesterday's prisoner total of 198 brought the 1st army's bag up to 210,712 since D-Day.

Lt. Gen. Simpson's United States 9th army to the north sent out an increased number of patrols and persisted in its artillery duels with the Germans entrenched on the east bank of the Roer around Julich.

Hampered by floods, the Canadian 1st army in eastern Holland limited activity to a raid on enemy outposts three miles northeast of Nijmegen, taking 20 prisoners.

3d's Big Guns Open Up.

Patton's big guns opened up on the Siegfried line cities of Zweibrucken [population 15,000] and St. Ingbert [population 21,000], five and seven miles deep inside the Saar basin, a front dispatch said.

St. Ingbert, 11 miles from the front, presumably was shelled by American 8 and 10 inch guns which are hurling 50 to 100 projectiles into the city. Zweibrucken, east of St. Ingbert, is 13 miles from the front, but it caught about 30 rounds in the first few hours.

The 3d army warded off at least three counter-blows at Dillingen and extended its lines slightly there and around Saarlautern, three miles southeast.

German counter-attacks against the 3d army again were aimed at Saarlautern and Dillingen bridgeheads, into which they have been pouring an average of 6,000 rounds of heavy artillery daily for three days.

In one of the three counter-attacks thrown at the Americans around Dillingen, 85 Germans made a suicide charge in the Japanese manner, yelling "Heil Hitler." They were mowed down to a man.

The 90th division held on to all ground gained, and brought tank destroyer guns across the river to blast the pillboxes.

Battle in a Ballroom.

Two to three miles southwest, the 95th division was engaged in the toughest building to building fighting in Saarlautern and Roden, Fraulautern, and Ensdord.

They won control of two more blocks in Fraulautern, including a big hotel in which the ballroom was the scene of prolonged fighting. The Germans were using every available building for defense, and were digging tanks into rubble left by American shells.

The 95th yesterday cleared 25 pillboxes and 30 fortified buildings in and around Saarlautern.

A dispatch quoted American officers as seeing signs of German weakening in the Siegfried line outpost of Fraulautern.

Elements of the 3d army in a mile and a half advance from its Saar bridgehead at Sarreguemines captured the town of Folpersviller.

The 35th infantry division advanced a mile and reached the Saar border on the Blies river, three miles northeast of Sarreguemines. The 35th also drew up near Bliesbruck, four miles east of Sarreguemines. Units of the 26th infantry division also advanced along this front.

Sweep Beyond Haguenau.

Lt. Gen. Patch's 7th army infantrymen lashed out on a 25 mile front in northern Alsace, capturing Haguenau and sweeping on to the north and east in a thrust toward the Maginot and Siegfried lines near the Rhine, a front dispatch said.

The Yanks reached Souffienheim, 10 miles to the east, and entered Walbourg, five miles north of Haugenau.

On the left flank and to the north, the advance reached Petit Rederching, five miles west of Bitche, against heavy tank fire. At Petit Rederching, the Yanks are a little less than four miles south of the border. North and northwest of Haguenau they are about seven miles from the border, having seized Reichshofen and entered Foreschwiller, both southeast of Neiderbronn.

Far south on the Alsatian plain, fighting was making slow progress around Colmar and Mulhouse. It was revealed that the United States 36th infantry division now is under the French 1st army.

The French finally celeared the west bank of the Rhine from Kembs eight miles south to the Swiss border. Advances between the Thur and Doller rivers overran Leimbach, 10 miles northwest of Mulhouse. The flooded Ill river, a mile over its banks around Selestat, slowed the French drive south toward Colmar.

Germans Beaten Back by Yanks

1,600 AMERICAN BOMBERS BLAST FRANKFURT ZONE

LONDON, Dec. 11 (AP).—The greatest bomber fleet ever assembled—more than 1,600 American Fortresses and Liberators—pounded the German rail network in the Frankfurt area with 6,000 tons of explosives today as part of a massive air assault by more than 3,200 United States warplanes.

The huge fleet of 8th air force heavies, forming a sky train 300 miles long, was escorted by more than 800 fighters. From the operation 12 bombers and two fighters were missing tonight.

This loss from a force of 16,800 United States flyers—more men than are in an entire combat division of infantry—was a record low for a raid of such magnitude.

The German air force kept clear of the American armada and anti-aircraft fire was meager.

Beats Record of St. Lo.

The greatest single bomber raid previously was on July 25 when 1,500 American heavies lent tactical support on the Normandy front near St. Lo.

The four-engined giants today showered bombs on the transportation system of Frankfurt, Hanau, 10 miles east, and Gjessen, 30 miles north. The three targets are on main lines between the principal industrial centers of (northwest and central Germany and the Nazi defenses facing the American 1st and 3d armies.

Most of the fighter guardians of the 1,600 bombers, finding the air free of Germans, dropped to telephone pole level to strafe Nazi trucks and trains making a dash from Frankfurt to the Saarbrucken battle zone 120 miles to the southwest.

Blast Train of Tiger Tanks.

In the Duren area west of Cologne, Thunderbolts blasted a train of 25 flat cars loaded with 50 Tiger tanks going to reinforce the front under attack by the American 1st and 9th armies.

In a simultaneous attack from the south, more than 500 United States bombers and 350 fighters of the 15th air force struck into Austria from bases in Italy.

Strong formations of Liberators, Fortresses, and fighters of the 15th air force hammered the Moosbierbaum refinery 22 miles northwest of Vienna, freight yards and the south ordnance depot in Vienna, and rail targets at Graz in Austria.

[Several trainloads of V-2 bombs were hit by Belgian based allied planes in a concentrated attack on the Dutch railyards at Leyden, the British radio said in a broadcast heard by NBC.]

Gets Injunction

MRS. VASSO SALAPATAS.

Judge John A. Sbarbaro in Superior court yesterday issued a temporary injunction restraining James Salapatas from attempting to collect $4,780 from his sister-in-law, Mrs. Vasso Salapatas, 27, of 9525 Oakley av. Her estranged husband, Gust, 44, borrowed the money from James, and she was required to sign the note but she did not receive any of the money, Mrs. Salapatas testified. She is suing her husband for divorce on the ground of desertion, and recently she obtained an injunction restraining him from proceeding with a divorce action in Reno, Nev.

NAZIS CHANGE MINDS ABOUT WOMEN'S PLACE

New York, Dec. 11 [Special].—The newspaper Stockholms-Tidningen today quoted the Berlin Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung as saying that present war needs had changed Nazi youth training for German girls so that "nothing much is left of children and kitchens."

"Male qualities have been intensely developed in the masses of young girls in youth camps during recent years," the Berlin paper was said to have reported. "The women leaders in these camps look absolutely male."

A survey of German women reserves available for the newly organized women's auxiliary of the German army, the Nazi article said, disclosed that "some women are not at all technically ungifted and are well suited for modern war." Training with troops has even shown that "some women are particularly martial," the paper added.

An early tenet of the Nazi party was that only "children and kitchens" were fit subjects for women.

Littell Calls Intolerant Persons Hitler's Tools

Americans who practice racial intolerance are wittingly or unwittingly agents of Hitler, Norman Littell, former assistant attorney general, said last night in a talk before the American Jewish congress in the Standard club. Littell was recently ousted by President Roosevelt after a controversy with Atty. Gen. Biddle. If intolerance were to grow in America, Littell said, we would eventually have a totalitarian government.

HERSHEY SIGHTS 10-20% INCREASE OF INDUCTIONS

Maj. Gen. Hershey, national selective service director, predicted yesterday a 10 to 20 per cent increase in inductions in the next few months. He made his prediction in Cleveland, O., while Col. Paul G. Armstrong, Illinois director of selective service, was ordering draft boards in the state to consider immediately reclassification of all registrants who have left occupations for which they received deferments.

Draft board members said the action pointed to a rigid enforcement of Man Power Commissioner McNutt's "work or fight" order issued earlier this year.

Gen. Hershey told a press conference he based his prediction of increased inductions on "what I see in the papers about the way the war is going."

Higher Losses Expected.

"More of our forces are having contact with the enemy," he said. "Our losses cannot help but be higher. I can't see, with so much war going on, how we can help having an increase. The army is getting to the point of taking what it can get, and men under 26 are not so plentiful any more. Germany isn't arguing about age any more. Germany is taking men if they can walk."

Col. Armstrong's directive to Illinois draft boards said:

"Because of the urgent need for combat replacements and a critical shortage of workers in war activities, local boards [shall] make available for service any registrant who, without first obtaining consent of his local board, quit an essential or contributing job for which he was deferred. The consent of an employer is not, of itself, sufficient to prevent such reclassification."

Altho state selective service officials declared it was "virtually impossible" to estimate the approximate number of registrants aged 27 to 38, unofficial calculations based on latest figures indicated that approximately 200,000 would be affected in some manner by the new regulations.

Position of Nonessential Workers.

One avenue of escape for nonessential workers was left open, but it was a narrow one. Col. Armstrong told the boards that any registrant reclassified under the new ruling ordered by national headquarters could be given new consideration for occupational deferment, if he returns to the war production job for which he previously was deferred—or if he takes another job of equal importance in war production.

The registrant, however, must take such action prior to the date on which he has been ordered to report for induction; even then it will be left to the local board to consider the importance of the registrant's job.

Stricter Rule to Be Applied.

Further clarifying the new orders, Col. Armstrong's instructions added that "in the case of a registrant who left a war production job [class 2-B] to take a position in a nonwar production activity, which, because it supports the national health, safety, or interest, carries a 2-A classification, the local board may reclassify the registrant unless he returns to his old war production job or one of like importance."

The director said that the regulations probably would result in the application of a stricter rule in determining whether or not a registrant's nonwar production occupation could be considered as necessary to, or contributing to, the interests of a nation at war.

Discharged veterans may also be considered for reinduction, if the provisions of the new order can be applied to them, he stated.

SOFIA REPORTS INDICTMENT OF 3 EX-REGENTS

New York, Dec. 11 [Special].—The former Bulgarian regents, Prince Cyril and Lt. Gen. Nikola Mikhov, have been indicted for criminal acts of collaboration, along with the third regent, former Premier Bogdan Filov, and other members of Bulgaria's four war cabinets, the Sofia radio said today. Sava Grouev, personal counsellor to King Boris, and deputies of the 25th national assembly who approved the government's action in admitting German forces to Bulgaria, were also cited as "accomplices in this treachery" in the indictment of Georgei Petrov, prosecutor, according to the broadcast.

7TH ARMY YANKS SHAKE FOE'S GRIP IN NORTH ALSACE

Drive for Maginot and Siegfried Lines.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 7TH ARMY IN ALSACE, France, Dec. 11.—The Americans' capture of Haguenau today threatened to make the great forest north of it untenable to the Germans, thus wrecking their major northern block in Alsace and forcing them back to what last delaying action they can wage in the Maginot zone.

When the Maginot zone is lost the Germans must retire their all-out defense on the Siegfried line on their own border, where the line juts westward almost at a right angle to the Rhine river.

Units of the 79th infantry division streamed into Haguenau, 15 miles north of Strasbourg, and drove up from Bischwiller to reach Soufflelheim and the road skirting the southern rim of the forest. Other Yank forces are beyond Neiderbronn in a maneuver flanking the forest on the west.

An Obstacle for Weeks.

Haguenau is not large as cities go—its population is about 20,000—but for weeks it has been the big town between the 7th army and the push toward the German frontier to the north. It was the enemy's last important railroad and communications center in northern Alsace and for a time there had been suspicion that the Germans might bring sufficient reenforcements there to attempt a counter-attack southward to regain Strasbourg.

The Yanks first broke into Haguenau late yesterday with Company A of the 3d battalion of the 314th regiment showing the way to the southwestern outskirts. The company reached the railroad station under heavy fire and it and the following units expected house to house fighting all the way.

Railroad Station Burning.

But after the enemy's first opposition in the city and after he had blown the railroad bridge, he pulled out at 3 a. m. today. It was learned that the Germans had been ordered to hold Haguenau until at least Wednesday, two days from now, but the American smashes into the city and up from Bischwiller broke up the resistance scheme.

Haguenau was badly hit from our shelling and German demolition but it can't be described as destroyed. The railroad station was burning today, the steel bridge was tipped into the Moder river and some houses were torn apart. South of the city were the shattered woods, where the Germans had maintained a forward line.

The Germans had planned a house to house defense as was evident from road blocks at nearly every intersection in Haguenau and from machine gun and rifle sniper prepared posts in buildings.

In the railroad yard were four passenger trains and one freight train, abandoned and destroyed by the Germans. The streets were strewn with debris and tree branches.

Many houses in the city were intact or only partially damaged and French flags floated from them. Most of the inhabitants had taken shelter in cellars during the fighting, but they were out today and their welcome to the Americans was an impressive one of cheers and crying with joy. The greetings came from all, even those whose homes had been shelled.

2D WORLD WAR NOW YEAR OLDER THAN FIRST ONE

LONDON, Dec. 11 (AP).—History's costliest conflict edged past a milestone today to become a year longer than the First World war, and Germany, suffering but still strong, showed few signs of such an internal collapse as brought about its defeat in 1918.

This war is five years, 14 weeks and two days old today. World War I ended in four years, 14 weeks and two days—six hours after the armistice terms were signed in Marshal Foch's railroad carriage on Nov. 11, 1918.

Tendency to discount the possibility of a home front revolt was strengthened today by British economic reports showing that the average German family is better fed and better clothed now than it was in 1918.

FAMOUS ACK-ACK OUTFIT KNOCKS NAZIS FROM SKY

Midwest Yanks Down 51 Out of 70 Planes.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 1ST ARMY, Dec. 11.—When the German air force lost 51 out of 70 strafing planes which attempted to attack Lt. Gen. Hodges' ground troops Dec. 3, one of the best scores of any unit was rung up by men from Chicago and the middle west.

They are members of the famous 634th anti-aircraft battalion. This unit is the old 2d battalion of the 61st coast artillery anti-aircraft regiment, which was at Fort Sheridan from 1930 until 1941.

Stationed in Iceland.

It received its new designation as the 634th A. A. A. W. [automatic weapon] battalion following a long tour of duty at isolated points in Iceland, where it was sent in 1942 to help protect shipping lanes. When the size of the army was greatly increased the regiment was replaced and sent to England for training, where it was reactivated as separate battalions.

And on D-day, under the command of Lt. Col. Eddie Racks of Holland, Mich., it waded ashore on the Normandy beaches without a casualty. This unusual landing record probably was the result of the fact that this unit was the first ack-ack battalion to receive amphibious assault training.

Altho the failure of the German air force to put in an appearance by daylight during the early months of the invasion kept the battalion from running up a high score, its men have seen plenty of action in the last six months. Because their self-propelled multiple .50 caliber machine gun mounts pack vicious fire power, they often were used as assault troops to help the infantry break thru the stubborn Normandy hedgerows. These actions enabled the battalion to capture many pockets of German soldiers.

Takes Long Jumps.

After the St. Lo break-thru, it surged forward in long jumps, sometimes as much as 100 or 200 miles. One such leap brought it to Melun, south of Paris, where it protected the 1st infantry division as it crossed the Seine.

On the night the 634th moved into position protecting the bridges near Melun, the Germans attacked with 30 bombers, trying to knock out the bridges and halt the 1st division.

The first alarm caught many of the gunners in various stages of undress. Rushing to their mounts barefooted, the gunners threw up a heavy barage as the first pathfinder planes came in to drop flares illuminating the target for the bombers.

That was a costly German mistake. When the bombers came in, they were silhouetted perfectly by these flares against the low cloud bank.

Despite the hazard of incendiary bombs dropping on their own positions, the 634th's accurate gunners sprayed the heavens until 19 German bombers had been brought down in flames and the remainder routed without being able to damage the bridges.

Leads Ack-Ack Battalions.

That is the night these gunners still talk about, altho they've been keeping up a nice percentage with smaller bags since then. In fact, the 634th still leads all ack-ack battalions on the continent in number of planes destroyed per rounds of ammunition fired.

Among Chicago men in the battalion are: 1st Lt. Everett D. Rumph, 311 Harrison st., West Chicago; Master Sgt. Eugene A. Bonk, 1050 Erie st.; 1st Sgt. John W. Dickman, 1111 Noble st.; Staff Sergeants Stanley J. Krengiel, 2446 N. Lorel av.; James K. Stoneciper, 3303 Adams st.; John J. McGovern, 404 W. 60th st.

DEMAND BRITISH AID AMERICAN ARMY IN REPAIRING OF LONDON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 12 [Tuesday].—Employment of 3,000 American army engineers on London bomb damage repairs provokes the editorial demand in Tuesday's Daily Mail that 3,000 or more British engineers be similarly used, as well as German war prisoners. Back of the Daily Mail demand is dissatisfaction with the antiquated British method of demolishing houses. It contrasts the efficiency of American bulldozers as compared to the British pick and shovel system.

"Could we not also adopt the unorthodox American method?" it asks. "While we cling to the careful brick by brick destruction of damaged dwellings, we cannot claim to be tackling this immense job as a war measure."

Criticizing the government's "orthodox" outlook, the editorial says, "American squads are organized, supplied, and fed on military lines, and they apply the swift, large scale American technique to the job in hand. If our own men went into action in a similar way, London would be repaired in half the time."

REDS AGAIN OUST U. S. WAR MISSION FROM BULGARIA

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Dec. 10 [Delayed]—(AP).—The Russians have expelled a four man United States office of strategic services team from Bulgaria for the second time since Bulgaria's surrender. Allowed to return after an earlier expulsion, the four were told they must leave on the same grounds as before—that they were not officially accredited by the Russians.

On Oct. 2, Cordell Hull, then secretary of state, said an allied military mission had been ejected from Bulgaria by a Russian commander, but that he believed the difficulty was straightened out and that the mission would reënter the country as a result of arrangements by Washington and London with Moscow. The mission went to Bulgaria to handle Anglo-American interests. Some authorities in Washington said that the Russian military commander had not been properly advised.

In Washington officials yesterday said they had not been informed of the second expusion of the OSS men, but added that the United States already has several other representatives in Sofia. Maynard Barnes is there as representative of the state department and Maj. Gen. John A. Crane heads the American section of the allied control commission for Bulgaria, they said.

BRITAIN REPORTS BIG INCREASE IN V-2 KILLINGS

LONDON, Dec. 11 (AP).—Nazi V-bombs killed 716 civilians in the United Kingdom during November, more than four times as many as in the previous month and more than double the combined total for October and September, the ministry of home security disclosed tonight.

Of those killed, 269 were men, 345 women, and 102 children less than 16 years old.

It was during November that British officials first announced the Nazis were firing long range rockets against these islands. But the November fatalities were down sharply from August's 1,103 during the height of the flying bomb blitz. During November 1,511 sustained injuries requiring hospitalization and in August there were 921 such cases. October's deaths totaled 172 and September's 170.

SERVICE OFFICE IN EACH COUNTY ASKED FOR VETS

Jenner Asserts G.I. Rights Bill Fails.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—Charging that the "G. I. Bill of Rights," passed by congress last spring, is not working, Sen. Jenner [R., Ind.] today introduced a bill which would establish service offices in every county of the United States with the federal government and the state sharing the cost of the program.

Sen. Jenner.

The young Hoosier legislator—he is 36—is the first veteran of World War II. to sit in the senate. A resident of Bedford, Ind., he was elected Nov. 7 to serve the short term ending next Jan. 3, when he will be succeeded by Homer E. Capehart, Indianapolis manufacturer.

"The G. I. Bill of Rights must be made to work," Jenner said in his maiden senate speech. "It is not working now. We have no decentralized service to plan for returning veterans."

Parallels Baruch Plan.

Jenner's plan closely parallels a program suggested by Bernard Baruch, Presidential adviser, in his blueprint for post-war conversion, last winter. Baruch called for federal veterans information centers, but Jenner would place the responsibility of organization on the individual states.

According to Jenner's bill, each state would submit a plan of organization, which would include at least one office in each county, to the federal administrator of veterans affairs.

Scope of Service.

Jenner said the functions of the veterans service offices established in his bill would include giving information to veterans, their dependents, and beneficiaries on veterans benefits; help in making application for benefits, and aid and information on reëmployment, government insurance, education, vocational training, loans for homes and businesses, legal aid, tax aid, social security benefits, unemployment compensation, and mustering out pay.

All of the functions described in his bill are provided for in the "G. I. Bill of Rights," Jenner said, but the veteran "has to chase all over the countryside to find out what his rights are."

GERMANS TOLD BY IKE TO SHUN UNDERGROUND

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The German people were told yesterday in a proclamation issued in the name of Gen. Eisenhower to beware of joining or encouraging others to join underground military organizations.

The broadcast proclamation was the eighth in a series explaining allied military government plans to the Germans.

It told the Germans that militarism "must be stamped out in Germany" and that the population would be called upon to surrender articles of military significance, including weapons, ammunition, explosives, and radio transmitters.

Home to Mother

BETTYJANE GREER.

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 11 (AP).—Mrs. Rudy Vallee went home to mother today.

"I'm on my way out right now," she told a reporter who called the Vallee home.

Mrs. Vallee, the actress Bettyjane Greer, attributed this split with her musician husband to the same cause of all their other ones—"clash of temperament." She said she was moving to her mother's home here and would take no legal action until she has time to ponder the situation.

The Vallees have been splitting and reconciling since their marriage Dec. 2, 1943. Bettyjane obtained an interlocutory divorce decree in July but they made up again.

NAZI AGENT SENT TO ROMANIA BY CHUTE ARRESTED

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Romania, Dec. 9 [Delayed].—The key man of German efforts to stir up the Iron Guard movement in Romania fell into police hands yesterday. He is Eugen Ratsiu, half brother of the notorious Horia Sima.

Arriving by parachute near Arad, he carried papers in the name of Alexandru Novac, as well as a radio transmitter, 3,000,000 leis in currency and several thousand dollars worth of French gold pieces. After questioning by Romanian gendarmes, Ratsiu admitted he had been dropped by a German plane with orders to reëstablish contact between leaders of the underground Iron Guard movement and the Germans.

Horia Sima appointed himself chief of the Iron Guard movement after the founder, Corneliu Condreanu, was shot while under arrest on Nov. 30, 1938. After the revolt of January, 1941, was crushed Sima fled to Germany. When Premier Antonescu was overthrown last August, the Germans announced that Sima was head of the Romanian government formed in Berlin.

10,000 READERS GET VET NAMES FOR YULE GIFTS

More than 10,000 names of service men and women in hospitals have been mailed to Tribune readers who desire to send a Christmas gift to the sick and wounded fighters, and thousands of additional names will be mailed this week.

At the outset of the Christmas gift campaign THE TRIBUNE had hoped to have the names of the service men and women in the hands of readers at least three weeks before Christmas, but the tremendous task of getting the names of all patients in 18 middle west hospitals has been delayed by shortages of help.

Mailed Same Day.

When the names of service men and women are received from the hospitals they are mailed to Tribune readers the same day, sometimes within a few hours, because it is realized readers need time to shop, wrap gifts, and get them into the mails in time for Christmas delivery.

A great many readers have returned names sent to them by THE TRIBUNE, explaining that they are unable to fulfill the soldier's or sailor's preference for a gift, either because of financial reasons or because the desired gift falls within that vast number of items no longer available in civilian markets.

Readers Not Obligated.

Readers who receive service names for the Christmas gift campaign are not obligated in any way to fill the request. They are at liberty to send either the requested gift or anything of their own selection. Each should let his pocketbook and judgment be his guide.

A hasty tour of loop stores yesterday revealed scores of available items suitable for gifts to service men and women at modest prices.

On Nov. 5 THE TRIBUNE announced it could not accept any more requests for names because requests already exceeded the number of names which would be available 30 days later. Despite this announcement hundreds of readers have asked for names. These requests are on file and will be filled in the order received if any additional names of patients can be obtained before Dec. 15.

LABOR IN BRITAIN BACKS COALITION UNTIL NAZIS FALL

LONDON, Dec. 11 (AP).—The British Labor party voted today to stay in Prime Minister Churchill's coalition government until victory in Europe but served notice it would fight the next general election independently. Labor is Britain's strongest minority faction and its decision assures continuance of the coalition. After victory, the party was told by Prof. Harold Laski, economics writer, it should set out to build a Socialist British commonwealth. Laski said that "only a planned world can hope to be a free world for the common man."

'DISCARD DEWEY AS PARTY CHIEF,' FISH URGES G.O.P.

Accuses N. Y. Governor of 'Stupid Blunders.'

that the best interests of the nation and the Republican party require that he should be eliminated as spokesman for the party on national and international issues, about which he knows comparatively nothing," he said.

"In the recent campaign, thru his factlessness, he alienated most of the party leaders and members of congress. Within a short time in Albany, thru his dictatorial methods and unbounded conceit, he has antagonized many Republican members of the state legislature who supported him in the hope of getting him out of Albany."

Tired of Moral Victories.

Fish said he was "sick and tired of so-called moral victories."

"Where is the moral victory in Gov. Dewey failing to carry a single state east of Ohio, except Maine and Vermont?" he inquired. "If Gov. Bricker had been the candidate for President on an American platform he would have been elected.

"Where is the moral victory in his losing Michigan, his home state, by 30,000 and the Republican governor of Michigan winning by 200,000? The same situation applies in the great state of Illinois and in Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, and other states where Republican governors or senators were elected.

"The trouble with Dewey was, in football language, that he ran the wrong way with the ball and scored a touchdown against his own side, purging Republicans and 'me-tooing' the New Deal and Roosevelt's foreign policies that made war inevitable and helped to get us into it.

"Most of the Dewey votes were anti-fourth term, anti-New Deal, anti-Roosevelt, anti-Hillman, or anti-Communists, and not pro-Dewey.

"A Weak Candidate."

"After the election a spokesman for Dewey said he was 'glad that Sen. Nye and Rep. Fish were defeated.' That is political gratitude for supporting the candidate of the Republican party for President. Tell that to the noninterventionists in the middle west who supported him! Tell that to 100 million noninterventionists in America prior to Pearl Harbor.

"He was a weak candidate and his political days are numbered. For the best interests of the Republican party and the nation, he should be retired to his farm and cease giving advice on national and international issues to Republicans.

"I see no sound reason for a defeated and repudiated candidate for President to attempt to continue the flimsy and fictitious myth of titular head of the party and seek to select its national chairman or dictate its policies."

Urges Union of Opposition.

The Republican party, Fish continued, should keep its name in state and local elections for the time being, but should consider changing its name for the next national election four years hence. A union should be formed, he advised, "with real Democrats both in the north and south whose party has been taken over by the left wing New Deal and the PAC."

"It might be called the Democratic-Republican party, the American party, the Constitutional party, or any suitable name," he said.

Lists Possible Candidates.

As satisfactory Democratic candidates of such a new party, Fish listed Senators Tydings of Maryland, Byrd of Virginia, Wheeler of Montana, and George of Georgia; former Democratic Chairman James A. Farley, and Speaker Rayburn of Texas.

As possible Republican candidates he named Gov. Bricker and Sen. Taft of Ohio, Comdr. Harold E. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota; Gov. Warren of California, and Gov. Saltonstall of Massachusetts.

Fish's words did not meet with the favor of New York Republicans, who issued a statement repudiating his views of Dewey. They said Dewey made "a gallant campaign which solidified and revitalized the party and brought him over 22 million votes." Republicans in congress and thruout the country, they asserted, will give Dewey support as their leader.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Louise Schwandt, Billings, Mont.]

THE QUESTION.

As a grown-up what Christmas gift priced at $5 or less would you like to give or receive?

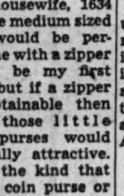
WHERE ASKED.

One North La Salle Street bldg.

THE ANSWERS.

Lucille Riechers, stenographer, 4136 Keystone av.—I don't have a compact and I believe it would be a most useful gift. I'd like one with a big mirror—large enough so I could powder my nose without having to go to another mirror. It's also important that the compact holds the powder so that it won't spill out into my purse.

Mrs. David Ash, housewife, 1634 N. Kildare av.—A nice medium sized purse would be perfect. One with a zipper would be my first choice, but if a zipper is unobtainable then one of those little pouch purses would be equally attractive. I want the kind that stays shut and has a coin purse or special inside compartment.



Sophia Fanos, stenographer, 2224 S. Kedzie av.—No matter what you buy now it isn't worth the money. Quality isn't as good as it used to be. To make sure that I'm getting $5 for $5 I would prefer that much money invested in war stamps. These stamps I could save until the time when prices are back to normal and quality is up to par.

Fred McDowell, fireman, 8865 Burlington av., Brookfield—Each year I am the victim of a pile of sox and a host of splashy, brilliant ties. Just for a change I wouldn't mind receiving a shirt, some gloves, a scarf, or a pair of pajamas. Any of these items can be purchased for less than $5 and make a practical gift for a man.

Lt. Greenwood W. Murch, 7452 Oglesby av.—It's a problem to buy something for any man in the service. My first choice if obtainable would be cigarets. Secondly, I would prefer toilet articles—after shave lotion, shaving cream, powder, etc. Small games that can be carried easily would be okay, too—such as a small checker board, cards, or a game kit.

Lt. W. R. Wadkins, 5541 Everett av.—Providing you know a man's proper size a regulation shirt would be a practical gift for some one in the service. Also along that line you could buy sox, neckties, or gloves—the same as peace time gifts except that these must be regulation. Toilet articles are good because they can be used or carried with you.

GILLETTE FINDS BOND OF ALLIES 'DISINTEGRATING'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—Sen. Gillette [D., Ia.] today demanded in a senate speech that the United States clearly restate its war aims on the principles of the Atlantic Charter so the war will not end in a hollow military victory or an armed truce.

Sen. Gillette.

The senator, whose term expires Jan. 3, said he could not leave the senate without expressing his fears that "the military victory which is certain to be ours will be lost politically" if the present trend in international affairs continues. He said the bond of interest which has held the allies together in the drive for victory is now showing signs of disintegrating.

"It becomes more incumbent upon us to give notice that America cannot participate actively or passively in the establishment of an unethical, immoral, dishonorable, and unjust status quo anywhere in the world, to be underwritten and paid for with a blank check signed in the blood of American youth," he said.

Must Uphold Charter.

"Nor can we be a party, directly or indirectly, to distortion, subversion, repudiation, or negation of the definite principles of the Atlantic Charter."

The senator asserted that the principles of the Atlantic Charter are threatened by Russian action in eastern Europe and charged that the possibilities that the charter will be discarded are "tragically revealed in the grim protests that are being forwarded to the American government" from the American-Polish associations, the Lithuanian associations, and the Catholic American Hungarian league.

Asserting that we must maintain our adherence to the principles we have presented to the world, Gillette said he understands that for the last 10 months Elmer Davis, office of war information head, has had specific directives not to mention the Atlantic Charter in OWI broadcasts.

Davis Denies Charge.

[Davis later denied Gillette's charge that mention of the Atlantic Charter has been banned from OWI broadcasts. A check of overseas broadcasts disclosed that the charter has been mentioned several times, he said, and on Aug. 14, the third anniversary of the announcement of the charter, several OWI broadcasts were devoted entirely to the subject.]

Gillette said that while Americans are dying to destroy Hitlerism and all that it represents, "some of our allies are openly engaged in extending their own assumed spheres of influence."

Gillette criticized the news blackout he said Russia has imposed in Europe from the Baltics to the Balkans at a time when "Americans need more than ever before to have access to the truth and the whole truth of our international situation."

Tells of Restrictions.

"If we are not to commit national suicide," he went on, "if we are to maintain the confidence of the world, we must take the American people into as full confidence as the military situation will permit."

It might be difficult, he said, to provide evidence that allied collaboration to date has been much more than a one-way street.

He spoke of restrictions on permitting military observers and news correspondents on the eastern front. He mentioned also difficulties of Red Cross observers in learning of the disposition of their supplies and services.

"This," he said, "is an ill omen of the type of collaboration which we are now being urged to perpetuate."

OPEN CHAPLIN PATERNITY SUIT TRIAL TOMORROW

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 11 [Special].—Trial of the suit seeking to have Charles Chaplin, former film comedian, declared the father of Carol Ann Berry, 14 months old daughter of Joan Berry, is scheduled to open Wednesday morning.

Caplin has denied paternity of the child altho he admitted Miss Berry had been his mistress and agreed to pay about $25,000 for support of the baby and for attorney's fees incurred in litigation over her birth.

Under an agreement to drop the suit if blood tests showed Chaplin was not the father, the actor submitted to tests and, on the medical evidence then studied, was exonerated. However, Atty. Joseph Scott, guardian for the child refused to accept the medical findings and took further court action which resulted in the state District Court of Appeals ruling that the paternity suit must go to trial despite the pre-litigation agreement concerning the tests.

CHURCHILL PUT PRESSURE ON ME, SFORZA CHARGES

Claims He Was Told to Accept King.

ROME, Dec. 11 (AP).—Count Carlo Sforza, former minister without portfolio who was omitted from the new Italian cabinet of Premier Ivanoe Bonomi after the British raised objections to him, today said that Prime Minister Churchill had exerted "strong pressure" on him to accept King Victor Emmanuel.

Sforza, in a 500 word statement, answered Churchill's charge that he had intrigued against the government of Marshal Pietro Badoglio and could not be trusted. In the statement Sforza said the prime minister's influence in behalf of the Italian king was manifested during a two hour conference in London on Oct. 11, 1943.

He added he had "left no doubts" with Churchill as to his [Sforza's] attitude toward the Italian monarch.

Sforza said the whole incident was related to "my beliefs and deeds on matters of domestic Italian politics." It had nothing to do with his "lines of foreign policy," he said.

Denies Authorship.

Sforza also announced he was "not the author" of a letter to the United States state department prior to his return to Italy from America in which his support of the Badoglio government was promised.

"I merely set my signature to it," Sforza said.

He added that he had accepted "the engagements therein contained, all of which I have observed. I could, in fact, well promise my support to the man Badoglio, who was the author of a message broadcast on Sept. 16 in which it was stated our first duty was to be the defeat of the Germans and in which no mention was made of the king and, likewise, no mention of the king was made in the letter."

Sforza said the letter also "only made reference to Badoglio as the man who would eventually destroy any remaining vestige of Fascism."

New Form of Fascism.

He since has claimed he was obliged to oppose Badoglio because Badoglio failed to bolster the Italian war effort and encouraged a new form of fascism.

Denying any "intrigue whatsoever," Sforza said it was the committee of national liberation in Rome which demanded the elimination of Badoglio.

"Upon returning to Italy," Sforza said, "everything confirmed to my mind the fact that the elimination of Victor Emmanuel was instrumental for promoting the anti-German war.

"I subsequently suggested to Badoglio that the king abdicate, that the child prince of Naples be proclaimed king and that Badoglio himself be regent . . . but the king refused.

"I consequently had to stand out in opposition as regards the king's position."

EXTRA OLD AGE ALLOWANCES.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 11 [AP].—Extra allowances to provide necessary medical care will be made after Jan. 1 in addition to the state-federal $40 per month old age and blind assistance maximums by the Illinois public aid commission. The commission said the additional payments will be met from state funds, but that the total allowance will not exceed $75.

DISCHARGE OF 15 SEABEES LAID TO RACIAL TROUBLE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11 (AP).—A naval officer testified today that 15 Negro Seabees were discharged for "unfitness" after racial issues arose in their battalion while they were in Trinidad.

Today's testimony was given by Lt. Comdr. Norman F. Godbe at a hearing granted for the Seabees by the navy's judge advocate general. The Seabees contend no grounds existed for their discharge.

Godbe said that tho the men were not charged with specific offenses and were not given dishonorable discharges, they had attended "seditious meetings," attempted "sit-down strikes," "refused to obey orders," and "threatened sabotage."

Arthur Garfield Hayes, New York attorney representing the Seabees, said that because the men have other than an "honorable discharge," they are deprived of certain benefits under the "G. I. bill of rights" and that their discharges carry a "stigma."

Five of the 15 appellants were present at the hearing, which is being conducted by Capt. Anton B. Anderson.

Fuel Official Predicts 'Critical' Coal Shortage

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11 [Special].—The shortage of coal for domestic use will become "critical" after Jan. 1, partly because this country's exports to allied and liberated areas have increased about 20 per cent and partly because the public has failed to use abundant supplies of lower grade fuel, Charles J. Potter, deputy solid fuels administrator, told a press conference today.

Pay Rate Boosts Urged for Federal Employes

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11 (AP).—The civil service commission today recommended hikes in the basic pay rates of federal employes to "compensate for increases in cost of living." Basic rates for most salaried positions have not been increased since the start of the war, the commission said in its annual report.

VISITS PRISON CAMP IN JAPAN AND FINDS IT IN A HEALTHY ZONE

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 11 (AP).—The Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano today reported that Msgr. Paolo Marella, apostolic delegate to Tokyo, visited a camp at Nagoja where several thousands American, Canadian, and British war prisoners are interned. It said he found it in "a salubrious zone which helps to better the prisoners' physical condition." The visit was made Nov. 28. He was received with honors by Japanese civil and military authorities, the newspaper said, and listened to a report on the condition of the prisoners and the care given them. He also talked with representatives of the prisoners. Details of their condition were not given.

W-G-N WILL AIR SYMPHONIES IN $32,500 CONTEST

Detroit Orchestra Sets Pan-American Prizes.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Prizes totaling $32,500 have been posted by the Detroit Symphony orchestra for the best new "Symphony of the Americas," W-G-N and the Mutual network announced yesterday. The Detroit Symphony concerts are broadcast over W-G-N from Mutual from 7:30 to 8 p. m. Saturdays.

The competition is open to composers in both North and South America. A first prize of $25,000, a second prize of $5,000, a third of $2,500, and gold plaques for additional winners are offered in the competition, which has the objective of stimulating Pan-American unity and culture.

Each of the 21 nations in the western hemisphere is to contribute an unpublished symphony, with judges from each of the republics selecting the contestants to compete in finals.

For several weeks prior to the announcement of the winning work, manuscripts accepted for the finals will be introduced on the orchestra's Saturday W-G-N broadcasts. The winning symphony will be presented in the Pan-American building in Washington late next spring.

Edward A. Ralph, seaman 1st class, 18, of 1630 W. Columbia av., will be heard on the broadcast Everything for the Boys at 10:30 tonight over WMAQ-NBC, speaking from a naval hospital in Honolulu. The young sailor, who was blown off the carrier Princeton in the Philippines area after it was struck by a Jap bomb, is the son of Edward Ralph, a Chicago Tribune pressman.

The short wave talks are a feature of the variety program featuring Dick Haymes, with Betty Grable as a guest tonight.

"We had to sit through the movie three times. Your father wanted to watch a cowboy rolling a cigaret."

800 SET RECORD FOR CROWD AT LAWYERS' REVUE

Eight hundred persons, the largest crowd in the history of the show, saw the opening last night of the 20th annual performance of Christmas Spirits, a gridiron revue by the Chicago Bar association, in the Terrace Casino of the Morrison hotel.

Mayor Kelly and Sewell Avery, president of Montgomery Ward & Co., were among the guests who saw themselves impersonated by lawyer-actors. Avery saw his impersonator carried across the stage in a skit satirizing his ejection from his office by soldiers when the government took over the company's Chicago store during labor troubles in April, 1944. Pressly L. Stevenson, who appeared as "Queen Eleanor," and Clarence R. Conklin, singing in an open midriff costume of a Spanish girl, were among the favorites in the cast.

The second and last performance of this year's production will be given tonight for bar association members and their guests.

HOUSE VOTES TO END F. D. R. PROJECT AT JACKSON HOLE, WYO.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—Amid charges that President Roosevelt has seized land for the federal government in defiance of the will of congress, the house today voted, 178 to 107, to abolish the Jackson Hole monument in Wyoming, which was established last year by Presidential decree.

Favoring the resolution to halt the project were 36 Democrats, 139 Republicans, and three minor party members. The measure now goes to the senate.

Members of both parties asserted the monument, as set up by the President under control of Interior Secretary Ickes, would encompass thousands of acres of land needed for stock grazing, and would be worthless as a historical shrine. Rep. Barrett [R., Wyo.] called the President's action an "un-American grab put over on the people of Wyoming."

The so-called monument, which congress has thrice refused to set up by law, includes 221,610 acres in northwest Wyoming. Of this, 49,000 acres are privately owned and occupied by more than 200 families with cattle ranches.

A Negro who snatched the purse of Miss Clara Dittmann, 30, of 1036 N. Dearborn st., as she waited for a street car yesterday at 51st st. and Wentworth av., was frightened away by her screams as he attempted to drag her into an alley, she told Stockyards police. Her screams attracted Patrolmen Anthony Slanina and Ray Klen, who were cruising in the neighborhood. They began a search for her assailant. Miss Dittmann told police her purse contained a diamond ring worth $400, $24 in checks, and some change.

MOTHER OF PROXY BABY ENJOINED FROM TAKING YANK'S PAY

Mrs. Irma Brennan, 21, who testified she had a child by another man because her husband, Gerald, 31, a soldier, asked her to, was enjoined by Judge John A. Sbarbaro in Superior court yesterday from continuing to collect $50 a month army allotments.

Brennan, a private stationed in Trinidad, British West Indies, filed suit for divorce last Sept. 21, charging adultery. His suit charged that a child, Amanda, was born to his wife July 19, 1943, 14 months after he had last been home on furlough.

"Altho she claims her husband condoned her act, she cannot be excused for violating the law of God and man, and the court cannot overlook her wrongdoing," Elidor Libonati, special prosecutor appointed to investigate the case, said.

The injunction referring to allotments was directed against the government, and will be served on the paymaster general. Lawyers said a precedent may be established if the army accepts an injunction preventing a soldier's wife from collecting allotments.

PUBLISHER ASKS FOR RECORDS ON ROBNETT INCOME

Federal Judge Walter J. La Buy yesterday took under advisement a motion by Atty. Lloyd D. Heth, counsel for the publishing firm of E. P. Dutton & Co., Inc., to force George Washington Robnett, executive secretary of the Church League of America, who is suing the firm for libel, to produce membership records of the league, the National Laymen's council, and Robnett's income tax records from 1937 until the present.

In Robnett's libel action, which seeks $100,000 from the firm, the company is named as the publisher of an alleged smear book, "Under Cover," by John Roy Carlson. Robnett charged that advertising on the book's jacket was libelous.

Two other libel suits by Robnett, in connection with advertising and promotion of the book, are pending in federal court. One seeks a million dollars from Walter Winchell, gossip columnist, and the Blue Network, and the other asks $100,000 from Carlson, Armenian born writer.

TAFT FOES HALT RECOUNT; ADMIT NO FRAUD FOUND

Cleveland, O., Dec. 11 (AP).—Recounting of the votes cast in Cuyahoga county [Cleveland] for the office of United States senator was halted today at the request of Democratic County Chairman Ray T. Miller, when retabulation of 300 of the county's 1,183 precincts gave Democrat William G. Pickrel of Dayton a net gain of only about half a vote per precinct over Sen. Taft, Cincinnati Republican.

Miller said in a statement that the recount has found "no evidence of fraud or gross error."

Ben Schwartz, Pickrel campaign representative in northern Ohio, said he would recommend to the unsuccessful candidate that petitions for recounts in Summit and Lucas counties be withdrawn.

Taft defeated Pickrel in the Nov. 7 election by a state-wide majority of 17,999.

The train, which had left Chicago a short time earlier for the west coast, carried 380 passengers. The journal burn-out occurred in the seventh car. That car, six other coaches, a diner, and a tourist car left the rails at a speed of 50 miles per hour, but all remained upright.

The injured, who were taken to Milwaukee, were Mrs. Anna McClain, 405 W. Cherry st., Milwaukee; Mrs. S. Tronca, 2029 N. Holton st., Milwaukee; Darline Lesage, Kankakee; Anita Marcote, Kankakee; Claire Johnson, Louisville, Ky.; Vrossie Morton, Seattle, Wash.; D. Shelby, Seattle, and A. SEAWAY PROJECT UP FOR SENATE ACTION TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—The St. Lawrence seaway and power project, discussion of which has delayed action for five days on the 500 million dollar rivers and harbors bill, will be voted upon in the senate at 3 p. m. tomorrow, it was agreed by senate leaders tonight.

The decision halted what was called by many senators a filibuster, conducted since last Wednesday by Sen. Aiken [R., Vt.], senate sponsor of the St. Lawrence project. The decision was reached when Aiken introduced the St. Lawrence measure as an amendment to the rivers and harbors bill, having been assured by Sen. Overton [D., La.] that no motion to table the amendment would be made.

Aiken's amendment is similar to a bill he introduced in September, 1943, giving congressional approval to an executive agreement between the United States and Canada authorizing the 421 million dollar seaway and electric power development on the international rapids section of the St. Lawrence.

WALSH URGES U. S. BASES AS A PEACE TERM

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11 (AP).—The chairman of the senate and house naval committees said today they want the United States to have whatever naval bases it needs outside this country after the war.

Sen. Walsh [D., Mass.] declared in an interview that "Any naval bases our strategists say are necessary to the defense of this country ought to be taken up at the peace table as part of the peace terms."

Rep. Vinson [D., Ga.] asserted he wanted "the United States to have whatever naval bases are needed in the Pacific for defense of this country. If they are now owned by other countries, I hope we can acquire them as we did bases in the Atlantic in a manner satisfactory to all parties concerned." Vinson said he referred only to Pacific bases "because we already have Atlantic bases on a 99 year lease."

WORLD POLITICS CLOUDS NATION'S RUBBER OUTLOOK

Army and Civilian Tire Prospects Dark.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—America's synthetic rubber industry is producing more than enough for essential requirements, but the outlook for tires, both for the army and for civilians, is dark. A survey in the industry and among federal agencies indicates the outlook is even worse than the bad news made public by administration press agents during the last few weeks.

Natural Rubber Is Scarce.

The civilian passenger car tire shortage is caused by inadequate man power and building facilities rather than any shortage of synthetics. However, the most precarious aspect of the tire situation is the limited supply of natural rubber, needed for tires for planes and for large trucks.

The natural rubber supply has become involved in a world wide turmoil of internal politics and international diplomacy. Imports have dropped below expectations and their continuance is in jeopardy.

Altho America can make synthetic rubber at the rate of a million tons a year, compared with a peace time consumption of 600,000 tons of crude rubber a year, 126,000 tons of natural latex are needed each year. Big tires for heavy trucks, planes, and buses require part of the natural latex and the army has increased its estimate of 1945 requirements.

Stockpile to Diminish.

When new facilities for tire building are completed in the next three or four months, the nation may consume natural rubber at a rate of 138,000 tons a year. Imports now approximate a rate of 120,000 tons a year, and by Jan. 1 the stockpile will be down to 75,000 tons, less than a minimum inventory for convenience in manufacturing.

Three government officials, in separate interviews, said imports are not likely to be increased but are more likely to shrink as a result of internal strife in production countries, which has been hushed by censorship. They declined, for diplomatic and political reasons, to attach their names to their statements.

According to these sources, Latin American rubber producers, now that fears of Hitler have subsided, no longer are as eager to coöperate with Uncle Sam. Furthermore, western hemisphere dictators have serious preoccupations of their own. Their relations with each other are said to have been disturbed by dollar and arms contributions from America which in some cases also have disturbed their domestic affairs.

Labor Affects Problem.

In the first eight months of this year, America received 22,508 tons of rubber grown in the western hemisphere. The nation received 37,969 tons from the far east, mainly Ceylon, and this volume likewise has been reduced by political strife, it was learned today.

In addition to unusually heavy rains, cited by the British as explanation for low production in Ceylon, there also has been a labor shortage. The Indian governments won't allow their subjects to be exported to Ceylon. Ceylon won't permit use of Chinese or Malayan labor.

The world's most productive rubber plantations still are in Japanese possession. Gen. MacArthur bypassed them to invade the Philippines. There is speculation he might be forced to change his strategy to make the plantations a military objective, altho it is assumed that if the British give him substantial aid in the Pacific they will aim for the rubber, tin, and oil colonies.

Another possibility for relief from the natural rubber shortage is the further technological advancement in the use of synthetics.

THREE GARDEN PRIZES AWARDED BY GOV. GREEN

Gov. Green yesterday awarded war bond prizes to three winners of the Illinois "Green Thumb" contest who submitted the best records of their home gardens in a state-wide competition. The awards were made at the Union League club. Mr. and Mrs. William A. Twiss, Elmhurst, won a $500 bond for first prize in the adult contest. Wayne Niewold, New Holland, Logan county, won the event for high school students, and Elmer L. Stone, Grayslake, Lake county, won the contest for elementary students.

Stateville Resident Forced to Move

Didn't Want to Go

Emil Lustig, 52, who didn't want to leave what he thought was the friendly hospitality of Stateville penitentiary, left anyhow yesterday because the law which had put him there in the first place said it was time for him to go. Lustig had completed a 15 month sentence for confidence game. He is a brother of Alfred Lustig, known as the "Count," now serving a term in federal prison for a money making machine swindle. Last week Lustig told Warden Joseph E. Ragen he'd like to remain in prison extra time, but Ragen replied no to the strange request. So yesterday, prison gates opened, and Lustig walked out into the snow, in a new prison suit, and with $10 prison money in his pockets. In addition, he had $170 of his own funds. Lustig said he thought he'd go to New York City, where his wife runs a cafe.

EXTRA WAR JOBS FOR EMPLOYES O.K. WITH CITY

No Raises in '45—It's Way to Earn More.

City employes who want to make more money in 1945 will have to earn it by working part time in war plants, Ald. Bowler [25th], chairman of the city council finance committee, and Ald. Lindell [9th], chairman of the subcommittee on pay raises, said yesterday.

No raises will be allowed next year, they said, except the automatic civil service increases provided for beginning policemen, firemen, and clerks.

Old Rule Overlooked.

Any city employe, however, may take a part time job in war work, and city officials will not object, the aldermen announced. This was the first official withdrawal of the old objection against city workers holding two jobs. A civil service rule forbids an employe accepting outside employment, and it has been cause for some dismissals.

"The city is not authorizing municipal employes to enter war work on the side," Ald. Lindell said. "Officials just won't object."

He said department heads will cooperate in the "no objecting" plan.

Pay Hearings Begin.

"If a city employe wants to take a part time war job," he said, "he may go to his department head and tell him about the job. The department head will rearrange the city hours, if possible, to fit in better with the spare time job."

The announcement that city wages will not be raised next year was made as Lindell's subcommittee began hearing the representatives of 30 employe groups petitioning pay increases which would total $6,700,000. Policemen and firemen asked a blanket 20 per cent raise, amounting to $5,800,000. Bowler and Aldermen Cowhey [41st], Hartnett [12th], and Orlikoski [35th] are members of the subcommittee.

Either All or None.

"In refusing all requests for more pay," Lindell said, "we have taken the position that if all can't get a raise, then none should."

Ald. Bowler said the finance committee is attempting to pay back bills, including a $1,300,000 electric power bill owed to the sanitary district, before the creditors obtain judgments against the city.

STOLEN AUTO HALTS AT POLICE STATION; 4 HELD

Two young men and a young woman from Chicago and a parolee from Michigan were held under $3,500 bond each on auto theft charges in Geneva yesterday. They experienced what to them was the misfortune of running out of gas in a stolen car in front of the Geneva police station.

Those held were Melvin Chapman, 18, of Lansing, Mich., on parole since Nov. 6 after having served two years in the Michigan state reformatory on a house breaking charge; Herbert Luster, 15, of 1007 N. Wolcott av.; Dale Hunsaker, also 15, of 1532 N. Paulina st., and Miss Lois Wiltse, 17, of 1849 Ohio st. Chapman, police said, was carrying a revolver.

Charles Seidel, Kane county state's attorney, said that Chapman stole the car of W. A. Abelda of Champaign, Ill., in Chicago, and picked up Luster, Hunsaker, and Miss Wiltse at Clark st. and North av. They drove west in the snowstorm, then ran out of gas on State st., Geneva, opposite the police station.

PARKED CAR STOLEN.

Henry Lerman, 1303 S. California av., complained to police yesterday that some one stole his sedan while it was parked in front of 1816 S. Drake av.

ENGINEERS URGE $37,337,000 CITY SEWER PROJECT

A sewer construction program which would cost $37,337,000 and serve 664,000 persons in north and south side neighborhoods was recommended yesterday by the Chicago engineering board of review.

The south side projects are:

1. Central system, costing $14,900,000 and serving 368,000 persons in an area of 12,100 acres, from Pershing rd. to 87th st. and from Loomis st. east to Lake Michigan.
2. Paulina st. system, to cost $2,291,000 and serve 56,000 persons in a 2,200 acre area from Pershing rd. to 87th st. and from Loomis st. west to Leavitt st.
3. Beverly-Calumet system, to cost $9,238,000 and serve 60,000 persons in a 5,200 acre area bounded by 87th st. on the north, by the city limits [110th and 123d sts.] on the south, roughly by Western av. and California av. on the west, and by Morgan st. on the east.
4. The 130th st. system, to cost $5,454,000 and serve 17,000 persons in the extreme southeast parts of the city. This system is between 114th st., 138th st., the Illinois-Indiana state line, and Wolf lake.

Three projects, to cost $4,454,000 and serve 143,000 persons, are proposed for the north side. They are:

1. Ainslie-Pratt system, bounded by Howard st. on the north, Clark st. on the east, Lawrence av. on the south, and the North Shore channel on the west. Basements in this area have been flooded repeatedly during severe rain storms.
2. Ardmore av. station, serving an area bounded by Peterson av. on the north, Western av. on the east, Bryn Mawr av. on the south, and the North Shore channel on the west.
3. Addison st. system, lying in Addison st. from the north branch of the Chicago river to Racine av., with extensions in Racine av., Eddy st., Seminary av., and Roscoe st. to Clark st.

Public Works Commissioner Hewitt said the sanitary district would be asked to spend 15 million dollars on connecting sewers.

REA CHIEF QUITS IN PROTEST OVER NEW DEAL RULE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—Harry Slattery, rural electrification administrator who last February told a senate subcommittee of White House efforts to force him out of his job, has submitted his resignation to President Roosevelt and it was immediately accepted, it was announced today.

Harry Slattery.

The White House announcement did not include the exchange of letters between Mr. Roosevelt and Slattery, but Slattery issued a prepared statement charging Secretary of Agriculture Wickard with illegally replacing him as actual REA administrator. The REA originally was an independent agency but now is a part of the agriculture department.

Slattery charged Wickard's actions jeopardize the repayment of government loans made by the REA and are dangerous to the welfare and permanent success of the REA.

Carries Fight to Public.

"The President's order forbids federal officials to engage in public controversies," he said. "Therefore, I have resigned to carry this fight to the public." He submitted the resignation last week.

Slattery said that as administrator he was clearly responsible to congress and the President altho he was under the general supervision and direction of the secretary of agriculture, but that under Wickard's encroachments the situation in REA had "become indefensible and increasingly intolerable."

"Mr. Wickard, by giving a deputy administrator 'coördinate' authority and by exercising directive power thru his deputy, has illegally bypassed and displaced me as actual administrator," Slattery said. "Without consulting me, important changes were made in fiscal management, general policy, the hiring and firing of personnel, and even in the daily administration of REA. These actions are illegal and contrary to the REA act."

Seen as Election Medium.

Early this year before the senate agriculture subcommittee Slattery charged the New Deal was using the REA as a sounding board for fourth term election pleas. Slattery said Wickard first asked him to resign in June, 1943. Later, he said, he was summoned to the White House by Jonathan W. Daniels, a Presidential secretary, and was told it would be easier for the President and all concerned if he resigned.

He testified he was called to the White House again and Daniels and Samuel I. Rosenman, Presidential adviser, then proposed that if he would step out of REA he would be given another job.

This job, he said, was a state department appointment as head of a foreign REA which would presumably undertake to furnish electric light and power to African bushmen and Italian peasants at American expense.

In Service Since 1912.

Slattery has been in the Washington scene since 1912, and his main activities have related to conservation projects. He was a special assistant to Franklyn M. Lane, secretary of interior, in 1917-'18, and he drafted the federal power act of 1920. He is credited with unearthing the Teapot Dome oil scandal. He was undersecretary of interior when he was named REA administrator in 1939.

Slattery cited the recent discharge of Dr. Willard Herring, chief of REA operations, as an instance in which his authority was overridden. Herring's successor, J. T. Robertson of Boonville, Ark., he said, is a "correspondence school engineer" without the qualifications for the job.

CHICAGO LEADS U.S. IN VENEREAL DISEASE FIGHT

Chicago led all cities with more than 250,000 population in keeping down the source of venereal infection among military personnel during the latter half of 1943.

The record, compiled by the United States public health service, was reported yesterday by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the Chicago board of health, at a luncheon of the City club in the La Salle hotel. "Chicago is a safe city for our boys to visit, and to return home to," Dr. Bundesen said. "We're keeping man power up by keeping it fit."

Dr. Bundesen said that the city cooperates with the army and navy, physicians, hospitals, social protection representatives and clinics, and maintains a first rate system of locating infected individuals and keeping them under treatment until cured or made medically harmless. An important phase of the work, he said, is the intensive treatment center at 2449 Dearborn st.

MARINE INDICTED IN 2D CAPITAL RAPE SLAYING

Accused of Murder in Death of Widow, 63.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11 (AP).—A marine private awaiting trial for the "snood slaying" of a government clerk was accused today of a second rape killing—that of a woman, 63.

Earl McFarland.

The District of Columbia grand jury returned an indictment charging the marine, Earl McFarland, 24, with the murder of Mrs. Margaret Fitzwater, a widow, whose nude body was found Sept. 24 floating in a lagoon near the Pentagon building.

McFarland previously had been indicted for the Potomac park slaying Oct. 5 of Miss Dorothy M. Berrum, 18, a war department clerk from Chippewa Falls, Wis. His trial in that case has been set for Jan. 8.

Restaurant Worker Absolved.

McFarland's indictment in the slaying of Mrs. Fitzwater absolved Gardner Holmes, 66, a restaurant worker who was arrested in his houseboat soon after the discovery of Mrs. Fitzwater's body. Mrs. Fitzwater was a housekeeper.

John W. Fihelly, assistant United States attorney, said McFarland, a veteran of South Pacific action, had been identified by a waitress as the elderly woman's companion the night of the slaying. Fihelly said McFarland denied knowledge of either crime.

McFarland was arrested in the Berrum case after a taxi driver identified him as the girl's companion on a ride to a public golf course where the garroted body was found. Miss Berrum's snood had been used to strangle her.

Woman's Throat Slashed.

Mrs. Fitzwater's throat had been slashed. Both bodies bore evidence of severe beating and both victims had been raped.

Fihelly said the similarity of the crimes led police to suspect McFarland in the earlier slaying after his arrest in the Berrum case.

McFarland is a native of Maryville, Tenn. His wife and two children live in New Market, Tenn.

COUNTY BUDGET MAY STAY CLOSE TO 24½ MILLION

Cook county's budget makers expect to go to work in earnest by the end of this week and indicated they hope to keep the annual appropriations bill near 24½ million dollars, about the same figure as last year's.

Commissioner Daniel Ryan, finance chairman, said he would insist on an economy program and that he and the other commissioners were against any personnel increases in the offices they control completely.

About 35 per cent of the employes of the county are in 13 fee offices. The judges of the Circuit court fix the number of workers in each office, but not their compensation. In other departments, the county board fixes the number and the pay of all workers.

Reports in the county building were that it would not be surprising if the judges should bar any personnel increases under their powers. Another guess was that they might approve the request of Sheriff Mulcahy for 25 additional highway police deputies and three sergeants. Such an increase would cost the county about $75,000.

3½ BLOCKS TAXI RIDE IS ISSUE IN MANN ACT CASE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11 (AP).—The supreme court agreed today to rule on whether the Mann act applies to a 3½ block taxicab ride taken by a girl in the District of Columbia for prostitution purposes.

Miss Carmen Beach, accused of having thus transported the girl from the Beach apartment to a hotel, was convicted in federal District court and sentenced to one to three years' imprisonment. Her counsel contended the Mann act applied only to transportation across state lines.

The circuit court of appeals for the District of Columbia reversed the District court, deciding the law does not apply to transportation solely within the district.

Start Christmas Seals' Sale in Building Lobbies

Sale of Christmas seals in support of the 1945 tuberculosis drive was spurred in Chicago yesterday when Maj. Gen. Russel B. Reynolds, commandant of the 6th service command, purchased a sheet from Miss Margaret close, a cadet nurse, in the lobby of the Civic Opera building.

GOLDSTEIN'S TAX RETURNS CITED IN PERJURY CASE

In a plea for a new trial for William [Big Bill] Johnson, former gambler, defense attorneys charged yesterday before Federal Judge John P. Barnes that Atty. William Goldstein was guilty of perjury in connection with Johnson's conviction on income tax charges. Johnson was sentenced to five years in prison and assessed a $10,000 fine.

William Goldstein.

Attorneys Harold R. Schradzke and William J. Dempsey produced income tax returns allegedly made by Goldstein and signed by his son, Theodore, which they said showed, without contradiction by the government, that Goldstein either perjured himself on the witness stand in Johnson's trial or perjured himself in statements to the bureau of internal revenue.

Then both orally and in their written plea the lawyers stated that Goldstein had a "two-fold compelling motive for testifying falsely: [1] To protect his friend and client, William R. [Billy] Skidmore [now dead], from criminal and civil tax liability; and [2] to obtain immunity for himself [Goldstein] from prosecution for perjury, and to escape disbarment" at the hands of the bar association.

The hearing revolves around the Albany Park Bank building, 3424 Lawrence av. The income tax returns of Theodore Goldstein, produced by the defense, showed that Theodore included and lumped income from the building with other income, that he paid the taxes, and claimed depreciation, exercising "every prerogative of ownership."

CONVICT TURNER OF KILLING GIRL WITH A KNIFE

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 11 (AP).—A Circuit court jury tonight convicted Robert William Turner, 19, of first degree murder in connection with the knife slaying March 27 of Joyce Raulston, 14, near a city dump.

Under Michigan law, life sentence is mandatory upon conviction of first degree murder, but Judge Vincent M. Brennan said he would await a probation department report before sentencing Turner.

The jurors received the case shortly after Judge Brennan denied a defense attempt to introduce testimony about a "confession" made by Richard N. Vincent, who later repudiated it. Vincent was on trial for the girls' death when Turner was arrested last June. Charges against Vincent were dismissed.

Turner was arrested after his landlady found in his room a woman's purse and blood stained clothing, identified as having belonged to the Raulston girl, whose body was found with bruises about the head and both lungs punctured by stab wounds.

SENATORS PLAN N. AFRICAN TOUR FOR WAR PROBE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11 (AP).—A two man senate subcommittee will tour army and navy bases in North Africa during the Christmas holidays to determine whether that area is making the "fullest contribution" to the battle lines.

Chairman Mead [D., N. Y.] of the war investigating committee said Senators Tunnell [D., Del.] and Burton [R., Ohio] will comprise the subcommittee. They will be accompanied by George Meader, assistant committee counsel.

Mead said, "Problems in connection with procurement, salvaging reclamation, repairing, and disposal of supplies will be explored." They also will study questions involving air base rights.

For Red Cross

Mrs. Charles W. Sewell (left) and Mrs. Mark Clark look at $37,807.83 check for the Red Cross.

Mrs. Mark Clark, wife of the commander of the United States 5th army, spoke last night before the closing session of the Associated Women of the American Farm Bureau federation at Hotel Sherman. The organization has a national membership of more than 750,000 farm women located in 44 states.

Mrs. Clark, who said her husband writes her repeatedly of the courage and bravery of his troops, spoke on "A General's Wife Looks at the War." She blamed part of the world's woe to the fact science has made greater progress than politics.

During the year the members of the association have contributed $37,807.83 to purchase and maintain a clubmobile, according to Mrs. Charles W. Sewell, administrative director. These vehicles are outfitted with a doughnut machine, coffee urn, small library, and in many instances a 16 mm. moving picture outfit. They are operated by Red Cross girls in isolated areas where service men on duty are unable to get to a club.

FEAR PATRICIA MAY NOT LIVE TO CHRISTMAS

Christmas is not far away but Patricia Attaway, 6, Aurora lymphatic leukemia victim, may not live to see it. She was "not so well" yesterday, according to her father, Chief M. E. Attaway, who traveled 8,000 miles from the South Pacific by boat and air to be at the bedside of the child.

"We were going to get a Christmas tree for her room today," he said, "but she is not well enough. . . . Maybe tomorrow."

Dr. E. M. Thomas said Patricia's condition was worse. "But we expected such a change. It's the natural course of the disease," he said. Patricia was taken to the St. Charles hospital Nov. 9 and gained the attention of the world thru her fight to live until her father could be located in the South Pacific and sent home. She showed a slight gain after his arrival. Medical science does not record a cure from the rare blood disease.

SLEW HIS WIFE BUT BY MISTAKE, HUSBAND SAYS

Decatur, Ill., Dec. 11.—Mrs. Mary Burchfield, 23, was shot and killed at her home tonight, and State's Atty. Roy B. Foster said that her husband, Elmer, 28, admitted that he fired the shotgun but declared he thought he was shooting at a man emerging from her bedroom.

Foster quoted Burchfield as saying he came home at 4 p. m. to find his wife in bed with another man and that he went to the basement, got his shotgun and fired at a figure leaving the bedroom before he realized it was his wife.

Burchfield said he put his wife's body in the bathtub, Foster reported, and pondered two hours before deciding to call police.

Foster said Burchfield and another man were being held.

FUEL OIL RATION IS UNCHANGED FOR PERIODS 2-3

Rations of fuel oil will remain unchanged at 10 gallons a coupon unit for period 2, which began yesterday in the Pacific northweast area and will start Dec. 18 in all other areas, the office of price administration announced in Washington, D. C. Period 3 coupons also become good Dec. 18 in the midwestern and southern states because periods 2 and 3 are combined in those states. Period 3 coupons will have a 10 gallon unit value in the middle west and south.

Shoe dealers will be permitted to sell a limited number of obsolete shoes ration free after obtaining the approval of their district OPA offices. Single shoes without mates also may be sold. One dollar a pair for outmoded shoes and 50 cents each for single shoes are the ceiling prices without coupons.

Cloth manufacturers who sell to small towns and rural areas were given priorities by the war production board in a program in which 10 million yards of staple cotton goods have been alloted primarily for home sewing for the first quarter of 1945. Goods allotted include cotton prints, percale, broadcloth, lawn, outing flannel, gingham, and seersucker.

STATE CHAMPS HONOR KING OF CORN GROWERS

George L. Renner, of Sioux Falls, S. D., who learned enough about farming in his 67 years to raise 5,282.7 bushels of corn on 30 acres, was honored in Hotel Stevens yesterday as national champion hybrid corn grower by other state and Canadian winners. The champions were guests at a luncheon sponsored by the De Kalb Agricultural association.

Renner, with an average yield of 176.09 bushels an acre, is the first national winner for the Dakotas, but he credited his success to the rain which fell in abundance thruout the summer. The champion used a 404A variety on all of the 250 acres which he planted on his 720 acre farm.

Mrs. Bertha Den Adel, 55, of Leighton, Ia., who was crowned national woman champion, was credited with 145.34 bushels to an acre.

The 30 inch silver trophy awarded annually to a juvenile champion went to Arthur Eugene Else, 14, of Elmcreek, Neb. Young Else grew his corn on five acres, and got an average of 150.47 bushels.

DOG SUSPECTED OF BITING OFF MASTER'S HEAD

Rainier, Ore., Dec. 11 (AP).—Sheriff's deputies beat thru the backwoods near this Columbia river town today seeking a dog, suspected of chewing off the head of his master. The decapitated body of George Wroe, about 60, was found in an isolated cabin three miles from here. His huge dog, described by near-by farmers as vicious, fled to woods near-by at the approach of investigators.

Police Arrest 175 More in Auto Sticker Drive

Police arrested 175 motorists driving automobiles without safety stickers in the 24 hours ending at midnight Sunday, Edward J. Gorman, acting vehicle license commissioner, said yesterday. He said 32,000 cars have passed thru the city's testing lanes since the safety sticker drive was started Nov. 30.

STUDY WEAPON USED IN YANK'S SLAYING OVER WIFE'S CHARGE

Watertown, N. Y., Dec. 11 [Special].—Whether a pen knife or a marine commando knife was used in the fatal stabbing of Robert E. Hodkinson, 35, last Nov. 16 was the subject of conflicting testimony today at the continuation of a preliminary hearing of Marine Corp. Arthur D. Foster, 28, and his wife, Lillybell, 26, on murder charges.

Foster stabbed Hodkinson in a restaurant after Mrs. Foster had pointed him out as a man who raped her several weeks previously. No knife was found at the scene and police later took a commando knife from Mrs. Foster's purse and sent it to Washington for examination for blood stains.

Police Detective Carl Green testified that Foster said after his arrest he had used a pen knife because Hodkinson was "too much for me in a fist fight." Anthony Costanzo, restaurant owner, described the knife as seven or eight inches long and "tapered like a bayonet."

The hearing, which is to determine whether Foster and his wife should be held for the January grand jury, will be resumed Wednesday.

THE LIFE AND DEATH OF WEALTH.

Many people believe that they are richer now than they ever were before or, as the London charwoman is credited with putting it, "this war has made many a happy home." All of which only indicates the widespread misunderstanding that exists about the nature of wealth.

People will point to their accumulation of war bonds as evidence of their increased well-being. And they are wealth to the individual, and so is a $20 bill. A war bond is a debt, a mortgage on the taxes of the nation, payable after the inflation period in which the bonds were issued. If a debt of all the people to a particular one were all there is to wealth, Washington could make us all Rockefellers in a week.

The real wealth of a country consists of the factories and the machinery, the farms and the mines, which make possible the production of useful things. It also includes the railroads, the street cars, and the light and power equipment. In a broader sense it also embraces the houses and the churches.

Do we have more of these things than we had when we entered the war or less? Any one who looks about him can see that there has been not growth but deterioration. There has been virtually no building of homes, not even enough to offset the ravages of time. Much of the household equipment is in need of repairs which cannot be made. Factory buildings, offices, railroad equipment, churches, and schools have been wearing out, too, and none has been built to take their place. Lathes, drills, conveyors, newspaper presses, typewriters, and many other things have been getting older and new ones have not been purchasable to take their places. If the average life of the pieces of American wealth is 20 years, the total wealth of the country has declined by 15 per cent since Pearl Harbor. The specialized equipment for producing arms, ammunition, tanks, and war planes, only some of which can be used in peace time, is a small offset.

This decline in real American wealth was in progress for at least 10 years before the war. We were living in quarters, traveling in street cars, and going to school in buildings of previous decades. To offset deterioration and fires alone, 3 per cent of the houses in Chicago should be built per year. That means about 25,000 homes. In the 10 years before 1941, fewer than 1,400 places to live per year were being constructed annually or less than 10 per cent of what was needed to hold our own. While 100,000 railroad cars a year were wearing out before the war, we were building fewer than 20,000.

Government policies with reference to taxation were largely responsible for this. Income and death taxes were imposed with the declared purpose of bringing about wider distribution of wealth. The mistake that was made by those who thought this up was in believing that wealth is static, whereas it is dynamic, that it is permanent, whereas all is used up, some from just one use, some over a period of 20 or 30 years. Wealth disappears constantly, and is in need of constant replacement. Anything which prevents additions from being made to our stock of wealth, such as confiscatory taxation or a war, impoverishes society. The loss is not relieved by a larger stock or wider distribution of counters in the form of money.

What we have been discussing is a disappearance of tangible wealth. In addition, there is the loss which cannot be measured or precisely anticipated, which is usually referred to as obsolescence. An excellent business in wooden windmills became worthless when steel windmills came into use. With some adaptations, the owner turned to the manufacture of buggies. The business has long since ceased to be. What was a large stock of capital became worthless.

Civilization makes progress and the standard of living rises as a result of the additions to wealth. For this there must be a never ending flow of new inventions, organizers prepared to make the new articles or put the new techniques to work, and people willing to take risks. The place of the organizers and risk takers is of the greatest importance. The Wright brothers are immortal because they invented the airplane, but they built only one or two. They could not even improve their first one. Whether or not George B. Selden invented the automobile, he did not make it merchantable. If electricity had stopped with Faraday, it would have created no wealth. It took the Edisons and then the factory organizers to create and produce the millions of horses, whose work delivered over copper wire makes our high standard of living possible.

The belief in the efficacy of the sharing of wealth derives from the assumption that it is static. If that were true, it might be a good idea to take up all there is and pass it around equally to every one. But the fact that wealth isn't permanent, but wears out, and has to be replaced if civilization is not to lose ground steadily and the fact that there must be constant search for betterment and expansion destroys the advantages of wealth sharing for those who like the idea, but are capable of facing the facts. In a static state, communism might be all right. It is not for those who believe that there can be progress. Nobody wants to share the wealth that is gone or going. Few, if any, people know of wealth that is to be created. Some think they know. Some hope they know. Some are right and some are wrong.

O, THEM OPERA SLIPPERS.

We saw an advertisment of opera slippers in the paper the other day. We had long known that there was such a thing as an opera slipper and had supposed it was something worn by the ladies. That, however, is not the fact. From the picture and the printed matter that went with it, we learned that what we have always thought of as just slippers, plain, ordinary leather slippers for men, are really opera slippers.

In fact, we had a fine pair of them until a few months ago when it was decided they were worn out and we must have others. What came our way was a pair fit for a Chinaman. That is to say, the prow was decked over to receive the fore part of the foot, but there was no vertical structure at the stern to contain the heel. Perhaps there is a language of shoes corresponding to the language of flowers, but if so, the symbolism is not entirely clear. Were the generous donors suggesting that the recipient was too much the heel to be contained or too little the heel to require restraint? Both theories are plausible in the sense that evidence can be cited to support either.

With a little practice, almost anybody can learn to shuffle from room to room in such footwear, but stairs present a more difficult problem. Perhaps Chinamen know how to go up or down a flight without losing their shoes, but theirs is an ancient civilization which has been able to devote a thousand years to finding the answer for the left foot and another thousand for the right. Given the same amount of time, we might do as well. Five or six years will not suffice.

By that time the Chinese models in their turn will have to be replaced and we shall specify opera slippers if we can remember the name that long. It won't be easy because almost all objects which have the word opera in their names bear unpleasant associations. Who would prefer an opera hat to a hat? Who would want an opera glass rather than a good pair of binoculars? Who would sit in an opera chair if he could find even a campstool? Memory insists that opera creams are eminently desirable, but are they? We haven't seen any for a long time, but for a nickel you used to be able to get quite a lot of them, either vanilla or chocolate. They were to candy what Alexanders are to cocktails, very bland and very sweet. For present-day eating we prefer an opera hat.

Why are all these opera items, opera slippers, always excepted, so distressing to think about? Surely it cannot be because of association with the institution of which Miss Cassidy writes with an enthusiasm that often almost wins our patronage. And why are opera slippers called opera slippers? Can it be because gentlemen in opera chairs, trying to find a place to put their feet, inevitably think how nice it would be, etc., etc.?

A NEW TRIPLE ALLIANCE.

Gen. de Gaulle's visit to Russia resulted, as was expected, in the signing of a treaty of alliance and mutual assistance. The terms have not been announced. It is said that the new treaty generally parallels the Anglo-Russian accord.

It looks more and more as if the triple entente has been recreated. Before the last war the same powers—Russia, England, and France—were working together against the triple alliance of Germany, Austria, and Italy. In that war Italy left the alliance and joined the entente. Russia was knocked out and for a decade or more after the war played no great part in the European game. Before the present war began, however, France and her satellites and Russia recognized a common enemy in Germany, but when their fears were realized it was found that the alliance they had formed had fallen apart. France would not back Czechoslovakia against Germany, and a little later on Russia concluded the deal with Hitler which left him free to start the present war. Thruout much of the period between the wars the relations between England and France and England and Russia were also none too good.

Now the alliance is being reconstituted and the probability is that it will hold together at least until the spoils in Europe, Africa, and Asia have been divided up. Britain seems to have been granted leadership over Italy and Greece and may well fall heir to some of the Italian colonies in North Africa. Russia has been given the Baltic states outright, half of Poland, and full control over Bulgaria, Hungary, and Romania. Some kind of a division of influence in Yugoslavia is in the cards. France seems destined to have as much of the Rhine frontier as she wants, and will participate in the occupation of Germany and the control of the Ruhr.

There are, of course, numerous points of conflict between these allies. England and Russia are about to renew the rivalry over Persia that subsided after Edward VII. came to an understanding with Nicholas before the last war. England and France may quarrel over leadership in western Europe and over colonial questions and France and Russia over leadership in central Europe. All of them will quarrel with China.

These developments or others like them may be expected some time in the future, after the allies have sucked all they can out of the common victory. Meanwhile, the European allies may be expected to march along together, with rather more harmony than disharmony.

And where does this leave the United States? Obviously isolated and quite unable to influence European affairs. That is Mr. Roosevelt's peculiar diplomatic triumph. He overcame the isolationist instinct and tradition of the American people by assuring them that only by intervening in Europe could they hope to lead the world into the path of peace. Accordingly, America intervened, and has suffered half a million casualties and accumulated a 200 billion dollar debt, only to find that Europeans intend to run Europe and don't intend to ask us how to go about it. We could have arrived at the same position at little or no cost. All we had to do was to persist in our traditional view that Europe's politics is primarily Europe's business, not ours.

LEAD NICKELS OF LANGUAGE.

Somerset Maugham says of his American characters in "The Razor's Edge":

"I have not attempted to reproduce the peculiarities of their speech. The mess English writers make when they try to do this is only equaled by the mess American writers make when they try to reproduce English as spoken in England. Slang is the great pitfall."

Yet Mr. Maugham frequently puts into the mouths of Americans of the 1920s a bit of today's jargon which was unborn then. His sophisticates are fond of "I wouldn't know," which was happily unknown in the decade that followed the first World war.

* * *

"I wouldn't know" is a grammatical curiosity which, we suspect, has been borrowed from dialect comedians or recently naturalized speakers of broken English. It seems to be the first clause of an unfinished conditional sentence. "I wouldn't know if"——. To us the completed sentence should be "I wouldn't know if I were willing to answer the question." Altho worn by common usage into the meaningless babbling of vacant minds, it has a background of impertinence. It is often intended to be impertinent. Moreover, it signifies a reprehensible indifference to knowledge. "I wouldn't know if I stopped to think." It is the slogan of the dumbbell, striking an attitude of worldly nonchalance. Fortunately, the prevalence of this annoyance is abating.

* * *

Another bit of American parrot talk which should be tabooed is "That's right" as an earnest announcement of assent to any obvious statement of fact. It is the slogan of a nation of yes-men, voluble and obsequious in agreement. It is the voice of Charlie McCarthy cheering Edgar Bergen. During the last year or two it has run thru popular speech like an echo. Are we sick of it! That's right.

The Battle of Early Shoppers.

I must remember to do my Christmas shopping early, I said to myself last January. So the other day I had the boys make out their Christmas lists. The results came under three headings: [a] desire very much, [b] will accept under protest, and [c] we can dream, can't we? This latter I ignore entirely.

On Saturday I double my vitamin dosage. On Monday I embark for the loop. So do two million other women, some of whom undoubtedly have been taking iron tablets. Their elbows dig foxholes in my sides. This should earn me a purple rib, with clusters.

I tear my way into the toy section, plunge thru pajamas, battle the book department, lunge into lingerie, and finally, after hours of wear and tear, emerge triumphant but battered on State st. Engulfed by the crowd, I am convoyed across the street and into the scout trading post. A handax is next on my list. "This is where I should have begun shopping," I decide. "I could have hewn my way thru the mobs."

"Do you have sleeping bags?" I inquire, praying the answer will be yes.

"Will you have it sent or take it with you?" she asks.

With my last exhausted breath I manage to whisper, "If you don't mind, perhaps I'd better use it right here."

Remind me next year, please, to do my Christmas shopping early. Eugenia Gerlach Stein.

WHEN I AM DEAD.

Forget me, dear, when I am dead.
I shall not mind that overhead
Another's feet shall lead your feet
Along some unfamiliar street.

You need not feign fidelity
When death and dust encompass me;
When sunlight cups your loved one's hair
Instead of mine, I shall not care.

I shall lie straight, and slim, and brave
Within the burrow of my grave,
In mossy gown and petticoat
With willow roots about my throat.

Then alien to pain and hate
I shall lie there and contemplate,
My thin arms crossed upon my breast,
Forgotten, yes, and unpossessed——

But never, never quite alone
When intimate with sod and stone,
And I shall know composite sound
Of small, dead voices underground.

Aware of this, you must not mourn:
The leaf and blade, the bud and thorn
Will lift my arms, my eyes, my mouth;
O, then beware a wind turned south!

C. Middleton.

Was that a rehearsal for a white Christmas?

Friend of Yanks' Kin

By Sally Joy Brown

[This department answers questions related to help available to relatives of service men, in the column or by mail, if stamped, addressed envelopes are sent to Sally Joy Brown.]

Mrs. A. G. writes: "Due to my husband's illness, we have been living on family allowances provided by our two sons in service. Two months ago we were notified one son had been killed in action. Last week I received a check for the first payment from his insurance. I also have applied for a mother's pension. Will this affect the family allowance we still receive from our remaining son, and can I continue to accept both the allowance and the insurance payments?"

ANSWER: If your living expenses exceed the monthly insurance benefits and other income by an amount which still makes you chiefly dependent on your son, you still will be entitled to receive a class "B-1" allowance. If you are only substantially dependent, you could be considered a class "B" dependent, but if dependency no longer exists, your eligibility for an allowance ends.

Notify the office of dependency benefits of your change of status. Give the amount of your monthly insurance check and any other income. Describe the full circumstances with regard to your husband's illness, and be sure to list all living expenses, including medical bills, if they are regular items of the household expenses. You then will be notified as to your status.

TRACKING DOWN ABDOMINAL PAIN.

PAIN below the diaphragm is a neglected symptom in many instances. If a patient gives a history of occasional attacks for years the situation cannot be dismissed lightly. It may be important enough to do something about.

The entire manifestation may be traced to what is termed a "viscerosensory reflex." Sufferers from this disorder are likely to experience tenderness involving the skin of the abdominal wall. Furthermore, they will remark, "I seem to ache inside." In consequence, the intestinal canal is blamed. Nevertheless, the conclusion is not accurate as the phenomenon is based upon a mechanical defect. This is what happens: A loop of gut will balloon up with gas. So much tension upon the abdominal wall may ensue that the parts will become rigid. There is no true disease present. The episodes can be ascribed to pressure which communicates itself to the sympathetic nerves. Fortunately, the relaxing effect of belladonna will usually afford complete relief.

We are all familiar with the grumblings of the one who is afflicted with a peptic ulcer. Discomfort comes on at a certain interval after a meal, is alleviated by food or alkalis, and makes periodical appearances almost with the regularity of a well timed clock.

Every now and then, trouble within the gall bladder, the liver, or some of its conduits will occasion excruciating agony. If a stone travels along the ducts, powerful doses of a narcotic may be demanded. But the site of distress may be in the pit of the stomach. After a time, it may radiate thru to the back and up to the right shoulder.

The colon likewise must be considered. Dilate this portion of the bowel, either with food débris or flatulence, and the patient will encounter a sense of fullness associated with a dull ache, or colicky twinges. As a rule, adequate dietary control is all that is necessary. Roughage must be shunned.

We dare not forget the rôle of the appendix, but this is too well known to require much discussion. When it comes to the kidneys, the bladder, or the ureters, we have a long pathway which may mislead us because stones descending from the kidneys have been diagnosed as appendicitis, ruptured peptic ulcer, gall bladder disease, etc. Even distention of the bladder can bring on signs of tenderness which may mount to a sharp backache.

Finally, we must not overlook the fact that tabes [locomotor ataxia] may be responsible for what we call "girdle pains" wherein the patient will complain of a sensation as tho a firm, constricting band were being drawn about the waist. A gastric crisis is usually localized in the stomach area and may occur with or without warning. A blood test and an examination of the nervous system will disclose the nature of the malady.

The abdomen is a fertile field for all sorts of disagreeable antics. About the worst thing that can be done is to assume that the bowel needs "cleaning out." There are so many possibilities that a careful study, tracking the irritating episodes to their lairs, is the only safe procedure.

BIG HEAD.

Mrs. R. writes: Is a rather large head in a child anything to be concerned about? Will it keep on growing?

REPLY.

Probably nothing to be alarmed about. The heads of most children appear oversized in comparison to their bodies. On the other hand, in hydrocephalus the skull becomes substantially larger than normal. Growth may stop of its own accord with little harm. If the process persists the advice of a skilled physician should be sought. X-ray films will decide.

DIGESTIVE SECRETION.

T. W. writes: What is meant by a bile disturbance?

REPLY.

Bile is secreted by the liver and is discharged into the bowel. It is one of our important digestive fluids. Trouble with the liver or the gall bladder may influence the output of this essential material.

WEIGHT.

Mrs. G. writes: The ladies in my club would like to know how much we should weigh according to age, height, etc. Do you have any printed material on this?

REPLY.

Yes. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for weight chart.

THE FRYING PAN

Front Views & Profiles

By MARCIA WINN

Open Letter to American Girls.

The letter signed "Constant Reader" was from an American corporal in Belgium. "I have been thru France, Luxembourg, Belgium, Germany, and back again, believe me," he wrote. "I hope you will print what I am sending you. Perhaps it will bring on a new light that will shine in their eyes."

The enclosure bore the simple title, "Trust":

"For the wrong that some have done, never accuse them all [he wrote]. I say this to the girls back home.

"They say loneliness makes the heart grow fonder. Loneliness also creates imagination, the right hand man to old man jealousy, the greatest heartbreaker and homewrecker of all times. So please don't let him creep into your young life.

"Your sweetheart or husband may be over here on one of our fighting fronts. Fighting day and night. Living a rugged life. Resting only a short period of the time. And you can rest assured his thoughts are only of you. He's looking forward for that day when he will be free to come back and pick up where he left off. To resume his family duties, his work, and his love for you. That is for the married ones. The single ones will catch up on their courting and then marry. All they talk about is the homes and loved ones they left behind.

"You girls back home are the most talked about. You all are bragged about from one end of this country to the other. They love you and are fighting for you.

"Like hungry kids they gather around the 'mailman.' Praying for a letter from you. Hoping you are well and happy. Longing to hold you tight. They miss you more than you'll ever know.

"Still, a lot of you nice young ladies back there will let that old monster jealousy creep right into your pure hearts and make his home there.

"The consequence is you begin to suspect him [the boy friend] of everything under the sun. Accuse him of wrongs he would never dream of doing. Yet he is blamed for them. It is incredible.

"Many a young fellow, both single and married, are walking around in a trance. Because his wife or girl friend broke up with him simply because she seen pictures of French girls kissing the American soldier boy. The first thoughts that strike their minds are that he's over there running around with them French and Belgian girls.

"Should you be one of these girls, you're wrong. Badly mistaken.

"The kissing of 'liberators' or American soldiers is an old French custom. It has been going on for ages. It will continue for ages to come. As long as there will be wars there will be kissing.

"They kissed the boys because they lived so long in poverty, hardship, and played the underdog to the Nazis. They wanted to show their appreciation for being made free. And a kiss was all they had to give or offer. The magazines and newspapers elaborated on it. And what did you do? Took it to heart, wrote him a nice insulting letter, made him unhappy and yourself miserable. Nothing gained, everything lost.

"To forget, you have a beautiful country. A home to live in. Take in a show. Go for a drive. Stand around and chat with old friends. A lot of things to help you forget.

"He has a war to fight and win. He has a dangerous enemy to face. The only drive he can take is one against the enemy. He has to concentrate on these fellows. Because they are coming at him with a dangerous weapon in their hands. And how can he do this with you and the sadness you've caused him on his mind? You answer it. It's your $64 question.

"Yes, wake up, you young ladies back there. And when you hear of a wrongdoing, don't jump at conclusions and say they're all alike. For you're wrong. They are not. They are fighting a hard battle. They need your love, not your distrust. This war will end real soon, and they will be coming back to you. The only ones they have ever loved or ever will."

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS TO SERVICE MEN.

SOMEWHERE IN ITALY, Nov. 18.—In this coming Christmas, instead of all the civilians so laboriously going to all the trouble of finding proper and suitable greeting cards to send their friends in the service, I suggest the following: Some quiet evening sit down next to the fireplace [if you have one], and compose a long, thoughtful letter to send them. Then, if the urge still persists, inclose a card with the letter.

We are, of course, thankful and overjoyed to know that our friends still remember and think of us. Yet, a card is so cold, so formal, so utterly devoid of the warm thoughts we would like to read about.

I am confident that every man in the service, wherever he may be, will enjoy a fuller, much happier Christmas if this is done.

WHO DOES HE THINK HE IS?

Waukesha, Wis., Dec. 7.—On this historic day in our history about which we know nothing but can guess plenty after three years, I take my pen in hand to scold those cantankerous people who dash into print about Upton Close. What's the matter with them? Don't they know there is a war on?

Why should Upton Close be allowed to tell us peasants anything when even the President of the United States can't or won't—the congress can't, Kimmel and Short can't, and the military can't or won't. Who does this fellow Close think he is anyhow, trying to inform the American people about what is going on? The man evidently has delusions of grandeur and the FBI ought to get him, and pronto.

Thank you for trying, anyhow. I mean trying to save us a free press, a free radio, and a little free thought. We're trying to give other peoples all over the globe these things. Why the heck can't we have them here, where they were born? MIGNON M. WEBB.

SCRAMBLE FOR CONTROL.

Bellwood, Ill., Nov. 28.—Those who believe we are headed into the realms of blissful, lasting peace, as a natural result of the victory we are going to win, are gifted more with optimism than they are with thinking power.

Witness the strife and antagonisms which are flourishing right under our noses, with victory at arms still a long way off. Examine Belgium, Greece, Italy, France, and the Balkans, where millions of nationals are turning against each other in the fury of bloody demonstrations. Purges, riots, liquidations, executions are the order of the day. There is a scramble for position and political advantage. The cry is: "To hell with the war—we must control now!" AMERICAN.

SOLDIERS' PACKAGES.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—Why is it that the boys doing the hardest fighting in the knee deep mud, slush, and frightful cold cannot be afforded the joy of at least receiving the letters and packages which have been so faithfully sent by their sisters, wives, mothers, and sweethearts? An investigation of the service of supply or the APO mail clerks might yield a partial answer. Reports have been received of a "smudgy" situation regarding cigarets sent to our fighters. ARTHUR HALL.

BABIES IN FOOD CARTS.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—The other day my wife asked me to stop at one of the chain food stores for a few items of food. Once inside, I selected a wire basket, placed it upon the food cart, and started down the aisle. I soon came upon a well appearing young mother with her baby comfortably seated in a wire food basket atop a cart like mine. She carried several packages of food on her arm while she walked along.

Noting the use made of food baskets, I left mine there and proceeded along without one. In the next aisle was another nicely dressed mother being kind to her baby; and in the next aisle still another, not quite as neat and clean appearing as the others. Each baby was old enough to walk. They had walked outside the store. The sight of a baby in a basket intended for items of food is anything but appetizing. Wrapped items are taken home and placed upon the kitchen table along with whatever street dirt may be clinging to them from the babies' shoes. Then, too, babies are babies, we know.

Being the only one at the cashier's counter I remarked about the baskets and carts as an attraction for mothers and babies. She made a gesture toward a sign on the wall, warning motners against using the carts for that purpose, then said, "They're not supposed to. They might get hurt if the cart tips over."

Why do not mothers read between the lines enough to take the hint that the sign intends also that it is unsanitary to place your items of food in a basket which a few moments before carried a baby's clothes and shoes soiled with street dirt? ARTHUR B. SKIDMORE.

ALDERMEN AND PRECINCT CAPTAINS.

Chicago, Dec. 6.—Here is a suggestion to Gov. Green and the legislature for better and cleaner politics. First, abolish the nonpartisan ballot for alderman. Make each party responsible for its candidate. That will cut bipartisan dealings by 80 per cent. Then elect the precinct captains. Today we have perhaps 20 per cent of our precincts unnamed in Chicago and this has been going on for years. If you have duly elected precinct captains you will have more interested voters in your precincts. W. S. JR.

USING MAIDEN NAME AFTER DIVORCE.

Chicago, Dec. 11.—Since my divorce in 1930 I have not used my former husband's name. 1. Can I remarry, using my maiden name, or [2] would that be illegal? V. C.

1. Yes. 2. No.

It is sufficient in legal proceedings and elsewhere, that a person is designated by a name by which he is commonly known and called, even tho it is not his true name. . . . A marriage by the name by which the individual is commonly known is valid. . . . Where it is not done for fraudulent purpose, and in the absence of statutory restriction, one may lawfully change his name without resort to any legal proceedings, and for all purposes the name thus assumed will constitute his legal name just as if he had borne it from birth."—45 C. J. 390, 381.

In Reinken vs. Reinken, 351 Ill. 409, these principles were applied in holding that a divorced woman can resume her maiden name without court permission.

CIO-UAW BACKS WARD STRIKE IN DETROIT STORES

Union Funds Set Aside to Fight Avery.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 11 (AP).—Four Montgomery Ward & Co. stores in the Detroit area remained open today despite a strike started Saturday by members of the CIO United Retail, Wholesale, and Department Store Employes.

Union officials said 1,500 of 2,200 employes of the store joined the strike, but a company spokesman estimated 80 per cent of the regular personnel remained at work.

About 30 persons manned picket lines at each store in a snowstorm this morning.

UAW Pledges Support.

Walter Reuther, vice president of the CIO United Automobile Workers, pledged the strikers the active support of "the half million UAW-CIO workers in this area."

August Scholle, national CIO representative in Michigan, called on all CIO affiliated unions to lend "moral and financial assistance in the strike."

Scholle said the executive board of the auto workers' union this year voted an appropriation of $25,000 "to aid in labor's fight against Sewell Avery [company board chairman] and Montgomery Ward."

Involves Union Check-off.

Roy Scoggins, Detroit regional director for the store employes' union, attributed the strike to the company's refusal to accept a WLB directive covering union maintenance of membership, dues check-off, seniority provisions, back pay demands, and arbitration of grievances.

Approximately $500,000 in back wages, ranging from $2 to $5 a week per employe, is due the employes under the WLB directive, Scoggins said.

Over the week-end Avery said the Detroit strike was unjustified. The company, he said, "will not agree to a closed shop."

DISCUSS CHICAGO STRIKE.

The executive board of local 20, which represents employes of the Chicago plants of Montgomery Ward, conferred last night on the question of another strike against the company.

Henry B. Anderson, president of the local, said the strike issue would be taken up by the stewards' council Thursday night. If a strike is called it would not be one in sympathy with the Detroit workers, he said, altho the demands on the company are similar.

CHILDREN LEFT IN COLD, THEIR MOTHER IS HELD

The indifference that Mrs. Sylvia Wyrick, 20, of 1747 Barry av., is charged with demonstrating toward her three children was not evident yesterday in Judge Charles S. Dougherty's Felony court, where she wept and showered kisses upon Lawrence, 3, and Donald, 2.

Her third child, Barbara, 10 months, was in County hospital undergoing treatment for frostbitten hands, which police said were suffered Friday night when the children were left alone in their unheated apartment.

OPTOMETRISTS TOLD CURE FOR DEFECTIVE EYES

A reconditioning treatment for defective eyesight, which was given to 551 men who had been rejected for military service and enabled 95 per cent of them to qualify, was described by Dr. William Smith, Boston optometrist, to the American Academy of Optometry, which held the second day of its three day session in the Stevens hotel yesterday.

Dr. Smith reported that "lasting results" were obtained by treating the defective vision and weak eye muscles of the group."

Dr. Henry Hofstedter of Ohio State university school of optometry reported to the academy that astigmatism correction which satisfies for distance vision is not in many cases effective for nearer vision. His conclusions, based on hundreds of tests made over the last three years, confirmed a suspicion that has existed in the profession for some time.

Several Plan to Move Soon to Winnetka

BY JUDITH CASS.

SANTA will have a real old-fashioned chimney down which to come when he visits the George W. Dixons this Christmas, for Mr. and Mrs. Dixon and their children will be settled in Winnetka by the holidays. The Dixons, who have been city dwellers since their marriage, have purchased a house in Cherry st., Winnetka, not far from the lake, and will move in Friday. Mrs. Dixon expects to be sufficiently settled so that she can welcome her parents, the Willard T. Walkers of Racine, Wis., for a Christmas visit.

Also Winnetka bound are the Lawrence O. Holmbergs, who have purchased a house in Elm st., Winnetka, just around the corner from the Dixons. They will not move to the suburb until April, however. Mrs. Holmberg's sister, Mrs. Dawson Newton, is in Miami, Fla., hoping that Petty Officer 1st Class Newton will be there for Christmas.

Also moving to Winnetka and to the same neighborhood as the Holmbergs and Dixons are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Burrows Jr. and their two young sons, Andy and Bill. Mr. and Mrs. Burrows will not move before April, either, for altho the house is theirs now, they are renting it to the previous owners, who are hunting for an apartment in town.

Dr. and Mrs. Frank W. Blatchford Jr. and their 3 year old son, Frank III., are at home in Winnetka, following Dr. Blatchford's recent discharge from the navy due to wounds he received while on duty in the South Pacific. Dr. Blatchford, who was a lieutenant in the navy medical corps, was released from the Great Lakes hospital a few weeks ago.

The Godfrey H. Atkins have sold their Winnetka home in Indian Hill rd. to Mr. and Mrs. George Booth, who has been living in Winnetka, and have leased Mrs. Frederic A. dePeyster's home in the same suburb for the winter.

Here and There.

The Christmas trees and other decorations which appear in the U. S. O.-Travelers Aid lounges in the Dearborn street, La Salle street, and Grand Central stations will be decorated by the arts committee of the Chicago Junior league out of its service men's entertainment fund. Mrs. Otto F. G. Schilling will decorate the Dearborn lounge, Mrs. Bernard Barasa Jr. the Grand Central, and Miss Carol Gardner the La Salle station lounge. There will be 100 presents under each tree, to be given to service men in the lounges Christmas day, and red cheeked apples will be given away from the 22d thru Christmas. The presents, all attractively wrapped, will be books and playing cards. Mrs. Lee Fetcher heads the committee, whose members are searching for decorations for the trees.

Maj. William Charles Chamberlain, who has been in Pacific combat areas with the marine corps for the last two and one half years, has arrived in Seattle, Wash., his mother, Mrs. Henry B. Chamberlain, has heard. Maj. Chamberlain and his wife, daughter of Rear Adm. William L. Mann, and their baby, Henry III., will be here for the Christmas holidays.

An unusual Christmas time debutante luncheon will be given Dec. 30 by Mrs. Norman Harris, Mrs. Frederick Copeland, and Mrs. Henry Tenney for Miss Elaine Sidley and Miss Janet Jones. The party will be given in the recently opened Russian War Relief shop in Winnetka, with the three hostesses serving the tables and Russian dishes on the menu. Miss Jones and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Gill Jones, who have been living in Washington, D. C., will return to Winnetka at the end of the week to open their house for the holidays. Miss Jones is a student at Smith college.

Wedding News.

The marriage of Miss Janet Kitchell, daughter of Mrs. William Dod Kitchell of Geneva, N. Y., and the late Mr. Kitchell, to Capt. Stanley Haven Rich of the marine corps reserve, son of Stanley Rich of Winnetka and the late Mrs. Rich, will take place today in Trinity church, Geneva. Henry Haven Rich will serve as best man for this twin brother. Capt. Rich has returned from more than two years in the Pacific, where he participated in three major campaigns. After a short wedding trip he and his bride will come to Chicago to spend the holidays with his father before going to San Diego, Cal., where Capt. Rich will be stationed.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

A Lift.

At least one New Yorker is emphatically impressed with the friendliness of the middle west. Coming here on a vacation from a strenuous, upper-bracket job, she arrived in Evanston, weighed down with heavy luggage and no taxi in sight. Accustomed to making decisions, quickly and efficiently, she confesses she stood ineptly on the sidewalk murmuring to herself: "Just how does one get a taxi?" At that moment a car drew up beside the curb and a pleasant, hospitable man inquired what was the trouble, lifted the luggage into the car, whisked her off to her destination, and brushed aside all "thank-yous" with the statement that he had been in business in Evanston a long time, often got stuck himself and just liked to help people out.

Pardon Me, but . . .

I don't mind the crabby, the brusque, the abrupt,
But cursed be the pest who just will interrupt!

JOAN LEE BOWERS.

The Information Desk.

Because this situation may arise in other offices, it seems a timely topic for your readers, and I'd like an expression on it.

The company by whom I am employed does not give any Christmas gift. However, the "big boss," whose secretary I am, always gives each girl in his department a box of candy and gives me an inexpensive gift in addition. The other men in the office never have given their respective secretaries gifts, nor have their secretaries given them any.

However, this year all these men have new, young, and inexperienced girls who are grateful for the kindness shown them. They wish to express their appreciation by presenting gifts, costing about $5 to their respective bosses. They would like me to buy a personal gift for Mr. Big Boss, but I hesitate to do so because I never have and we always have a "chip in" gift for him from all of us.

My question: Shall I give him an individual gift in addition to my share of the general one?

The third woman licensed as a pilot in the United States, Polly Pickett, is a flight inspector in a Birmingham aviation plant. Her interest in flying began when her brother returned from the World war with an old Spad which he had bought from the government. Brother and sister set about rebuilding it. . . . Mary Darrow Barker, granddaughter of Clarence Darrow, is her father's secretary and an expert at shorthand. . . . A white collar girl who gives her evenings to the service men's centers, Bernice Balaishes, received three felt hats from her brother in Italy. They were navy, black, and British tan, high crowned and wide brimmed. . . . An inquiring reporter among the working wives at Mills Industries learned that practically all of them intend to bring up children after the war and one hopes for twins.

Stage Notes

By courtesy of the Theater Guild, "Oklahoma!" will spend Christmas afternoon at the service men's center in the Auditorium, where starting at 3 o'clock about two thirds of the musical will be presented by the entire cast in costume, with full orchestra under the direction of Joel Gerhardt. John Raitt will appear as Curly and Wanda Cochran, who is Betty Jane Watson's alternate, as Laurey. The service center will reciprocate by entertaining the entertainers at Christmas dinner at 1:30, by special invitation of Mrs. Edward J. Kelly.

Yule Trinkets Fashioned from Odds and Ends

BY HARRIETT PRIBBLE.

Coat hangers and camel bells, tin cans, and Idaho potatoes—these are only a few of the items which emerged Cinderellalike from their normal homely usages to become gay holiday ornaments when Mrs. J. Wilson McAllister, vice president of the Garden club of Illinois, gave the Evanston Junior league an impromptu course yesterday on homemade Christmas decorations. Her talk followed the league's monthly meeting in the ballroom of the Orrington hotel, presided over by Mrs. Harold F. Yegge.

The items turned out by Mrs. McAllister's nimble fingers were enough to make any one present stop missing the glittering pre-war ornaments no longer available in the shops. Into the sides of a giant Idaho potato, with one side sliced off to make a firm base, she stuck small evergreen branches, building up a foot high Christmas tree. This she trimmed with homemade ornaments—tiny Santa Clauses of red yarn and white cotton, bows of metallic ribbon, wreaths of gum drops, bright buttons, and fruit drops in cellophane.

Tin can tops, cut into strips with can openers and twisted into snowflake shapes, became twinkling ornaments to string and hang on a larger tree. A length of red and white candy striped glazed paper was gathered into a giant bow and backed with a few fronds of white pine for an effective door piece. For a French style house, Mrs. McAllister recommended a pair of swags made from green spruce, pine cones, and red bows tied to coat hangers to hang on either side of the front door.

For a Christmas table she showed red blotters to be used as place mats beneath white china plates; individual candleholders made from ring molds turned upside down and circled with red cranberries, and a striking centerpiece produced by inserting a large red candle in the top of a glass epergne and filling the base with red carnations, eucalyptus leaves, and blue spruce twigs.

Some of the many who left the meeting resolved to try their own ingenuities on homemade decorations were Mrs. R. Douglas Cooper Jr., Mrs. Chester Goltra, Mrs. Robert L. Scott Jr., Mrs. Roger Barrett, Mrs. F. Scammon Barry, Mrs. Daniel Boone, Mrs. Richard C. Johnston and her sister, Mrs. John Huggins; Miss Shirley Garnett, Miss Theresa Rew, Mrs. Harry Hightower, Mrs. Melbourne S. Beers, Mrs. Darwin Deaver, and Mrs. Dudley Wing.

Conferees Consider Steps to Meet Need for Military Nurses

Two hundred hospital administrators, nursing service directors, and employers of nurses met in the Commonwealth Edison Building auditorium last night to plan action for meeting the critical shortage of nurses in the military services.

The meeting was the opening event of Nurse Recruitment week, designated by Gov. Green in a proclamation read at the meeting. The governor's appeal, calling attention to the need for nurses, asked that everything possible be done to meet it so "that the lives of American boys may be saved."

Speakers at the meeting said the army needs 10,000 nurses at once and 200 more a month in the year ahead, while the navy has called for 500 nurses a month. The army now has 40,000 nurses and the navy 8,000, all volunteers.

The speakers included Brig. Gen. P. J. Carroll of Vaughan General hospital; Adm. E. C. White, commanding officer of the 9th naval district; Lt. Theresa Archard of the army nurse corps, and Lt. Comdr. Mary D. Towse of the navy nurse corps. Pvt. Melvin Biegel, a veteran of the Italian campaign, also spoke.

Books Provide Special Joys; Children Should Have Them

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., inc.]

If books have meant much in your life, I know they will be given an important place in your child's. If they haven't, I still hope you won't leave that particular place blank in the early years of your small son or daughter. Books bring with them their own special kind of joy, of satisfaction, and culture and education. Every child should own and have a chance to love good books.

". . . Every child should own and have a chance to love good books."

American children are, I believe, the most fortunate in the world in this respect: In the feast that artists, writers, and publishers and their craftsmen produce for children's delectation.

When I went to my favorite book store to look over the Christmas display, I could not help thinking of that. When I saw the brave and beautiful array, some new, some old; some large, some small; some exquisitely written and illustrated; others homey and intimate; some about the world we live in, history, science, animals, people; others about religion; some whimsical; some pure fairy tale or phantasy, I couldn't help thinking of what different mental and spiritual fare our free children are offered, from that forced feeding of the young intellect and soul by, for instance, the Nazi system. One recoils to think of children taught, as they have been, by picture book and text to hate, to sneer, to demean, and to nourish prejudice.

I could not help thinking how blessed our American children were, and not only our youngest but our middle and teen age ones, in these books so lovingly and intelligently made for them; and how eagerly parents should dip into these riches for their children. I hope you will do so this Christmas.

"You and Your Young Child" is a helpful booklet for parents. For your copy, send 18 cents to Mrs. Gladys H. Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, 11, Ill.

Thru the Looking Glass

Christmas shopping loses some of its terror when you can sit down quietly with a list of your women friends' names, decide quickly that they'll welcome any gift that's feminine and flattering in character, and then pop down to the cosmetic counters. It's one of the easiest outs on the whole business.

Bath beauties in night scented stock.

Unless a woman on your list is one of those trying creatures who has everything she could possibly use or want, you can buy her dusting powder and toilet water, in a beautiful scent, no matter how old, how young, how gay, or how serious minded she is.

If she likes fragrances that are sweet, clean, and extremely fresh, she'll like a little duo in the unusual and altogether charming perfume of night scented stock. It's as lovely a gardenish fragrance as you could find and wonderfully wearable for women of all ages and types.

For $3 you'll find, in a most attractive pink and blue box, an exceptionally fine toilet water, lavishly scented, with a big box of filmy dusting powder in the same sweet scent. This is an attractive package, which is important in gift selection, but the contents are what make it really exciting.

The night scented stock is a great pet of ours, but the same combination of toilet water and powder is available in several other fragrances—lilac, white phlox, green moss, and a charming blend called "royal purple." They're all beauties.

Women's Final Concert Has Its Good Moments

Concert by the Woman's Symphony orchestra, Jerzy Bojanowski, conductor; Vera Gillette and Vincent Micari, duo pianists. Presented at Orchestra hall Monday evening, Dec. 11, 1944. The program:

Overture to "Halka" ..... Moniuszko
Romance ..... McDonald
Cancion ..... McDonald
[a] Concerto for Two Pianos, E flat major ..... Mozart
[b] Scaramouche ..... Milhaud
[c] Coronation Scene from "Boris Godounoff" ..... Moussorgsky-Pattison
Gillette and Micari.
Dance Suite ..... Carpenter
Symphony No. 4, D minor ..... Schumann

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG.

The Woman's Symphony orchestra had some pretty high hurdles—some self-imposed, some unavoidable—to jump at its third and final concert of the season in Orchestra hall last night.

No one could do anything about the weather, which cut the customary attendance at least in half. And probably, under the circumstances, there was nothing to be done about the two concert grand pianos in the center of the stage which so widely separated the orchestra's strings that they were frequently at sixes and sevens. But some one could and should have done something about a program that put the two most important pieces of music at the end—well out of the reach of a morning newspaper deadline—that left the orchestra sitting twiddling its thumbs during a long group of unaccompanied pieces for two pianos, with encores, and which included music that simply doesn't belong on a symphony concert.

Some of the best playing the orchestra has done in our presence occurred in the overture to Moniuszko's "Halka," a piece which might well replace some of the incessant repetitions of "Oberon," "Freischütz," and "Russlan and Ludmilla." The orchestra played it brightly for Conductor Jerzy Bojanowski, with quite remarkable precision and good tonal balance. These qualities completely disappeared in a "Romance" and "Cancion," by Inez Riddle McDonald, music which belongs, if anywhere, on a commercial radio program, not in a concert hall.

Then came a pair of young Chicago pianists, Vera Gillette and Vincent Micari, to play the Mozart concerto for two pianos. Some one had evidently misadvised these young people that Mozart is a precious composer, whose music must be played so softly that it can scarcely be heard above the orchestra, and with so little expressiveness that it sounds like finger exercises. At any rate, that is the manner in which they played the concerto, and all its laughing rhythms and the wonderful plaintive song of its slow movement were no more than bloodless emanations from a lifeless corpse.

In the short interval between the concerto and the group of solo pieces the pianists must have taken a shot in the arm, for Milhaud's "Scaramouche" suite had the animation, the color, and the rhythmical impulse the concerto so lamentably lacked. It was so good that it revived our hope that these duo-pianists might really be as good as we thought they were in recital last season. And, if the Coronation scene from Moussorgsky's "Boris Godounoff" must be played on two pianos, theirs was not a bad way to do it.

At the end of this grab-bag program, if you could stay that long, the orchestra was scheduled to play a novelty, a "Dance Suite" by John Alden Carpenter, and Schumann's Fourth Symphony, in D minor.

Urge French Women Be Trained to Take Men's Colonial Posts

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 11.—The National Association of French Women passed a resolution at its bimonthly convention this morning requesting the training of 1,000 members for service in the French colonies as officers, governors, doctors, midwives, nurses, and teachers to replace men who are less popular there.

Among the 40,000 members of the association are lawyers, doctors, and professors, who have specialized in colonial administration, diseases, and languages. One hundred women executives will shortly leave France to occupy remote posts held heretofore only by men.

The college of medicine of Paris university just has opened new courses for women in the treatment of malaria, yellow fever, and tropical plagues. The school of colonial languages will enroll girls who are studying Arabic, Indo-Chinese, and native dialects.

The French minister of colonies declared that women are more apt with aborigines than men. Natives showed high respect for white girls who teach housewives to run homes, choose and cook food, raise children, and practically introduce a western civilization, he said.

School Girl Has Double Talk Trouble

BY MAUREEN DALY.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

"This is important to me. I'm a senior in high school and I had been going with many boys until January of last year, when I met a soldier. He was very interesting, and when he was home we went out together many times. After he went overseas I wrote to him every day and sometimes twice a day, and I didn't mind not seeing the boys whom I used to date.

on the SOLID side

"Later I met another boy, then a senior, thru a friend of mine and agreed to go to a movie with him one Saturday night. After that he asked me to his school prom and to several parties. My mother and father liked him so much, and his parents were very friendly to me. Now he, too, is in the service and wants me to accept a ring, and, altho I have told him I couldn't take it, he insists on knowing why. I am going to visit him at camp soon and know he will mention it again.

"I like him and know he will be leaving soon to go overseas, but I keep thinking of the other soldier. He still writes regularly, and I answer him just as promptly. I feel that I just can't explain to the second boy because he had given me so many small gifts, introduced me to his friends, and since he has left they have been so kind to me. The boy overseas has been wounded and that makes it almost impossible to break off with him, either. I am so undecided and I must do something soon, but I don't want to hurt any one or do anything I might regret."

Too many young gals don't worry about hurting fellows until they have gone too far. If you were writing to a soldier as often as twice a day on one hand, you shouldn't have been accepting small but obligating gifts from another Joe with the other. Don't let the fact that both boys are now G. I. influence your feelings toward them.

From a dating standpoint, no honeychile owes a soldier any more than she does a civilian—but both expect the same sincerity and honesty from you. If G. I. Joe number two really loves you, he'll stick with you whether you accept an engagement ring or not. Just try to stay good friends with both without trying to make up your mind toward either one. A little more double talk and one or the other may change his mind about you!

Russian Film Inspires Few Comparisons

"ADVENTURE IN BOKHARA."

An Artkino picture, directed by Y. Protazanov, produced by Tashkent Film studio, U. S. S. R., with Lev Sverdlin, Mirra Warinowa, K. Mikhailov, and K. Heller, and presented at the World playhouse.

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG.

"Adventure in Bokhara" is a Russian variation of the Kismet theme and affords interesting comparison with the Hollywood version recently exhibited here, not too successfully.

On the purely technical side the Americans have a decided edge. The Russians either do not have or do not employ technicolor; even their black and white photography is no more than adequate. Their cameras utilize few of the tricks which have become a commonplace even in Hollywood "B" pictures. Their mob scenes do not congregate milling thousands of extras, yet there are always enough people on hand to give the effect of crowds. Their sets probably cost only a fraction of the sum expended on the reconstruction of Bagdad by Hollywood, yet they give an impression of authentic orientalism. There are no glamorous stars, yet each actor fits his part adequately and sometimes brilliantly, with due consideration for the tout ensemble.

But the major difference is one of approach. Hollywood blew up a simple tale to colossal proportions, studded it with stars, created a never-never land which, instead of touching the imagination, only aroused amused tolerance. The plot of "Adventure in Bokhara" is no more credible than that of "Kismet," yet its close integration, the witty resourcefulness of its various turns, its sly unexpectedness subtly flatter the observer's intelligence, even thru the veil of a foreign language.

And that about sums it up. The Russian movie makers not only inject intelligence into their product, they give their audiences credit for an equal amount of the same. The more money the Hollywood purveyors pour into a production the less likely it is to show any important cerebration, and the lower the aim at the customer's " Q.

"Adventure in Bokhara" is about a Robin Hoodlike figure of oriental legend, who uses his nimble wit to save his betrothed from slavery. In the process he makes more than a bit of a fool of the reigning emir and various other stuffy and corrupt dignitaries, with the beggar always retaining his popularity with the populace, and of course finally outwitting the tyrannical oppressors of the country. There may be a faint odor of political symbolism in it, but not enough to worry about.

Nothing to shout to high heaven over, but amusing and intelligent.

Looking at Hollywood

—By Hedda Hopper—

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 11.—Alice Faye has signed a new seven year deal with Darryl Zanuck, but before starting, she and Alice Jr. go with Phil Harris and the Jack Benny company on a hospital tour. She won't entertain—she's just going to be with Phil. . . . Wesley Ruggles' first English picture will be "London Town" with an all-British cast, but he's taking back a test of 19 year old Ann Schroeder and aims to use her in his second picture over there. . . . Unless our producers begin making pictures for the world market, they're going to be caught with her market values down when the war's ended. Russia, France, and South America are all ready to go to town on a big scale. They've got the money, and in France technicians who care more for glory than cash have been working in garrets or cellars perfecting equipment for just such an opportunity.

No Wonder He's Thoughtful.

Metro is flirting with the one and only Bing Crosby to do his independent picture there. Yes, he's listening. . . . Had quite a visit with Mama and Papa Crosby at Hollywood Park the other afternoon. Mama's worried about Bing. He's getting no fun out of life since returning from overseas. He has been to the races once; he has sold his horses. He can't forget the boys over there and how they looked while they were fighting for us. She showed me a clipping from a London paper with this headline: "Bing Went the Strings of Our Hearts." . . . Lou Edelman's "A Song to Remember," which he produced for Columbia, has folks shouting its praises to the sky . . . and friends of Cornel Wilde [who's in it] claim he has the frame of Johnny Weissmuller, the grace of Laurence Olivier, and is a champion fencer to boot. Those aren't just friends—they're press agents! . . . Sheila Graham says she is not going to divorce her husband.

Shorties from the Roundup.

RKO has taken up Frances Langford's option and she'll be starred in two pictures there during 1945. . . . Mike O'Shea is rowing with Twentieth. After "Circumstantial Evidence," it's said he'll do no more there. . . . Mervyn Leroy's kids will be here to spend Christmas with him. He's taking them up to his house at Arrowhead. He's testing that handsome captain at Lucey's, Don Avalier, for a part in "The Robe." . . . J. Carrol Naish takes off soon for Mexico City where he'll do "Limping John" for Rowland Brown, who has written the screenplay and will produce for United Artists release. . . . Don Defore is doing a standout job in "The Affairs of Susan," so Joan Fontaine tells me. . . . Eddie Cantor will be in Joan Davis' next, which will be a horse opera. It starts next May.

That's What They Say.

Irene claims five things men detest in women's apparel are—hats [hey! that's unfair], wedges, slacks, masculine suits, and lacquered hairdos. She's had more letters of complaint from service men than from the fellows on home front. I agree with everything but hats. . . . Louis Victor has an idea for a musical called "Music in Cellophane" with Fanchon at Twentieth. Hank Potter joins Walt Disney here as a director, maybe for "Alice in Wonderland." . . . Lana Turner and Turhan Bey were preparing to dine in informal attire at the Players. The waiter stood patiently waiting for the lovebirds to order. Some time later, Lana turned to Bey and said, "What will you have, DADDY?" Then the waiter swooned. . . . What goes with the Sam Marxes? Don't tell me they're calling it a day. . . . Many girls have secret admirers, but Bonita Granville's new one went the whole way. She got a five pound box of chocolates with her likeness imprinted on every piece of candy.

Slight Error.

You've all heard stories of our Hollywood agents. Here's a dilly about one of the biggest, Frank Orsatti. He tells it. Having Ravel under contract, he thought he ought to go to the Hollywood Bowl and get a little culture, so he went and listened while 25,000 swooned over Ravel's "Bolero." . . . He called up Ravel next day and said, "Gosh, fellow, have you got a hit!" Ravel replied, "What do you mean—what hit?" "That 'Bolero.'" 'Twas then Orsatti learned it was written by another Ravel who was no longer among the living. To which Frank made comment, "To think there'd be two song writers with the same monicker, and I'd miss the good one!"

INSTALMENT XXVI.

A CLEW.

When the fugitives left Tucson they did not have time to make a choice of roads. They took the one that led them most quickly out of range.

Bob turned out of the road into the thick growth of cholla, prickly pear, and greasewood. The scrub was tall, and inside of a few minutes they were in a wilderness.

To the north at the horizon's edge were the bare stark Santa Catalina mountains, to the south the Rincons. They had to decide the direction in which they had better travel.

"They'll expect us to strike for Mexico muy pronto, Fraser said. "Even so, I reckon it would be the smart thing to do."

"With the border closed to us, as it will be inside of an hour? Jug isn't anybody's fool. He'll wire to Douglas, Bisbee, Nogales, and all points along the line. Soon as we show our noses, officers will pounce on us. I'd say for us to get into the mountains and hole up till the chase is over. We could pass thru Oracle, off to the left a bit so that we won't be seen, cross the divide, and drop down into the San Pedro valley. Once there, we can head for the White mountains or for the Dragoons."

Fraser nodded agreement. "I reckon you're right. But first off, I've got to get me a horse."

"There are objections to both," the little man grinned. "If I buy one, the seller is going to start talking soon as he hears about the rumpus in the plaza; if I steal a bronc I'll have officers in my hair wherever I show myself."

"Not so good." Bob admitted. "We might buy you a horse and get away with it, but soon as we talk about buying a saddle a rancher is going to get suspicious. He'll want to know where yore own saddle is. Maybe we could rope a stray mount on the range, but you can't rope a saddle too."

The eyes of Fraser lit. "You've done said it, son. We'll borrow a horse to take me far as Oracle. I'll buy one there. McMurdo is a good friend of mine."

Bob pointed to the sahuaro slope rising to the foothills. "A bunch of horses," he said. "You had better do the roping, Stan. I'm out of practice."

The horses were not wild, tho they showed a little nervousness at the approach of Fraser. He was careful not to alarm them by any hurried movement. They were cropping in a small draw from which it was not easy to escape without passing him. He picked a sorrel gelding, and at the first cast the loop of the rope dropped over the head of the animal. The old timer fashioned from the rope a headstall and reins and swung to the bare back of the bronco.

They kept away from the road as much as possible, following the foothills until late in the afternoon. It was getting near sunset when Fraser pointed out a road winding around the side of a bluff.

"That's where yore pappy made the big mistake of his life. He and two-three of his boys came on a bunch of 'pachies who had trapped a freight outfit. They drove off the Injuns. One of the mule skinners was wounded. It was Packard. If they had left him right there to die everything would have been slick. But yore pappy put him in a wagon, took the side-winder back to Tucson, and had Mrs. Webb nurse him till he was well."

Darkness had fallen before the riders reached the live oak groves of Oracle. From a hill top they looked down on the lights of the stage station.

"I reckon I'd better drift down and have a pow-wow with Jim McMurdo," Fraser said. "If it looks all right we'll wave a lantern in front of the house for you to come on in."

Bob tied the horses and sat down on a flat rock to wait. Stars flooded the sky and a big red moon was just rising over the horizon. For years he had lived like a caged beast and since his escape the life of a hunted one. The trouble was that he was at war with himself.

A light moved to and fro in front of the house below. Bob mounted and let his horse pick a way down among the boulders, the led horse by his side.

McMurdo was a stoutly built Scot of middle age. His shrewd blue eyes, rather stern, looked steadily into those of the escaped convict.

"I knew your father," he said quietly. "A fine man. Mr. Fraser tells me you have been wronged. I don't know about that, but I don't trust Packard. Never have. I've agreed to let Stan have a horse and saddle. My wife is making supper for you. While you eat, my son will feed your mount."

Before they went into the house Fraser released the sorrel gelding. The animal started on a trot down the road. Within 24 hours it would be back on its own range.

As they ate, Fraser told the story of their escape at Tucson, omitting all reference to the Rangers. Bob noticed that the manager of the stage station watched him closely. The man had something on his mind and was hesitating as to whether he had better mention it.

It was while Fraser was saddling his horse at the stable that McMurdo came out with what was troubling him.

"Know a man named String Crews?" he asked Webb.

Bob shook his head. "Don't think I do—not to remember him anyhow."

"Drove stage for me last year."

Fraser spoke up. "I knew him. Long hungry-lookin' fellow, lean as a range cow after a tough winter."

"That's the man. Quit me a couple of months ago to settle on a ranch in the San Pedro valley. Long time ago he drove an ore wagon for the Johnny-B."

Webb fastened his eyes on McMurdo. "In my father's time?" he asked.

"Then, and for a while afterward. String told me something that maybe you ought to know."

"If it is about my father's death I think I ought," Bob answered. "I've stuck around Arizona because I want to get to the bottom of this business. I think Packard murdered my father and robbed my mother. I know he lied me into prison."

"I'll give you what String told me for what it is worth, tho I don't know whether he is willing to stand by it in court. He went on a spree with a man called Uhlmann about a week after your father's death. Uhlmann got very drunk and was throwing his money away. He boasted that it came easy. At first that was all he would say, but later in the night he claimed that Packard had given him $500 for a special job, a bit of dynamiting that was worth a lot to Jug."

"Did he say just what the job was?" Bob asked.

"It was to blow up your father, but I don't know that Uhlmann admitted this in so many words. Anyhow, String understood what he meant."

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	1 diamond	Pass
3 clubs	Pass	3 spades	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	5 clubs	Pass
6 clubs	Pass	Pass	Pass

That a humdrum hand may take on lustre as the bidding develops has been pointed out on a number of occasions. In today's hand South opened the bidding very modestly with one club. West, naturally passed, despite his two and one-half honor tricks. Even if he were not vulnerable, a one heart overcall should not be considered on this type hand.

North, certain that the partnership would go to game and suspicious of a slam, nevertheless bided his time with a temporary bid of one diamond to find out at a low level just what type of hand his partner held.

South's rebid of two clubs was automatic, denoting a minimum hand, but a good club suit. North could bid two spades at this point with the assurance that the opener would be obliged to speak again, but elected to bid three spades [a jump in a new suit in order to show that he was slam-minded]. South, naturally, signed off at three no trump, and North made one more slam effort, a jump to five clubs, his trump support being adequate for a rebid suit.

It is South's decision to bid six clubs that is worthy of comment. A less discerning South might say: "Why should I bid any more when I have only a minimum opening?" The answer is that, for the purpose of this hand, South's holding is actually not a minimum. The king of diamonds can no longer be regarded as a half trick, but must be assigned the value of a full trick, since partner has bid that suit freely.

The key to the situation is that North must have a singleton heart. I have pointed it out before, but I feel it desirable to repeat a common sense convention in slam bidding, as follows: When one player names three suits, including a jump, a singleton in the fourth suit is guaranteed.

Note that if South had held ♠ J 2 ♥ K J 4 ♦ 7 5 3 ♣ A K J 8 6 he would have had precisely the same hand in high cards, but would have been obliged to pass the bid of five clubs, because his hand would not have grown with the bidding. With the knowledge that partner has a singleton heart he would realize that his king of hearts was a worthless card. Let me point out again that a high honor in partner's suit should always be promoted to the next higher rank.

TOMORROW'S PROBLEM.

You are South, holding:

♠ A K 8 4 ♥ A 7 2 ♦ A 9 6 5 ♣ 6 3

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	1 no trump	Pass

Splendid Cough Relief Is Easily Mixed at Home

No Cooking. Makes Big Saving.

To get quick and satisfying relief from coughs due to colds, mix this recipe in your kitchen. Once tried, you'll never be without it.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. A child could do it. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This makes a full pint of splendid medicine and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and tastes fine.

And for quick, blessed relief, it is amazing. You can feel it take hold in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and eases the soreness. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you sleep. Money refunded if not pleased in every way.

WASTE FATS—Each pound worth 2 red ration points and 4 cents.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

If homemakers aren't consistently reminded of the fat salvage campaign, they grow careless and forget to collect all the bacon grease, meat drippings, and other fats which aren't needed in cooking. Waste fats are required not only for munitions making, but for the manufacture of civilian goods as well. Collect those fats in the biggest tin cans you have, take them to your meat dealer, and he will give you two red points and four pennies for each pound of fat you turn in. The can as well as the fat will be salvaged.

This is the easiest way to get more purchasing power for rationed meats, cheese, and butter.

Tin cans still are needed; so is waste paper. Saving them is another war time job for the homemaker. Wash those emptied cans, remove the ends, place the ends inside and flatten each can by stepping on it. Place your flattened cans in a box or other container and set them out with your garbage—but not IN it!

Besides newspapers and wrapping paper, most households yield dozens of other paper and cardboard objects which can be salvaged. Economical use of paper in the home will help the paper situation, too. Remember to carry your own bag for groceries and Christmas presents, so that sacks and wrappings can be conserved at the store.

The woman who practices many little economies in the management of her home will find it easy to buy that extra war bond. One woman I know drops those fat salvage pennies into a jar along with the dimes, nickles, and pennies she manages to bring home after a grocery expedition. The fund grows quickly into a war bond, especially when the man of the house remembers to pad it now and then with change from his pocket!

SAVE FATS, TIN CANS, WASTE PAPER!

OPA TO SUSPEND THREE IN HUGE SUGAR SHORTAGE

Three wholesale grocery concerns, owned by two brothers and their wives, will be suspended from business next week, John R. Allen, regional office of price administration hearing commissioner, said yesterday after hearing evidence indicating they are short 1,060,000 pounds of sugar.

The concerns are the Banner, Economy, and Dearborn wholesale groceries, at 115 South Water market, 932 Randolph st., and 918 Randolph st., respectively; their owners are Harry and Benjamin Friedman and their wives, Matilda and Rose. At the hearing the defendants admitted they were short the sugar because of deliveries to grocers without collection of ration points, but blamed their predicament on insufficient help and complexity of ration regulations.

The shortage is the largest uncovered by the OPA in Chicago, said Daniel Lynch, OPA attorney. Allen advised the brothers to install new bookkeeping systems and said he would determine their suspensions after studying the record of the hearing

Annual Christmas Doll Party Will Be Given Friday Night

Thirty years ago Mrs. Patrick J. Newton invited several friends to her home at 544 S. Ridgeland av. in Oak Park to help dress Christmas dolls for children in County hospital. Each succeeding year the circle increased until the gathering outgrew her living room.

Mrs. Patrick J. Newton.

Friday night Mrs. Newton's doll party, now an integral part of the community's holiday festivities, will be held in the Columbus park center at Central av. and Congress st. No tickets are sold for the benefit, but each person attending brings a doll or some other toy or a gift for an adult.

Last year Mrs. Newton's party yielded a bumper harvest of 500 presents, and this year prospects are that Santa Claus will have more gifts than ever to distribute Christmas morning in the hospital wards. Mrs. Newton's party is open to all. A program of entertainment will begin at 8 p. m.

Black Lingerie Puts That Glint in Santa's Eye

BY REA SEEGER.

Nobody seems to know just why black lingerie attracts such shopping interest around Christmas. It may be the result of press agentry from Hollywood, or perhaps the fragile sheer beauty of black trimmed with lace takes the fancy of masculine shoppers, but more black nightgowns and other lingerie pieces get wrapped for gifts now than at any other season. The supplies are surprisingly plentiful, and the prices are also unexpectedly low.

You'll find some beautiful black dotted sheers that are most unusual while remaining tpyically feminine. The skirts are unsually wide and full, the brief bodices are held over the shoulder lines with three shoestring straps, and there's narrow black vol edging for extra lure. Another sheer is of crossbar pattern, banded with wide black lace insertion in deep vee formation and a belt of the same insertion. Simple sheers such as chiffon come in ruffled models and the more tailored models. Some are tied with tiny bows of cerise velvet ribbon, others with French blue velvet or satin.

Sleek beauties in jersey have extremely low price marks. These also are either lace trimmed or sternly tailored, minus any frou-frou or cluttering frills. These make ideal travel gowns or to wear with short or long house coats. For women with the allowance of a Mrs. Croesus there are all silk and silk chiffons in black. Some even have matching negligees of the same seductive black sheer or silk or satin. These matched sets are anything except inexpensive, but if you have the money, they're the best buys of the year . . . and what an impression you'll make on any blase person on your list.

Women's Advertising Club Will Gather for Holiday Party Tonight

The Christmas party of the Women's Advertising club of Chicago tonight will take pattern from the setting—the Swedish club at 1258 N. La Salle st. Members and their guests will have festive dishes from a candle decorated smorgasbord and will sing carols and Swedish songs about a lighted tree.

The party will climax several special war services undertaken by the club. Its members have given a portable stage to Vaughan General hospital, which already is in use, and thousands of greeting cards were provided for the men there.

A small school in the Ozarks, Oakland, at Mountain Home, Ark., has received from the club a large collection of woolen clothes, old sweaters, and yarn to be used in making afghans for hospitalized service men. The club also has completed plans for decorating both the formal and informal lounges of the WAVES' barracks at 3145 Sheridan rd. for the holidays.

to win the heart of hardened connoisseurs

It's a long time since gloves were carried around as the mark of a gentleman. Now along with a flawless cut and stitching, they must boast warmth, pliability, and the potentialities of long service. We think our collection, ranging from genuine blackhead mochas to the less cosmopolitan but equally popular all-wool glove, will up their integrity even more, and do well by the fact that gloves are the one gift that some often disappointed males always appreciate.

THREE MAN COUNCIL TO GOVERN BASEBALL

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Admission of Miami into the All-America football conference promises to develop one of the greatest chamber of commerce battles in the history of sport. . . . Associated with Miami in the new professional gridiron circuit is Los Angeles, claimed by its representatives, Don Ameche and Christy Walsh, to be the best sports community in the country. . . . The Miami owners served notice at the third quarterly meeting of the league yesterday that Pasadena's Tournament of Roses parade will be dwarfed by the showmanship of the Orange bowl committee in whose stadium the new Miami team will operate. . . . Plans have been drawn and approved for a new plant that will accommodate 75,000 as soon after the war as materials are available. . . . Heading the Miami group are Harvey Hester, who predicts his club will outdraw every other team in the league, and Doug Wycoff, All-America full back at Georgia Tech nearly two decades ago. . . . Acquisition of Miami gives the All-America conference three cities which hold out the inducement of good December weather, an advantage enjoyed by no other major professional sports organization. . . . In addition to Los Angeles the west coast is represented by San Francisco. . . . The league plans to run its schedule into late December. . . . Cities located on the Great Lakes—Chicago, Cleveland, and Buffalo—will wind up their home season by mid-November to avoid unfavorable climatic conditions which usually prevail at that time of year.

Commissioner James Crowley, a lieutenant commander in the navy, suggested at yesterday's meeting that the eight teams play home and home games with every other club. . . . Crowley will not assume active direction of the league until he completes his services to the navy. . . . The same holds for Comdr. Gene Tunney, owner of the New York club, who will turn over the operation of his interests to a civilian. . . . Tunney will continue to give all his time and energy to the office he holds as chief of the navy's physical training program. . . . Christy Walsh, co-owner of the Los Angeles club, has been named vice president of the conference and will serve as the league's spokesman until Lt. Comdr. Crowley takes over. . . . Sam Cordavano, co-owner of the Buffalo team, has been chosen treasurer and Mrs. Lou Gehrig secretary. . . . Ray Miller, former mayor of Cleveland, has been engaged as legal counsel and he also will serve with John L. Keeshin of Chicago and A. J. Morabito of San Francisco as a committee to draw up a constitution and by-laws. . . . The conference will be incorporated as a nonprofit organization. . . . The various clubs will incorporate or set up partnerships as they choose.

Three months ago the conductor of this column explained his connection with the organization of the All-America conference. . . . We expressed the hope and ambition to give the football fans of the land another organization which would be a source of entertainment and civic interest. . . . We stated that we had agreed to act as organizer and head of the league until it was on its feet and regular officers elected. . . . We said we were serving without pay. . . . Now we wish to add that we have not even accepted a penny of expense money. . . . Our job is finished. . . . America has a new major professional football league. . . . While some spent their time and used up valuable news space sniping at the endeavor, the task went on without interruption. . . . Ten or 20 years from now the details of organization will have been forgotten. . . . They are not important anyway. . . . The important thing is that an institution which will endure has been added to the sporting scene. . . . It is a reputable enterprise directed by men who have been extremely successful in other fields. . . . They have no intention of destroying any existing professional football league, even if they could. . . . They merely have established competition and, after all, isn't that one of the principles which have made America great?

Lament for Wasted Years.

Stampeding years that stormed across the fringe
Of time had worn away the youthful sheen
Till life creaked by like doors on rusty hinges
Within a house swept desolate and clean.
The windows all were broken and the wind
Was howling like the hounds of bleak December
When Christmas comes without a single friend
Who writes or sends a token to remember.
Yet empty was his well when friends were needing
The soothing drops of human sympathy
He could have given. Now his heart is bleeding,
To think that he was then too blind to see
Some word he might have said, some deed have done,
To paint the rainbow in his setting sun.
—Nicholas Lloyd Ingraham.

Basketball Coach Ray Meyer was doubly honored last night in the De Paul gymnasium. The Demons won their sixth game of the season defeating Illinois Wesleyan, 66 to 43, to climax the evening's activities which began with special ceremonies in honor of the De Paul coach.

The Rev. Commerford J. O'Malley, C. M., president of De Paul, and the Rev. Joseph G. Phoenix, C. M., chairman of the athletic board, participated in the pre-game ceremonies by presenting Meyer with a monogram jacket and blanket and an athletic key designating his honorary membership in the Monogram club.

The basketball team then proceeded to add to De Paul's record of 41 victories out of 50 games in the last two years. Illinois Wesleyan managed to score only on free throws for the first 17 minutes of the game, by which time De Paul had run up a 27 to 4 lead. At the half the score was 32 to 8.

Demons Gain 64-30 Advantage.

Six foot 9 inch Center George Mikan paced the Demon attack with seven field goals and five free throws for 19 points and individual scoring honors for the evening. Gene Stump, forward, and Jack Allen, guard, were next in line for De Paul with 14 and 10 points respectively, altho trailing Wallace Wadington, Wesleyan guard, whose efforts accounted for 15 points.

Meyer made use of the entire De Paul squad in the game which proved to be a final warm-up for the north siders' next encounter with Illinois in Chicago Stadium Saturday night. Meyer excused his regulars with five minutes remaining in the game and the score at 47 to 14 in De Paul's favor.

The two teams scored on fairly even terms in the final stages of the game, altho it was while the substitutes were playing that De Paul gained its largest advantage, 64 to 30.

HONORING A WINNING COACH

'Something New' Is Promised for De Paul by Illini Coach

BY WILFRID SMITH.

"Any team with a George Mikan is difficult to beat but Illinois naturally doesn't concede De Paul university a thing in the game Saturday night in the Chicago Stadium."

This was the candid statement from Doug Mills, Illinois coach, read to the Basketball Writers' association at luncheon yesterday in the Morrison hotel. Mills said:

"We stopped Mikan last year by dropping a forward back to help in the defense. Naturally De Paul will be set for this but perhaps we can come up with something new. We'll have to match our speed against Mikan's height and we expect our boys will have a difficult time rebounding. It's difficult to tell, on the basis of the De Paul-Wyoming game, how good De Paul is."

De Paul Has Other Plans.

Mills was unable to be present yesterday but Ray Meyer, De Paul coach, told the writers that Mikan is an improved player and that he believes the Blue Demons will develop into a quintet equal to the 1944 group which reached the finals of the New York invitational tournament.

"Illinois doubled on Mikan last year," Meyer admitted. "It did the same thing in coming from behind to beat Great Lakes in the Stadium but that leaves a guard open to shoot. Jack Allen hit eight goals in one of our games under this same defensive setup and, in another Ed Kachan got five goals. We'll be ready for Illinois."

Marquette Lacks Height.

Marquette and Northwestern complete Saturday's double header program which promises to be one of the best of the season. Bill Chandler, Hilltopper coach, and Ted Carpenter, director of the Marquette news bureau, were present at yesterday's luncheon. K. L. Wilson, Northwestern's director of athletics, and Ted Payseur, assistant basketball coach, represented the Wildcats.

Northwestern has won 7 games and lost 4 in the series which started in 1921. Marquette, however, has won the last two, defeating the Wildcats 36 to 26 in 1939 and 46 to 30 in 1940.

"Marquette lacks height," Chandler reported, "but has speed. We broke up Wisconsin's floor plays in good shape the other night when Marquette lost 45 to 40 but Ray Patterson, veteran Badger star, and Don Rehfeldt, 6 foot 6 inch freshman center, were too good under the backboard. We'll use our usual shifting man to man defense against Northwestern. Our team possibly is faster than last year but the players are not as big nor as rugged."

Wildcats Should Improve.

Pedro Prado, Marquette dental student who formerly played for the University of Puerto Rico, is the center. He's only 6 feet tall. Marquette has veteran guards, Bob Meyers and Bill Chandler Jr. The latter is a V-12 student and is playing his fifth season. The forwards, Eugene Berce and Joe Evans, are freshmen.

Northwestern expects to have a creditable basketball team after the football men have worked into condition. Payseur reported that Coach Dutch Lonberg was well pleased with the play against DePauw when the Wildcats came from behind to win. Ben Schandler, veteran guard, and Duane Sickels, forward, are key men. Max Morris, center, and Frank Wright, guard, are newcomers. Red Clawson, a third letter man, will not be able to play for a month because of a football injury.

Bowl Games Ruled Out for Service Teams

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11 (AP).—Increased demands for war production today precluded any possibility of army air forces' football teams playing post-season games.

Answering month old requests for such games, the war department announced that "circumstances will prevent extension of the air forces' football season beyond their championship game in New York, Dec. 12."

"This game, played under auspices of the sixth war loan, with all proceeds turned over to army charity, will decide the army service championship," the statement said.

Not a Special Game.

A war department source later said that the game, which will match the Randolph field [Tex.] Ramblers and the 2d air force Super-Bombers [Colo.], is "not a special, added, or post-season game."

"The thing that really put the quietus on this bowl business," a spokesman said, "is that the war department does not want to be placed in the position of doing anything that might be interpreted as encouraging absenteeism when production demands are at a peak."

OIL BOWL GAME OFF.

Houston, Tex., Dec. 11 (AP).—There'll be no Oil bowl football game this coming New Year's day.

Holly Brock, chairman of the Oil bowl committee, disclosed today the game had been canceled as the result of a war department ruling that an air force team would not be permitted to participate.

Brock said that at this late date no outstanding team could be obtained to substitute for Randolph Field and "rather than depart from the high standard set by the Oil bowl's inaugural game" the committee decided to cancel the game for 1945.

Bill Hackett, Les Horvath Hurt in Crash

Columbus, O., Dec. 11 (AP). — Les Horvath and Bill Hackett, Ohio State university football players, were injured slightly tonight in a headon auto collision in an icy suburban street.

Horvath suffered a facial laceration while Hackett sustained knee and head injuries, Assistant Coach Dan Dillon reported. Both were admitted to University hospital, where they were kept overnight for observation.

NAVY TAKES 7 ALL-AMERICA SERVICE SPOTS

Army Flyers Gain Other 4 Berths.

New York, Dec. 11 (AP).—Football stars who gained their early reputations on professional and college football fields make up the Associated Press Service All-America for 1944—a team that includes seven men who wear the insignia of the navy and four from the army air corps. This array of players hails from 10 teams with two of the spots going to Randolph field's undefeated outfit.

From the professional ranks come such established stars as Lt. Joe Stydahar of the Fleet City, Cal., Bluejackets; Russell Letlow, chief specialist from Camp Peary, Va.; Lt. Bill Dudley of Randolph field, and Lt. Leonard Eshmont of the Norman, Okla., naval air base.

It's Old Experience.

Dudley also earned college All-America spurs at the University of Virginia before graduating to the pro ranks in Pittsburgh. The other former college All-Americas are Northwestern's Otto Graham, triple threat star of North Carolina Pre-Flight, and Garrard Ramsey, a tower of strength in the Bainbridge naval base line after leaving William and Mary.

The back field lines up with Graham, Dudley, Eshmont, and Sgt. Charles Trippi of the 3d air force, who was headed for great things at Georgia before donning khaki.

Teaming with Sgt. Jack Russell of Randolph field at the ends is Lt. Nick Susoeff, who played four years at Washington State before joining the 2d air force. The tackles are 32 year old Stydahar, a 260 pounder who played with the Chicago Bears, and Ensign John Woudenberg, who at 220 pounds has been a mainstay in the St. Mary's Pre-Flight line. He received his training at Colorado college.

Strohmeyer Best Center.

Ramsey is the lightest man on the line at 195 pounds but opponents say they seldom could gain thru his guard position. And the same goes for Russ Letlow, who, altho 30 years of age, made his 230 pounds felt in the cause of Camp Peary. He played for Green Bay as a pro.

George Strohmeyer, the All-Service center, had the unique distinction of playing with two teams but it was at Iowa Pre-Flight that he earned his reputation as the greatest service center in the country. Early in November he was transferred to Norman, Okla., where he played equally as well for the Zoomers.

COCHRAN WINS EIGHTH IN ROW IN CUE TOURNEY

New York, Dec. 11 (AP).—Welker Cochran, San Francisco, won his eighth straight match in the National three cushion billiard championship tourney tonight by beating Jay Bozeman, Vallejo, Cal., 50 to 39 in 47 innings.

The victory kept Cochran a full game ahead of Willie Hoppe, defending champion. The two play tomorrow night. If Hoppe wins to end the 10 day round robin competition in a tie, a playoff will be held Wednesday night.

Hoppe beat Joe Chamaco, Mexico City, 50 to 37, in 36 innings.

In afternoon matches Andrew Ponzi, Philadelphia, was beaten twice to finish last in the standings with nine straight defeats. He lost to Miguel Marquez, Mexico City, and Arthur Rubin, Brooklyn, while John Fitzpatrick, Los Angeles, beat Ralph Greenleaf, Detroit, 50 to 46 in 41 innings.

Race Horses Best Stock for Jumpers

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Take it from a man who knows. Thorobred horses, the kind that race at Arlington Park, Pimlico, Saratoga, Churchill Downs, Washington Park, Santa Anita, and the dozens of other tracks thruout the nation, are the best prospects for developing horse show hunters and jumpers.

The authority is Fred Pinch of Wilmington, Del., judge of the timber topping classes at the Chicago Horse show in the Coliseum this week.

Make Natural Jumpers.

Pinch, who came on to work with Bernard E. Hopper of Winnetka at the request of President Paul Butler of the Horse Show association when the field of entries in these classes became too large for one judge to handle, says that thorobreds have the necessary drive and springiness not possessed by standard bred horses. "As a consequence," he says, "thorobreds can clear barriers with greater ease. They have the power and their action is sharper."

Pinch has a unique career in the turf and tanbark world. He has judged for the last 20 years. He has exhibited and he has staged fine shows. Then, too, he raises thorobreds in Maryland.

Show Closes Sunday.

The current session at the Coliseum, which has drawn the finest show animals in the country and many of the sport's most capable riders and drivers is, in Pinch's opinion, comparable to any ever held.

The Coliseum show, which opened to a capacity crowd of 7,000 Saturday night and was witnessed by a like number in afternoon and evening performances Sunday, presented two stake events last night, the first for single harness ponies with $1,000 in prize money and the other, the evening's feature, carrying a $2,000 purse as the stallion division of the $10,000 Championship stake which will bring the show to a close next Sunday night.

Missouri Entry Wins.

The $2,000 event went to Grassview Sensation, 7 year old chestnut owned by the Grassview farms of Roswell, Ga. Wilmar Stonewall, belonging to Mr. and Mrs. William Allen of North Kansas City, Mo., was second; Golden Monarch, owned by Stanley Johnston of Chicago, was third, and Windsor Star, from the W. C. Windsor stables of Hannibal, Mo., was fourth. Eleven horses competed. The winner was ridden by J. W. Glass.

The show drew a crowd estimated at 3,500.

All-Star Game

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Selection of Fenway park in Boston as the site for the annual All-Star game to be played July 10, was announced today at the major league baseball meeting. Next year's game will mark the first time the game has not been played at night since 1941. Like Detroit, site of the 1941 game, the Boston park is not equipped with lights.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 11.—An advisory council, composed of Will Harridge, president of the American league, Ford Frick, president of the National league, and Leslie M. O'Connor, for 23 years secretary to K. M. Landis, late commissioner of baseball, will continue to function as successor to Judge Landis, until a new commissioner is named, possibly a short time after the next major league meeting in February.

The action was taken in a joint meeting this afternoon in advance of the scheduled joint session of the two leagues Wednesday. The new set-up did not come as a surprise as to personnel, but contained new aspects, according to the announcement read by Frick.

The advisory council will act on a majority basis, except that O'Connor will rule alone on issues involving player claims and similar controversies. It was specified that in the event Secretary O'Connor desires to withdraw from his post his successor shall be appointed by the two league presidents.

New Major League Agreement.

Committees, the membership thus far unannounced, will draw up a new major league agreement and report it for ratification during the February meeting. Thereafter the way will be clear for the appointment of the new commissioner, possibly if not probably, under somewhat different rules than those which gave Judge Landis czarlike powers.

The entire matter including the abrogation of the joint agreement which had been in effect since the appointment of Landis on Jan. 12, 1921, was contained in the form of a resolution, the text of which follows:

Whereas the major league agreement of Jan. 12, 1921, under which the office of commissioner of baseball was created and has functioned expires by its terms on Jan. 12, 1946, and whereas the office of commissioner has become vacant due to the death of Kenesaw M. Landis, therefore be it resolved:

1. That all the powers and duties of the commissioner and the advisory as provided in the major league agreement of Jan. 12, 1921, are hereby conferred and henceforth shall be exercised by a major league advisory council to consist of the president of the National league, the president of the American league, and Leslie M. O'Connor. In case of a division of opinion within the council a decision of the majority shall be controling, except that in any case involving a player's claim against the club or league, the two league presidents shall have no vote but such case shall be decided by the third member of the council.

2. In case Leslie M. O'Connor shall be at any time unable to serve as the third member of the council the selection of his successor shall be made by the two league presidents.

3. Such major league advisory council shall continue to exercise the powers and duties of the

HUNTERS FACE BIG PROBLEM IN FINDING RABBITS

See Scarcity of Bunnies in Northern Illinois.

BY BOB BECKER.

When the Illinois quail season closed yesterday hundreds of setter and pointer owners said good-by until 1945 to that type of hunting in this state. With the pheasant and quail seasons over, upland game hunting is now confined to rabbits, and there aren't many of these animals in some parts of northern Illinois.

Our visit to Vandalia, Ill., last week to hunt quail in Fayette county produced two surprises for us. One was the number of birds down there despite the fact that the season was nearly over. Secondly, we were amazed at the number of rabbits in the weed thickets and heavy grass. If our Blue Belton setter, Huntstone Felicia, was a rabbit chaser and not obedient to whistle she would have run her legs off on the cottontails in less than an hour. Fortunately she is trained to leave cottontails alone so she devoted her time to quail and thus gave us some excellent hunting in spite of almost continuous rain.

Hunt in Pouring Rain.

On our last afternoon in the fields our party, consisting of George Greer, Vandalia; Ben Pittman, Du Quoin, Ill., and Lyman Barr, Highland Park, Ill., hunted in a pouring rain for about two hours. But the setter found three coveys before we had to give up the hunt, and then, soaked to the skin, hustled back to town.

The combination of Director of Conservation Livingston Osborne's policy of putting quail into the southern Illinois counties each spring and fall, a fair hatching season, and good cover is producing good quail hunting down state during a normal year. If you can get into three coveys in a couple of hours in the rain when the season is almost over, it doesn't take much imagination to figure out the good shooting you'd have at the start of the season in decent weather.

Those Quail Can Run.

Those southern Illinois quail which are a cross between southern quail and bobwhites certainly are sprinters. One small covey which the dog located in a strip of low oaks and brush along an old country lane [an ideal spot for them in the rain] ran as if they were trying to break a record for the 100 yard dash.

The setter made short dashes ahead of the birds and three points along the side of the brush before she managed to pin most of the covey down so we could flush them. This covey behaved much like a covey of Florida quail, the small dark colored subspecies of the real bobwhite.

4. The major league agreement of Jan. 12, 1921, is hereby terminated."

Reelect Frick President.

One of the first acts of the National league was the election of Frick to serve four more years as president. He first became president in 1934, as successor to John A. Heydler, who retired. Sam Breadon, St. Louis, was named vice president of the National league for one year.

The American league named Clark Griffith as vice president for one year. Don Barnes, St. Louis, Walter Briggs, Detroit, Clark Griffith, Washington, and Connie Mack, Philadelphia, were chosen to the American league board of directors, while the National league named Philip K. Wrigley, Chicago, William E. Benswanger, Pittsburgh, Horace C. Stoneham, New York, and J. A. Robert Quinn, Boston.

Try for New Trades.

While the high officials of baseball were working on the foregoing essential details of administration, managers and other club officials were ducking around in efforts to cook up a few trades.

The first deal of the meeting was effected between the Yankees and the White Sox. Two left handed relief pitchers were exchanged—Johnny Johnson for Jake Wade, the Carolina Mocking Bird. The dickerings of the Cleveland Indians and the Chicago White Sox, which was about the only major league swap gossip to emerge from the minor league convention in Buffalo last week, was revived as the main possibility today. As previously recited, Managers Lou Boudreau and Jim Dykes had named three players they would deal—Jim Bagby, Oris Hockett, and Roy Cullenbine being put on the block by Cleveland, and Bill Dietrich, Guy Curtright, and Mike Tresh being the Sox's offers. Today things simmered down to Boudreau offering Bagby and Hockett for Dietrich and Ralph Hodgin. The hitch came when the Sox tried to get by with Curtright and balking on trading Hodgin. Late today Vice President Roger Peckinpaugh and Harry Grabiner entered the arena.

South Shore Seniors Head Tourney List

South Shore, defending City league senior basketball champion, heads the list of 34 teams entered in the University of Chicago Stagg basketball tournament, which will be renewed this season after a three year lapse.

The first round will start Dec. 26 after two elimination games scheduled for Dec. 23. The preliminary contests, designed to reduce the field for a 32 team bracket, pits Fenger against Lane and Parker against Medill. The winners of these contests will meet at 1 o'clock, Dec. 26, to officially open the meet. Eight games will follow, but South Shore will not see action until Wednesday afternoon when it meets Kelly in the lower bracket of the first round.

The Stagg tournament was played annually for 24 years, until the navy took over the Midway fieldhouse and forced abandonment of the meet. Du Sable won the last tournament, held in 1941, and will be defending champion. Du Sable plays Crane in its first round game.

COSTNER KNOCKS OUT JAMES IN 2D AT MARIGOLD

George Costner, hard hitting Cincinnati welterweight, knocked out Tommy James in the second round of a scheduled 10 round bout in Marigold Gardens last night to score his 21st straight victory and his 20th knockout.

James made a good showing in the first, bobbing and weaving under George's blows and countering with both hands to the body. Shortly after the second started, however, Costner landed a powerful right to the chin which sent James to the canvas for a four count. When he arose, Tommy was dropped with a left to the jaw for a one count. A left to the body floored James for the third and last time.

CUTS IN TAXES, SPENDING HELD POST-WAR NEED

Hancock Assails Deficit Financing.

Speedy and complete reconversion to a peace time economy must be preceded by a reduction in government spending and taxation, relaxation of government controls, and a clarification of price policies, John M. Hancock, co-author with Bernard Baruch of several war time reports on rubber, reconversion, and other economic problems, asserted last night.

John M. Hancock.

"We have seen that government spending to combat deflation results in taxes that in turn limit production and restrict enterprise as well as resulting in deficit financing and thus adding to the inflationary menace," Hancock told the Economic Club of Chicago at a dinner in the Stevens hotel.

Assails "Short Time" Benefit.

"There is nothing in our experience to support the belief that deficit financing will promote the growth of national income enough to affect the debt and produce a net gain, nor will it produce a lasting recovery and still less a balanced budget at some future date. It is so easy to offer a short time benefit to our people without counting the long range cost."

Hancock said the present level of taxes limits the confidence which must be at the foundation of an expanding national income.

"I wouldn't assume to say at what point either corporate taxes or individual graduated income taxes should be set, but I do believe that unless there is a material reduction in taxes there will not be the incentive to the creation of jobs thru the expansion of opportunities for self employment, expansion of existing businesses, or creation of new business," he said. "If you have any doubt on this point I suggest that you ask people to put their money into any one of these three fields."

U. S. a War Partner.

Regarding government controls after the war, he said altho Uncle Sam is a "senior partner" in most businesses during war time, he should not be so in peace time, particularly if he wants to be the "managing partner."

"If he attempts to do it he will destroy the employment and business by which he lives," Hancock said. "I do not believe he can manage American business successfully."

Urging a clear and certain price policy after the war, he said:

"Regardless of what the policy should be, there is need for a definition of what it is and in terms that men who provide larger employment can see the advantage of larger production. I think where it is necessary we had better pay a small penalty in higher prices so that industry will produce to bring supply into balance with demand and thereby insure lower prices."

CORPORATIONS' INCOME TAXES DUE ON FRIDAY

The final quarterly instalment of corporation taxes for 1943 will be due as usual Dec. 15 [next Friday] in the case of companies reporting on a calendar year basis, federal bureau of internal revenue officials said yesterday. The bureau has received inquiries indicating that some corporation managements thought they could wait until Jan. 15 to make the payment. Altho amendments to the revenue act have deferred the dates for paying the final instalment of individual estimated taxes for 1944, from Dec. 15 to Jan. 15, the dates for corporation payments and for filing corporation returns were not changed.

Britain, India to Confer Soon on War Debts

British and Indian government leaders are expected to confer early in 1945 on the much discussed issue of India's sterling balances frozen in Britain and methods of liquidating them, Chunilal B. Mehta, Bombay business and industrial leader, said in an interview yesterday in Chicago. He predicted Britain would agree to convert part of India's credits into dollars after the war, but asserted India would need foreign credit for her industrialization program.

Britain owes India approximately four billion dollars in the sterling balances, which amount to IOU's for war time purchases of food, clothing, and fighting material. The general assumption has been that Britain would pay this debt by shipping goods to India after the war.

Delegates Press Request.

India has been anxious for Britain to agree to convert at least part of the balance into dollars which she could use to make post-war purchases of capital goods in the United States. India pursued the subject with little apparent success at the Bretton Woods monetary conference, and at the international business conference last month in Rye, N. Y., when Mehta headed the Indian delegation.

The Bretton Woods conference shunted off India's sterling balances as a "bilateral question" to be settled between Britain and India, Mehta said, but British delegates indicated that the question would be taken up at a conference between the two countries soon.

Mutual Benefit Expected.

"Altho India has not been invited yet to such a conference," said Mehta, "it seems there will be a conference by March, 1945, and it is likely that Britain will agree to convert a portion of the sterling balances into dollars. The amount, tho, will not be sufficient for India's purchases in America. It will mutually benefit the United States and India if the United States will extend credit to India.

"India is on the eve of an economic revolution. It has raw materials, plenty of labor, and home markets. Nothing can impede this industrialization if the Indian government provides the type of fiscal policy which would encourage industry, and foreign credits are made available."

CITY AND STATE URGED TO JOIN IN TRANSIT PLAN

Emphasizing the importance of the attitude taken toward any Chicago traction unification plan by public authorities, the first mortgage bondholders of the surface lines suggested in federal District court yesterday that the city and the Illinois commerce commission be asked to aid in formulating such a plan.

Henry F. Tenney, attorney for the bondholders, said that if this were done the resulting plan, being a "joint product of all concerned," would be more expeditiously put into effect.

Atty. G. Gale Roberson, for the securities and exchange commission, objected to the tentative plan as "vague and indefinite," and as having made no adequate classification of the standing of various creditors and stockholders. Judge Igoe said the SEC has nothing to do with the planning, and will be called only in an advisory capacity when the plan is complete.

East Alton, Ill., Dec. 11 (AP).—Western Cartridge company stockholders today approved the merger of that company with the Olin corporation and the formation as of Jan. 1 of a new parent corporation, Olin Industries.

The merger agreement authorizes issuance of 155,624 shares of preferred and 2,130,300 shares of common stock to be exchanged for outstanding stock of Western Cartridge and Olin corporation.

Olin Industries will operate its manufacturing units as divisions: Winchester Repeating Arms company, New Haven, Conn.; Western Cartridge company, East Alton; Western Brass Mill, East Alton and New Haven; Bond Electric corporation, New Haven; Western Powder Manufacturing company, Peoria, Ill.; Liberty Powder company, Mount Braddock, Pa., and Aluminum, Tacoma, Wash.

Subsidiary corporations include Cellulose Research corporation, East Alton; East Alton Public Service company; Kalunite, Salt Lake City, and United States Cartridge company, which operates the St. Louis ordnance plant.

STOCK INCREASE PUT TO HOLDERS OF CANADA DRY

Stockholders of Canada Dry Ginger Ale, Inc., will be asked at a special meeting next Jan. 8 to approve an increase in preferred and common stock, Roy W. Moore, president, said yesterday in releasing the company's annual report. He explained that the additional working capital was needed for the company's expansion program which was interrupted by the war.

The proposed amendment to the charter provides for increasing the total of authorized preferred shares from 30,208 to 60,000, and of authorized common shares from 850,000 to 1 million.

Moore, in his annual report, said net sales in the fiscal year ended Sept. 30, 1944, were $31,508,266, highest on record, compared with $30,336,128 in the preceding fiscal year.

Consolidated net income in the fiscal year was $1,411,929, or $2.30 a share, against $1,440,613, or $2.34 a share, in the preceding year.

Refunding of Bond Issues Is Arranged by Field's

Marshall Field & Co. has arranged with Metropolitan Life Insurance company for the refunding of two bond issues totaling $21,300,000 held by Metropolitan, Hughston M. McBain, president, said yesterday. He said neither the principal of bonds outstanding nor the rates of interest would be changed.

Highest Court Widens Movie Trust Ruling

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11 (AP).—A Supreme court decision today barred seven southern motion picture exhibitors from buying theaters unless they first show competition will not be restrained. The ruling was a victory for the government which took a far reaching view of its importance in relation to pending Sherman anti-trust act cases in the motion picture field.

Justice Douglas delivered the court's 5 to 1 decision. Justice Roberts dissented without writing an opinion. Justices Frankfurter, Murphy, and Jackson took no part in the case.

Court Directive Asked.

Asking the court for a directive, the government said that otherwise it would be "unable to secure the continued existence of independent theater competition." The problem cannot be solved by a court order after such competition is eliminated, it contended.

The Supreme court thus broadened—while upholding—the decree of the federal District court of middle Tennessee which found that the seven exhibitors and three individual defendants had violated the anti-trust laws. The findings referred to ar. "unreasonable monopoly" by the exhibitors in theater operation in Tennessee, Alabama, and Kentucky. Stockholding inter-relationships of the exhibitors were ordered broken.

The court said "the decree should be revised so as to prohibit future acquisitions of a financial interest in additional theaters outside of Nashville 'except after an affirmative showing that such acquisition will not unreasonably restrain competition.'"

Hold Franchise Used as Weapon.

An injunction restricting the obtaining of franchises from distributors and licensing of films was attacked by the companies as advantagous to distributors at the expense of the exhibitors because it deprived them of group puchasing power. The decision commented that "the chief weapons used by this combination in its unlawful warfare were the franchise agreements and the licensing system."

In its only other formal opinion, the court unanimously dismissed an attempt of the Order of Railway Conductors to nullify election and certification of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen as bargaining agent for road conductors for the Pennsylvania railroad. The court said such relief could not be granted because the national mediation board was not made a party to the legal action. It was the board which held the election and issued the certification.

JARVIS ACCEPTS PLAN TO MERGE WITH DOEHLER

Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 11. (AP).—Stockholders of W. B. Jarvis company, auto accessories maker, now in war production, today approved the proposed merger with Doehler Die Casting Company, reported to be the largest producer of die castings in the United States. Operating plants in Chicago, Toledo, O., Pottstown, Pa., and Batavia, N. Y., Doehler specializes in production of castings in tin, lead, zinc, aluminum, magnesium, brass, and copper.

The merged company will be known as Doehler-Jarvis corporation. Lewis A. Jarvis will be president and H. H. Doehler chairman of the board. Executive offices will be maintained in New York City.

STOCK ADVANCE DRIVES ON THRU 8TH DAY IN ROW

Profit Cashing Fails to Bar New Top.

New York, Dec. 11 (AP).—For the eighth successive session the stock market today negotiated an over-all advance to reach another seven year peak on the seventh straight turnover of more than a million shares.

Altho profit cashing stalled numerous leaders and hesitancy ruled in the forenoon, selected rails and industrials led a rally near the final hour of trading. Losers were plentiful among steels, motors, and some other groups, but gains of fractions to more than a point predominated.

"Longer War" Belief Holds.

Buying of stocks with an armament tinge again was based on predictions that the war against Germany and Japan might be longer and harder than some observers expected. Earnings, dividends, and individual situations also provided a buying stimulus. The long advance, however, revived caution, because of a belief that many bullish factors may have been discounted.

The Associated Press 60 stock composite was up 0.2 to 57.5, top level since the fall of 1937. The market again was broad—935 issues appearing. Of these, 422 were up, 291 down, and 222 unchanged. Transfers of 1,502,350 shares compared with 1,682,940 Friday.

BOND MARKET EASES.

New York, Dec. 11 (AP).—The bond market had many strong spots today, particularly in the rail section, altho the Associated Press carrier average was a shade lower at the close. Industrial and utility averages also eased, but the low yield [high priced] group had a small gain.

As some of last week's rail favorites fell back fractionally under profit taking, active bidding developed for most issues of the Baltimore and Ohio, Lehigh Valley, Missouri Pacific, M-K-T, Cotton Belt, Southern railway, and Seaboard Air Line. Gains ran to more than 3 points.

Transactions amounted to $12,002,600, compared with $13,770,700 last Friday.

CHICAGO LIST UP AGAIN.

Prices rose again yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange, extending last week's sizable advance. Sales totaled 38,000 shares. Volume leaders included Armour, up ¼; Chicago corporation common, unchanged, and New York Central, down ¼. Among issues closing at 1944 peaks were Santa Fe, up 2½; Sears-Roebuck, up 2, and International Harvester, up 1¼.

CIO Plea for Blanket Pact in 4 Case Plants Refused

A request of four local unions of the CIO United Auto Workers that wages and working conditions of 6,119 workers in four plants of the J. I. Case company, in Rockford and Rock Island, Ill.; Racine, Wis., and Burlington, Ia., be governed by a single master contract was turned down by the regional war labor board yesterday. The board ordered the parties to enter collective bargaining negotiations immediately seeking separate agreements for each of the four plants.

Steel Industry Requests WLB to Cancel Pay 'Adjustments'

Asks Price Increase

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11 (AP).—Seventy-three basic steel companies asked the war labor board tonight to reconsider its wage awards two weeks ago on demands of the CIO United Steel Workers union. They branded the ruling "grossly unfair" and asserted it provided pay increases in violation of stabilization policy.

The board exceeded its authority in granting adjustments—such as shift differentials, vacation pay, and rate "inequities," the companies contended. Neither had it the right to make them retroactive, they said. The petition argued that the adjustments amounted to wage increases.

Provisions Not Effective Yet.

John A. Stephens, chairman of the steel case research committee, explained that the major provisions are not and will not become effective except on determination by the office of price administration that they will not require changes in price ceilings or on approval by Stabilization Director Vinson.

"It is unfortunate that steel workers believe the order for wage increases is effective," he said. "Such is not the case.

"The steel companies are very much aware that there is a war and that it has entered vital phases. In view of the war situation, the companies are accepting those parts of the board's directive which are not dependent on the action of Mr. Vinson."

Among these are provisions for maintenance of union membership and check-off of union dues which they asked the board to discontinue.

Representatives of the manufacturing subsidiaries of the United States Steel corporation and the union will meet in Pittsburgh Thursday to discuss those provisions now in effect.

Expect Others to Follow.

Approximately 485,000 employes are affected by the cases of the 86 companies on which the board acted. Most of the approximately 800 steel companies would follow the pattern set by the 86 basic firms, WLB said.

Chairman William H. Davis said at the time of the order that WLB had not even "bent" the Little Steel formula, cornerstone of the administration's wage policy. The steel workers demanded a general 17 cent hourly wage increase, but this was shelved pending the President's decision on whether to lift the present wage ceilings.

Inland Steel company, whose chairman, Edward L. Ryerson, last week said the steel industry could not absorb wage increases and remain solvent without an increase in prices, yesterday filed a petition with the office of price administration requesting permission to raise steel prices.

Wilfred Sykes.

The war labor board last month approved certain wage adjustments which would add materially to the annual "take home" pay of the steel workers.

Cost Up, Price Same, Profit Off.

Wilfred Sykes, Inland president, said in announcing the petition to OPA that price ceilings under which the steel industry operates are at the level that prevailed in 1939. He asserted that operating costs have increased and earnings decreased steadily during the war despite capacity operations.

"In the face of that situation Inland should not be required to accept the new wage increases without price relief," said Sykes. "We have asked for a public hearing in order that we may present the facts."

Inland officials said costs were increased by two general wage increases and boosts in the prices of many materials the company purchases.

BALABAN, KATZ SELLS ROOSEVELT THEATER, TAKES 25 YEAR LEASE

BY AL CHASE.

The Roosevelt theater, 110 N. State st., was sold yesterday by the Balaban & Katz corporation to a New York syndicate for $500,000. County records showed that B. & K. then leased the theater from the Camwill Realty corporation, new owner, at $33.000 annual rental, for 25 years ending Dec. 9, 1969.

The 1,500 seat playhouse was built in 1922 by Ascher Brothers and named after the late President Theodore Roosevelt. Upon completion it was sold to Balaban & Katz for a reported $1,926,000 and has been operated by that firm ever since.

The new owner of the theater negotiated a 20 year loan for $333,000 at 4 per cent interest thru the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, represented by Herbert Becker, Chicago attorney. Hugo Sonneschien of Sonneschien, Berkson, Lautman, Levinson & Morse, was attorney for B. & K.

The land on which the Roosevelt stands fronts 91 feet on State st. and 94 feet on the alley between Randolph and Washington streets. The full appraised valuation of land and building is $528,573.

WFA FIXES EGG PRICE MINIMUM FOR PRODUCERS

A minimum 1945 producer price of 27 cents a dozen for candled eggs, the same as this year, was announced yesterday in Washington, D. C., by Marvin Jones, war food administrator. The price will be supported by purchases from dealers upon certification that they paid no less than the support price to producers.

In areas where facilities for candling eggs are not available, a minimum producer price of 24 cents was announced. In these areas WFA will stand ready to buy eggs from farmers at 24 cents. It was hoped, however, that facilities for candling can be provided in all areas, said E. K. Riley, chief of the midwest procurement and price support division of WFA.

WFA will need substantial quantities of high grade eggs for export, Riley said. The army and navy also will be purchasing high quality eggs.

Western Electric Plans Post-War Television Work

New York, Dec. 11 (AP).—Western Electric company, manufacturing subsidiary of the Bell Telephone system, today announced it would begin the manufacture of television transmitting equipment after the war.

PRICES OF HOGS CLIMB AS SNOW CUTS RECEIPTS

Lively Bidding Lifts Average 45 Cents.

Expects Ceiling Boost

The office of price administration will issue an order today raising the ceiling on hogs weighing more than 270 pounds from $14 to $14.75 a hundred pounds, H. E. Reed, chief of the live stock branch of the war food administration, told the American Farm Bureau federation in the Hotel Sherman yesterday. The Chicago OPA office was unable to verify the statement.

One of the widest price advances of the war swept the country's hog markets yesterday when snowstorms and last week's pressure on prices curtailed arrivals from farms. The largest price gains were at the Chicago stock yards where most of the 16,000 hogs received sold 40 to 50 cents a hundred pounds above last week's close. On other markets prices advanced 15 to 40 cents.

Chicago buyers paid an average price of $14.20, highest in two weeks, and the widest one day advance since April 7, 1941 when a 50 cents rise was recorded. On only two other days since the war started has the average risen more. One was Jan. 15, 1941, when it advanced 60 cents and the other Sept. 6, 1939, a few days after Britain entered the war, when it rose $1.50.

Bidding for Hogs Is Lively.

Altho some of the larger packers refused to follow the steep price rise, buyers who did enter the bidding supplied some of the liveliest competition in many months. One large packer paid up to $14.25, 10 cents from the top price of $14.35 which was paid for loads containing hogs similar to those that sold at $13.85 or $13.90 Friday.

The cattle market extended its recovery from the slump caused about 10 days ago by a new beef set-aside order, and some kinds equaled 1944's highest prices. The top price of $18.50, paid for steers, equalled the highest since 1937 and the highest December price since 1927. Most cattle of all classes sold steady to strong, but some sales were 15 to 25 cents above last week's close. Lambs advanced 10 to 25 cents to the highest prices in 10 days.

If a Giant Oak Falls in a Lonely Wood

... DOES IT MAKE A NOISE?

Remember the discussions of college philosophy—how existence depended on perception and hence the falling tree made a noise only if there were ears to hear?

A gigantic radio program—good time, name stars, skilled production—may fall flat as far as results are concerned. Unless the commercials, the sales messages, are handled so adroitly that they reach the audience's ears. Unless they are perceived and get action.

A Few Days Left This Year To Review Your Will

Probably 1944 has been a busy year for you, full of wartime, work-filled days. Have you, like so many other Americans of means, been too occupied to bring your plans for your family's future financial security up to date?

New conditions affecting your business, your investments, or your family situation may have made certain provisions in your estate program obsolete. The provisions you have set up to provide cash for the payment of estate taxes may require revision. Rigid investment instructions in your will may jeopardize your family's income, after your death, by hamstringing the ability of even the most competent executor and trustee to conserve your estate.

Your collaboration with your lawyer, and a trust officer, is the effective way to plan an estate program.

ILLINOIS BANKS READY TO MAKE LOANS TO VETS

Improvements Suggested in G. I. Bill of Rights.

Bankers thruout Illinois are preparing actively for what probably will be their broadest single lending job—making home, farm, and business loans to a large number of the returning service men and women covered by the G. I. Bill of Rights. More than 1 million veterans, including about 100,000 from Illinois, already have resumed civilian life.

The bankers are setting up the necessary machinery for the job, even tho full operations under the bill are not possible yet. Instructions covering farm and business loans have not been distributed. Some of the home lending provisions appear to need revision, said banking sources.

Besides providing for various educational and medical assistance, the G. I. bill pledges the government to guarantee $2,000 of all approved loans of $4,000 and more, and half the amounts of those below that figure.

Rathje Expresses General View.

General banker opinion was expressed by Frank C. Rathje, vice president of the American Bankers association and president of the Chicago City Bank and Trust company and the Mutual National bank.

"I feel that the general theory of the law is right and benefits such as it provides should be available to the returning veteran," he said. "I am not one who thinks the bill is perfect, however."

From the bankers and others come these recommendations to make the measure more workable:

1. Specify in the home loan regulations the servicing agency that will appraise the value of the premises involved.

2. Make some loan provision for the borrower who is not yet ready to buy a home, farm, or business.

3. Boost the interest rate from 4 to 5 per cent, apportioning ½ per cent to the lending agency as a service charge and ½ per cent to a reserve pool insuring the loans.

4. Make certain that the loan benefits will be available in like measure to veterans released now and later.

Rights for Minors Urged.

5. Amend the Illinois law so minors can obtain the loans provided.

6. Draft legislation authorizing insurance companies in Illinois to exceed their present loan limit of 63% per cent of value.

Chester R. Davis, vice president and trust officer of the Chicago Title and Trust company, and chairman of the A. B. A. committee on service for war veterans, said a proper understanding of purposes of the bill will be necessary to accomplish its objectives.

An official of a Chicago loop bank commented:

"The idea behind the law is to make loans on which there is a reasonable expectancy of repayment and which will benefit the veteran and his community. It is the worst thing in the world to make a loan a man cannot handle and which will hang over his head the rest of his life. Our job is to give sound, fatherly advice."

ROYAL TYPEWRITER.

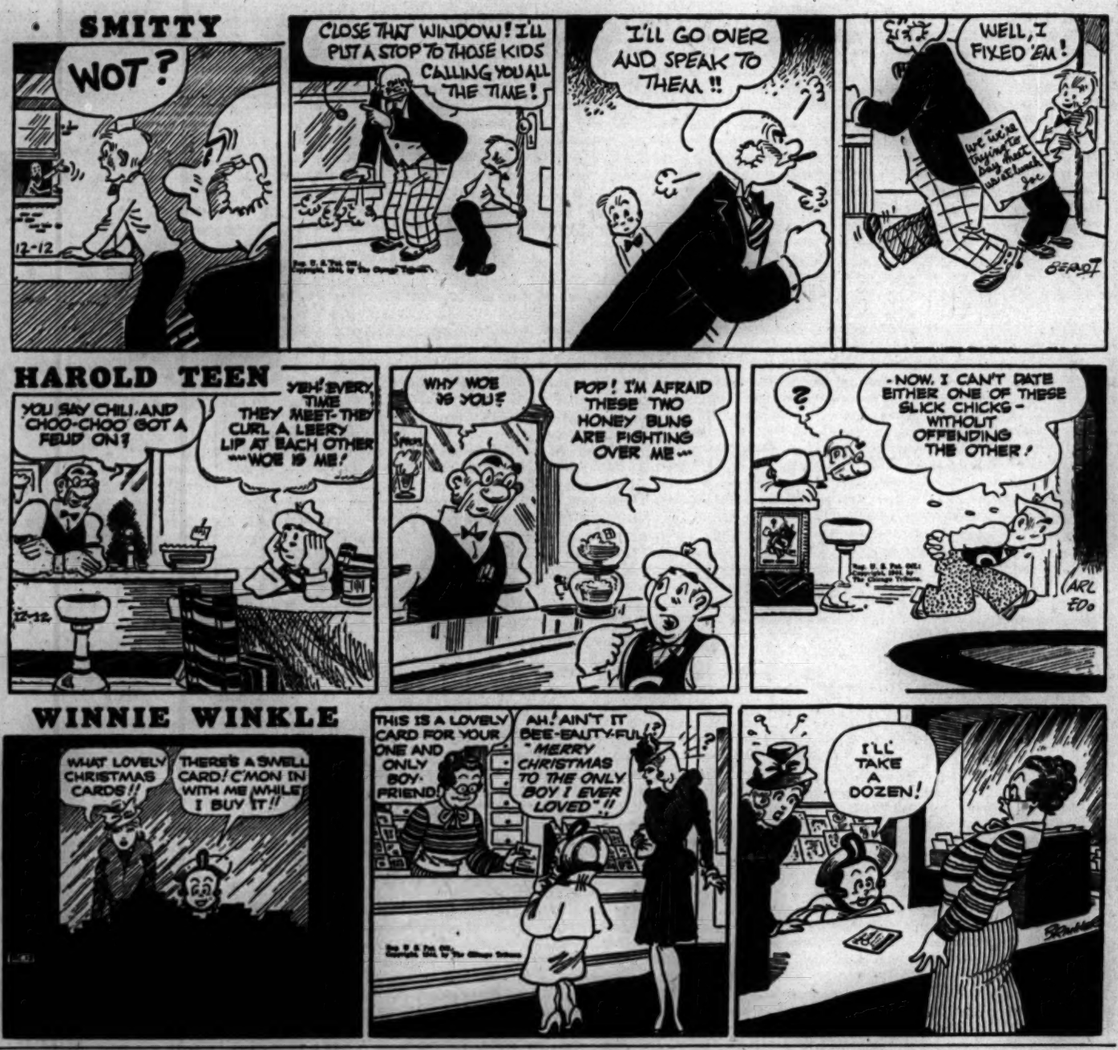
I am interested in the post-war outlook of Royal Typewriter company. How do current earnings compare with those before Pearl Harbor?—E. H.

Profit margins after taxes have been smaller on the company's war work than on its normal business. The $18,758,000 net sales in the fiscal year ended last July were approximately the same as in the 1940 and 1939 fiscal periods, but the profit in the latest period was equal to only 74 cents a common share compared with $1.98 in 1940 and $1.29 in 1939 as adjusted in each case for a 300 per cent dividend in stock distributed in 1943.

In 1942 on $22,223,000 sales the company netted $2.06 a share; and in 1941, on $24,375,000 sales, $2.30 a share. In 1943 the share earnings dropped to 6 cents. The recovery in the 1944 fiscal year was not fully maintained in the three months ended Oct. 31, 1944, when profit was 14 cents, compared with 35 cents in the preceding year.

Royal has been making airplane engine parts, machine guns, rifles, bullets, and bomb fuses. Manufacture of typewriters ceased after October, 1942, but production of standard models was resumed on a limited scale last June. Because of accumulated civilian needs the early post-war sales outlook, domestic and export, is considered good. Government sales of surplus typewriters are expected to be conducted so as to effect an orderly long term distribution.

Outstanding common stock amounts to 1,074,472 shares, on which 60 cents in dividends was paid this year. The nonredeemable $7 preferred stock amounts to 37,692 shares, $100 par. There is no funded debt.



HOLDS EUROPE'S NEED FOR FOODS WILL CONTINUE

Foods with a long production cycle or those requiring processing will be the ones most needed in Europe for several years, Lt. Col. Ralph W. Olmstead, the war food administration's deputy director for supply, said yesterday.

Col. R. W. Olmstead.

Recently returned from a trip to England, France, and Russia, Col. Olmstead told a press conference that the Ukraine probably can return to normal production of grain, beans, peas, and similar crops by next year, but that it would take three years for such foods as meats, fats, and oils, and sugar.

Russia Worst Off for Food.

Of the countries he has visited, Russia has by far the most acute food shortage, he said. The United States thru lend-lease is sending Russia mostly vegetable oil, lard, fat backs [pork], canned meats, and some cured meats, the larger part of which goes to the army.

One can of tushonka, which is pork and fat flavored with bay leaf, sent thru lend-lease, represents a Russian's meat ration for five weeks, he said.

The English diet is good, but monotonous, and prices, controled by the government, are low, he said. French food requirements have been smaller than anticipated, because 1944 crops were good and the Germans were unable to remove them.

Transport Is Italy's Problem.

In Italy, the food problem apparently is primarily one of transportation, Col. Olmstead said.

Food shipments to Europe are not increasing, he said, but dried egg exports are large and are sent wherever needed to help free the United States of the surplus remaining after unprecedented production last spring.

Col. Olmstead expected 1945 egg production to be large, but did not anticipate "another egg problem."

SOUTH'S COTTON LOSES CROWN TO SWEET POTATO

Cattle Fed New Type Instead of Corn.

The sweet potato gradually is changing the basic agriculture of southern states from cotton culture to a diversified program of live stock production and dairy farming, southern farmers at the American Farm Bureau federation meeting in the Hotel Sherman said yesterday.

J. F. Percy, Alexandria, La., president of the Louisiana State Farm bureau, said that Dr. Julian C. Miller, chief horticulturist of Louisiana State university, is being widely praised for his development of new strains of sweet potatoes which are being fed to dairy and beef animals in the south as a substitute for corn.

Cotton Acreage Reduced.

Percy termed the change in crops important because it is permitting southern farmers to feed more dairy and beef animals and forcing them to put more acreage into hay and forage crops, thus further reducing the acreage of soil depleting cotton.

"Southern farmers formerly sold thousands of Hereford and Angus calves to northern farmers for finishing because they didn't have sufficient protein feed," Percy said. "Now these farmers, using sweet potatoes and hybrid corn as finishing feeds, are holding the cattle until they are ready for market and obtaining the profits that result."

Yield 200 Bushels to Acre.

Percy said southern fields which will produce 30 bushels of corn to the acre are producing up to 200 bushels of Dr. Miller's "unit 1 strain" of sweet potatoes. It takes about three bushels of sweet potatoes to equal a bushel of corn in beef producing value.

DROP IN EXPORTS OF FARM GOODS HELD PROBABLE

Pessimism relative to post-war exports of agricultural products was expressed yesterday by A. D. Brownfield of Deming, N. M., president of the American National Live Stock association, in a speech before the American Farm Bureau federation in Hotel Sherman.

Brownfield said it appears obvious that there will be heavy surpluses of agricultural products in 30 other countries in the post-war period, therefore little demand for American exports.

"At the moment," he said, "the internationalists, free traders, and export trade boomers are riding high, but most of those who advocate the glories of increased foreign trade have never told the public how it will benefit this country to manufacture goods for export if these goods can be paid for only by accepting imports of products which we already produce either in surplus or in adequate volume for our domestic needs."

Tribute Paid to Stock Raisers.

Brownfield paid tribute to the war time beef production record made by western ranchers and corn belt feeders.

"Our normal production of beef animals is well below 20 billion pounds," he said, "but this year the total production will be almost 25 billion pounds. This record has been made despite the fact that labor has been scarce, wage levels have increased, and corn ceilings have been advanced. In view of the fact that the office of price administration has refused to make adjustments for these sharp increases in the cost of cattle production, I think the beef cattle industry can be proud of its accomplishment."

Huge Farm Production.

Another example of the increased production from American farms was provided by F. C. Gaylord of Purdue university's college of agriculture, who compared vegetable and fruit production of the 1937 to 1941 period with that of this season.

"The 1944 pack of canned fruits and fruit juices will be around 114 million cases [of 24 size 2½ cans] compared with 77 million cases per year from 1937 to 1941," he said. "Similarly, the dehydrated vegetable pack jumped from less than five million pounds previous to 1941 to 226 million pounds in 1944. Frozen fruits and vegetables jumped from 237 million pounds to 535 million pounds."

GRAINS HIGHER; WHEAT CLIMBS ON MILL BUYING

Mill buying plus reports that ceiling prices were paid for cash wheat in Kansas City lifted wheat futures yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade and other grains were firm to higher. May and July wheat sold at new seasonal high prices and December sold the highest since last April. The close was ⅛ to ⅛ cent a bushel higher.

Heavy snow in the central west reduced country corn offerings and strengthened corn futures, which closed ½ to ⅞ higher with December at a new high since last October. Oats gained ⅛ to ⅝ cent, rye ¼ to 1⅛ cents, December leading, and barley ⅛ to ½ cent.

NORTHWEST AIRLINES PAYS BIG TAX IN HOME COUNTY; MAY MOVE

Northwest Airlines paid Ramsey county, Minnesota, $128,541 in personal property taxes on the company's fleet of planes for the five years from 1939 thru 1943, the company reported yesterday.

The payment was made in compliance with a United States Supreme court decision holding that the state was entitled to tax all of the planes in the N. W. A. fleet on the ground that the company is incorporated under the laws of Minnesota and that its headquarters and home port are in Ramsey county.

The company, which pays taxes on some portions of its fleet in six other states, said it is considering moving its home offices to another state unless the "tax situation is remedied." Legislation which would apportion air line tax payments among the several states along the air routes has been recommended, the company said.
